Residents Urged To Sue Mosquito Abatement Dist.

Schaumburg residents were urged Tuesday night to file a class-action suit against the Northwest Mosquito Abatement District (NMAD) in response to the district's refusal to fog against mosquitoes in the village.

But a representative of Levitt and Sons developers agreed his firm would finance fogging with non-toxic materials in Sheffield Park East, where most difficulties have been noted.

Mayor Robert O. Atcher and Village Atty. Jack Siegel told citizens and the village board NMAD had denied a village request for emergency fogging. NMAD said it would fog in the village only if Siegel would write a letter to Wilbur Mitchell, NMAD director, officially recognizing NMAD as a licensed exterminator in the state.

IN 1970 the village approved an ordinance prohibiting fogging for mosquitoes with Malathion and other toxic chemicals, except by licensed exterminators. As Atcher commented Tuesday, the ordinance was directed at NMAD, which uses Malathion. NMAD filed suit against the villages of Schaumburg and Palatine, which has a similar ordinance, claiming its right to perform its functions was being abridged.

The suit still is pending, and this summer Schaumburg, like most other area communities, is infested with a bumper mosquito crop. Citing a clause in its ordinance allowing use of Malathion in emergencies, the village last week asked NMAD to fog with the chemical in the village. When residents of Sheffield Park East asked Tuesday why there had been no fogging, Siegel relayed NMAD's response.

Siegel and Atcher said they could not write the requested letter, because it would exempt NMAD from the ordinance and leave the village in an untenable position in defending the law suit.

But Village Clerk Sandy Carsello, saying she wished to speak only as a resident, urged the board to take some action in the matter.

"THE ONLY people getting hurt are the residents of the village of Schaumburg," she said. Is it really right that the village should infringe on the NMAD from spraying and the citizens from benefiting? she asked.

"I still think the board owes something to these residents. You're going to drag it out and drag it out and we still can't go out of our homes. You're not hurting the mosquito abatement district. It's the residents who are getting hurt," said Mrs. Carsello.

Atcher agreed the village "has got to do something about mosquitoes," but said the district's action "leaves us in a posi-

We're Not Only Ones With Too Many Mosquitos

Complaints on mosquitoes are not limited to Schaumburg and Palatine, the two area villages that have ordinances banning fogging with malathion by the Northwest Mosquito Abatement District.

Hoffman Estates and village officials Monday night complained that NMAD still had not fogged for mosquitoes in their village.

Mayor Frederick Downey reported the village had requested the fogging and had only recently received an answer. He was told the district would not spray extensively in Hoffman Estates until it received an official map of the neighboring Village of Schaumburg, said Downey.

Schaumburg's ordinance prohibits fogging with malathion, a chemical used by NMAD, which the village contends is hazardous to the health of wildlife and village residents. NMAD has sued Schaumburg over the ordinance, and trial of the suit is pending. Hoffman Estates does not have such an ordinance.

DOWNNEY SAID he was told the two villages' boundaries are so intermingled, with Schaumburg "surrounding much of Hoffman Estates," that NMAD would not spray in Hoffman without being certain of village lines.

NMAD had asked Schaumburg for a map, but did not receive it until just recently, Downey said he was told. He criticized NMAD for not requesting a Hoffman Estates map, noting Hoffman Estates residents are paying for a service they have requested, and had not been receiving, blaming litigation over the Schaumburg ordinance for the difficulty. He also denied Schaumburg surrounds Hoffman Estates.

Trustee Dianne Jensen suggested the village should insist NMAD provide village residents with a schedule of when they will spray in each location. Some village residents suffer from asthma or allergies, she said, and should have ample warning to stay indoors or vacate their homes during the fogging process.

Trustee Bruce Lind agreed, but added he was anxious for the fogging to start.

Northwest Tollway May Open Friday

Construction along the Northwest Tollway may be completed in time for weekend traffic.

Work on the 11-mile project is proceeding ahead of schedule, according to Fran O'Connor, a spokesman for the Illinois State Toll Highway Authority.

Barring rain, which would delay the drawing of lane markers, the three east-bound lanes between Meacham Road and the Kennedy Expressway may be open for traffic Friday night, she said.

But until completion of the work, east-bound traffic will be limited to one lane.

The three westbound lanes were opened last Wednesday night, nearly two weeks ahead of schedule.

Work also was completed last week on the Tri-State Tollway, which underwent 11 miles of resurfacing immediately south of the Northwest Tollway interchange.

SHOULDER WORK, lane markings and the removal of barricades are all that remain to be done on the eastbound Northwest Tollway, according to Mrs. O'Connor.

If the three lanes are not open Friday night, she said they probably would be opened sometime over the weekend or "definitely" by Tuesday, the deadline for completion of the project.

Total cost of both projects was $5.6 million.

Additional work may be scheduled for next summer, according to Mrs. O'Connor. Formal approval is expected for the addition of a third lane between Harlem Avenue and U.S. Rte. 66-interstate 55 on the Tri-State Tollway.

Consideration also is being given to expanding the Northwest Tollway from four to six lanes west of Meacham Road, and the Tri-State Tollway from four to six lanes north of Rte. 137.

Brother, Sister Recover

Kidney Transplant Is Successful

by JERRY THOMAS

The surgery is over for both Sharon and Gerald Cody. Sharon, 31, speaking from her parents' home in Chicago, said she feels very well and her brother Gerald, 27, a school teacher at Schaumburg Elementary School, should be back at school in September.

"I guess a part of me will be there too, since the kidney donated to my brother has thus far not been rejected by his body," said Sharon.

Sharon said Gerald still must go into the hospital three times a week for tests to determine what drug dosage will help his new kidney function best. He will also take medication for the rest of his life.

"BUT FOR THE first time in many years he is free from the dialysis machine and can eat or drink whatever he likes," said Sharon.

Cody suffered severe kidney malfunction about four years ago and had been months ago both his kidneys were removed.

Sharon said her decision to donate one of her kidneys to her brother and the wait before the transplant operation that took place a month ago were more difficult than the actual operation.

"I had to face the fact that the operation could be fatal to me or Gerald and that even if it were successful the kidney could be rejected by Gerald's body," said Sharon.

"Happily we have, according to the doctors, passed the first period when the kidney may have been rejected and Gerald seems to get stronger every day," said Sharon. She added that she, too, is recovering well from the surgery and should be back to work soon.

AN AREA-WIDE BLOOD drive organized by the Schaumburg Education Association and School Dist. 54 staff members replenished all the blood Sharon and Gerald needed for the operation performed at Billings Hospital in Chicago.

"My brother and I would like to thank all those people who sent cards while we were in the hospital and donated the blood we needed," said Sharon.

Gerald, who is also staying at his parents' home, could not speak right now, said Sharon.

"HE'S NOT EXACTLY resting. He heard our neighborhood church was holding a rummage sale so he is out canvassing the neighborhood for old clothes and toys and helping with the sale," said Sharon.

"Now do you believe he is getting better?" she asked.

Cody lost little time from school during his illness. Besides being a fourth grade teacher he was past president of the Schaumburg Education Association and is still an active member.

This Morning In Brief

The World

A British court ordered the immediate release of five imprisoned longshoremen, apparently averting a proposed one-day national strike called for Monday by the 10-million member British Trade Union Congress.

A day of mourning was called by Protestant groups for victims of the Irish Republican Army's "Bloody Friday." It came as military sources said a British army assault on IRA strongholds in Londonderry may be imminent.

U.S. grand master Bobby Fischer, who was convinced he would win the seventh game of the world championship chess match, had to settle for a draw against titleholder Boris Spassky of the Soviet Union. After the game, the unpredictable Fischer surprised Icelandic organizers of the $250,000, 24-game match by promising to reconsider his demand to bar television cameras from the Icelandic Chess Hall and summoned the producer for the American Broadcasting Co. ABC which owns the rights to film the games.

The Nation

Democratic Party reaction to Sen. Thomas Eagleton, after his disclosure of his past psychiatric treatment, was generally favorable. Chicago Mayor Richard Daley called Eagleton "honest and straightforward" and "a great American."

President Nixon, hoping to turn election-year spending increases into a political liability for the Democratic Congress, vowed to veto any bills that threaten his budget. He said he was determined to avoid higher taxes and increased inflation.

Gov. George Wallace said he would not attend the American Independent Party's convention in Louisville, Ky., next week, but withheld comment on whether he would accept the party's nomination for President.

The State

Two more Chicago policemen were indicted by a special federal grand jury investigating extortion by policemen. Thirteen policemen now have been charged with shakedowns of businessmen.

Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie and Sen. Charles H. Percy said they are urging the federal government to return 170 acres of Fort Sheridan along Lake Michigan to public use.

State Sen. Bernard Neinstein's attorneys filed a motion admitting he was not duly elected committeeman from Chicago's 29th Ward. The suit challenging his election was dropped.

The War

The Market

Stock prices stumbled lower on profit taking and lack of interest in dull trading on the New York Stock Exchange Wednesday as traders rested on recent large gains. The Dow Jones average lost 1.88 to 932.57. It had gained more than 30 points recently. Declines outnumbered advances, 804 to 626, among the 1,744 issues crossing the tape. Turnover dwindled to 14,130,000 shares from the 17,160,000 traded Tuesday. Prices were lower in moderate trading on the American Stock Exchange. Turnover totaled 3,380,000 shares, compared with 3,630,000 traded Tuesday.

'U.S. Censorship Same As In U.S.S.R.' Pulitzer Prize Winner Says Here

The Gospel According To Anderson

by TOM WELLMAN

The Ralph Nader of journalism stood up in front of 200 persons at Harper College Tuesday night and sharply attacked government secrecy.

"There's not one particle of difference between censorship in the Soviet Union and classification of documents in the United States," Jack Anderson told his audience.

Anderson is an expert on government classification, as his columns revealing the contents of secret documents during the India-Pakistan War won him a Pulitzer Prize earlier this year.

"Government . . . is your servant but it would like to be your master," Anderson told his audience. "Government is very subtly and quietly trying to control the flow of information."

GOVERNMENTS STAY in power by controlling the flow of information, or they get voted out of office, Anderson said. He reminded his audience that other governments besides the Nixon administration have managed news.

At the beginning of his speech, Anderson called both Richard Nixon and George McGovern "competent, honorable, basically decent, dedicated and devoted men."

Nixon, he said, is a "private and introverted man who lives in a shell. He's the most political President we've ever had."

"There are few men more competent at understanding the paperwork of the Presidency." But Nixon "avoids the clash, the spark of controversy" and "doesn't understand the human undercurrents and doesn't understand people — their passions, their feelings, their moods," he said.

While Nixon doesn't understand people, McGovern "has a compassion for them." But McGovern "is vague about problems" and solutions, said Anderson.

IN THE question-and-answer session after the speech, Anderson blasted the present Justice Department for "getting into politics" and prosecuting far more Democrats than Republicans.

Terming it an alarming development, Anderson said Nixon's campaign supporters were given "favors" by the Justice Department.

If Anderson has learned anything in "25 years at ringside in Washington, it's that no issue has a simple solution." And he listed three problems which, to him, had no such easy solutions:

—Crime: If you want to get rid of crime, you have to pay more, explained Anderson. Slogans, the peace sign or a "25-cent bumper sticker" won't end crime in this country.

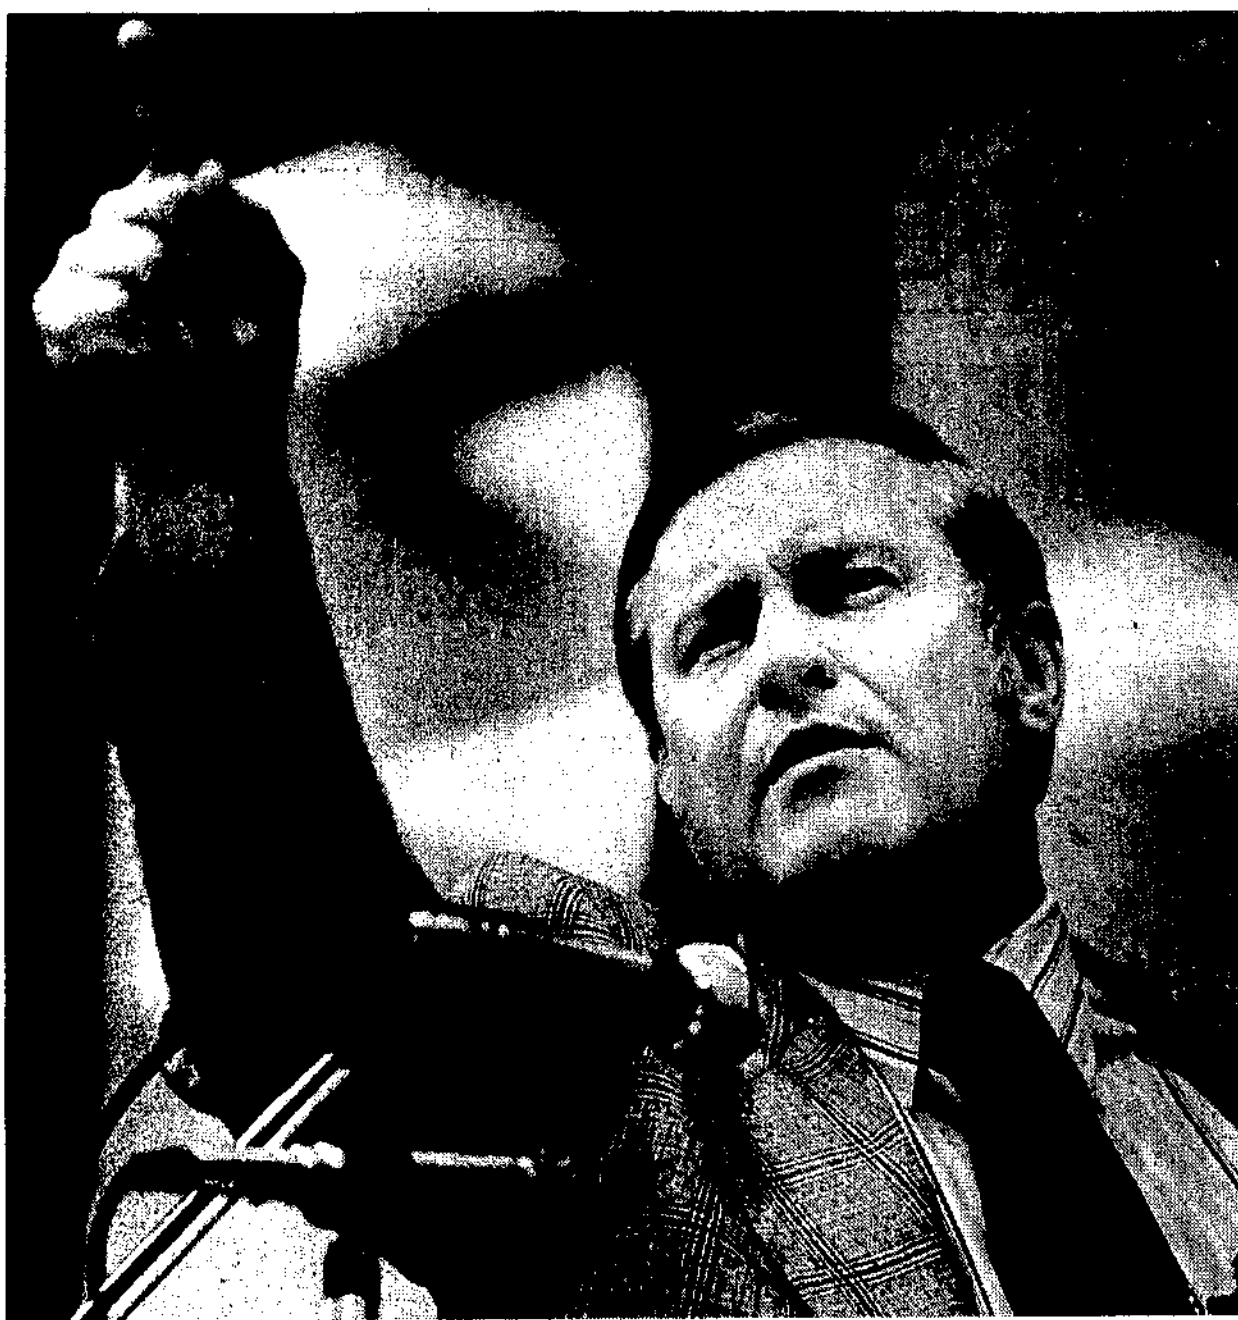

—Poverty and hunger: Anderson directed his wrath at "23,000 oil millionaires who have collected more billions from taxpayers than all 23 million hungry Americans (have received)."

He said millionaires J. Paul Getty and H. L. Hunt have not paid more than $4,500 in federal income tax in the last few years. "I'm helping to drape their women in mink and sable," snapped Anderson.

He said one dependent child in Mississippi receives an average of $9.80 a month in welfare — while Miss. Sen. James Eastland, a Democrat, received $213,000 last year for not growing cotton on his farm.

"I didn't grow any cotton that year either," said Anderson.

—Vietnam: "I'm gonna tear your solutions to pieces," Anderson told his audience. "If you think you know the answer, then you're wrong." The U.S. wasn't justified in being there in the first place, and should get out as soon as possible, he said. But North Vietnam has been just as aggressive as the U.S. government has been, and there is simply no easy way to end our involvement there, Anderson said.

BEFORE HIS SPEECH, Anderson said government secrecy has increased since the publication of the Pentagon Papers. "Our government simply doesn't want us to know the arguments against their policy . . . they hide errors, cover blunders and classify mistakes," he said.

And, at the end of his speech, before his audience gave him loud applause, Anderson stressed that, as an American, there were certain values which were especially important to him.

"I choke up physically at the thought of losing my freedom," he said.

Program Affects P.E., Driver Education

Teaching Loads Lightened

Physical education and driver education teachers in High School Dist. 211 will find themselves with lighter teaching loads next year as a result of action Tuesday night by the district's board of education.

The board adopted recommendations from a faculty-administration committee calling for a reduction, over a two-year period, of teaching loads for P.E. and driver education to five class assignment periods. Other teachers in the district now are generally assigned five class periods and homeroom.

In the past, P.E. and driver education teachers have had five classes and one period of supervision of study hall for a total of six assignments. Next year they will have 5½ assignments and the following year five assignments.

ALSO, THE BOARD adopted the committee's recommendation to create an administrative division to handle P.E., athletics and driver training at Schaumburg and Hoffman Estates high schools. The division head, who will be named later, will supervise the programs at both schools.

If the new system of supervision is successful, board Pres. Robert Creek said, it will be expanded to include the other three schools in the district.

Creek added that the committee's recommendation proved the board right in its stand in present negotiations with its teachers. "The board believes people should be able to sit down and solve their problems," he said.

Teachers have been pressing in negotiations for the addition of specific working conditions to the contract and for guarantees of teacher participation on policy making committees.

NEGOTIATIONS ARE presently bogged down, with no firm agreements on any matter in the 1972-73 teachers contract.

The board also approved a 1972-73 contract with Local 11 of the Service Employees Union, which represents the district's custodians. The new contract calls for an average wage increase of 5.5 per cent.

In other action, the board:

—Approved by a six to one vote a merit salary increase of $4,700 for "outstanding performance" to Supt. Richard Kolze. The increase will make his annual salary $34,700 on Sept. 1. Board member Alex Langsdorf voted against the raise, saying, "I don't disagree with the spirit of the raise, just with the exact amount."

—Approved student fees for the coming school year in the amount of $17 per student. The fees include an optional fee of $2 for gym towels and $2.50 for student newspaper subscription.

Developer Will Replace Dead Trees On Parkway

Concern among residents in Winston Knolls, Hoffman Estates over dead trees on the parkway on Dixon Drive has evoked a response from the developer, Centex Homes.

Tom Cooper, marketing vice president of Centex, said the firm will replace the trees. The trees in question are on the parkway and not on the homeowners' property. Consequently, Centex is answerable to the village on this matter.

The village holds a performance bond from Centex, representing an amount of money to assure all obligations are fulfilled. The village will not release the bond until the dead trees are replaced.

Mrs. Marshall Karlin, 412 Dixon Dr., said dead trees have been on the parkway for three years. She said residents have been complaining to the village about them for a long time.

Cooper said the firm will replace the trees in the fall. He said they cannot be replaced under current weather conditions because they will only die again.

He also said a tree often suffers a form of shock when it is replanted from one location to another. The tree may appear to be dead, but it will rejuvenate the following season.

The formal obligation compels Centex Homes to replace the trees. But Cooper said the company is also concerned about the matter because it plans to continue doing business in the area and wants to maintain a good relationship with the village and its residents.

Many Auto Crashes Occur

A rash of traffic accidents was reported to police yesterday afternoon in Hoffman Estates and Schaumburg as rain and fog brought slick streets and hazardous driving conditions.

A half dozen accidents, mostly "fender benders," had been reported by early evening. What appeared to be the most serious accident occurred shortly before 4 p.m. at Higgins and Roselle roads in Hoffman Estates.

There a two-car crash sent a father and son from Waukegan to the hospital with injuries.

A spokesman for Alexian Brothers Medical Center, Elk Grove Village, said Richard Fries, 47, and son Tim, 13, suffered head and facial cuts. They were to be treated and released.

Equipment from the Hoffman Estates Fire Protection District was called to the scene to hose down the area.

New Effort To Halt Work On Sewerage Plant Seen

Des Plaines and Metropolitan Sanitary District (MSD) officials will meet Aug. 8 to discuss possible new city efforts to block construction of a $48 million sewage treatment plant on the city's west side.

John Egan, MSD president, will meet with Des Plaines Mayor Herbert Behrel and city aldermen to request that the city give up ownership of a three-block section of Wille Road to clear the way for construction of the huge sewage plant, which would serve most of the Northwest suburbs.

Several city officials have said the city could continue its seven-year fight against construction of the plant on a 106-acre Oakton Street and Elmhurst Road site by refusing to vacate Wille Road, forcing a lengthy court battle.

The council voted unanimously last winter "to spare no expense" in efforts to block construction of the plant, which it feels will produce obnoxious and unhealthy odors in a 12,000-resident neighborhood that already is subjected to air and noise pollution from O'Hare Airport.

MSD officials have said no odors would come from the plant.

The MSD wants to construct the plant, which would process up to 100 million gallons of sewage daily at full capacity, to meet the growing needs of the Northwest suburbs.

The plant would receive sewage from a 38,000-acre area, including Arlington Heights, Mount Prospect, Prospect Heights, Elk Grove Village and parts of Des Plaines, Buffalo Grove and Wheeling.

The city had waged a six-year court fight against construction of the plant, maintaining that it could not be constructed under the city's zoning. The Illinois Supreme Court finally ruled that the MSD powers as a special district were greater than Des Plaines zoning authority.

Several city officials, including Ald. Alan Abrams (8th) have stated that the city's new home rule powers, granted last summer, would give the city new legal strength to resist MSD actions, including any move to condemn sections of Wille Road.

The MSD, which has been awaiting federal and state grants for construction of the new plant, first requested in May that city and MSD officials meet to discuss Wille Road, and a city request for a storm sewer right-of-way through the MSD property.

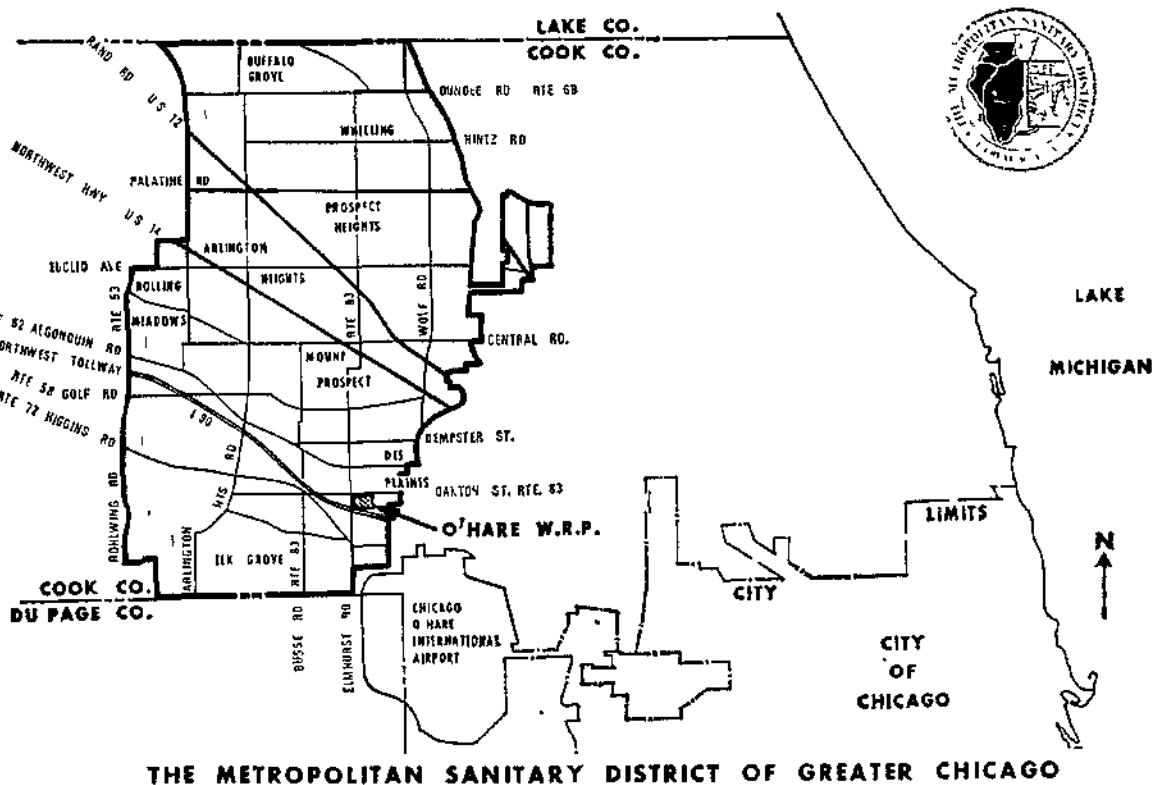

IN ANNOUNCING the meeting at his weekly press conference, Behrel said that the meeting would be held at 8 p.m. Tuesday, Aug. 8, but no meeting place had been named as yet, because the city does not know yet how many MSD officials or residents may attend.

MSD officials have told the Herald that the vacating of Wille is necessary to allow construction of the huge plant. If the city refuses to give up ownership, MSD will be forced to condemn the road, according to a spokesman for MSD Atty. Allen Lavin.

According to both of the aldermen whose 8th Ward includes the Oakton-Elmhurst plant site, MSD would have to prove its power in court to condemn land of another government unit. Wille is needed by the city for proper development of the area, according to Ald. Robert Michaels (8th).

Wille cuts through the bottom third of the MSD-owned site, which is bounded by Oakton on the north, Marshall Drive on the east, the Northwest Tollway on the south and Elmhurst on the west. Wille intersects Marshall and Elmhurst.

THE METROPOLITAN SANITARY DISTRICT OF GREATER CHICAGO

VINCENT FLOOD, MSD assistant attorney, said the plant would be constructed west of a lake on the eastern third of the property. Treated sewage water would be poured into Higgins-Wilow Creek, which flows through the site.

MSD wants Wille vacated from Marshall to Elmhurst. Marshall then could be extended to Oakton, to give road access from Wille east of the MAD site, Flood told the Herald.

Wille now presents some hazardous traffic problems where it intersects with Elmhurst, Flood has said. Traffic turning into Elmhurst or into Wille blocks traffic on Elmhurst, at an unusually congested spot, where cars are coming and going from the tollway, he said.

Abrams said the vacating of Wille would "dramatically affect development of the west side of Des Plaines." Without Wille, no east-west access from Elmhurst to Mount Prospect Road would exist between Oakton and Higgins road, a large area, he said.

Factory properties and a proposed $28 million hotel-exposition hall development east of Marshall might be adversely affected by closing Wille. Extending Marshall to Oakton is a "poor solution," he has said.

Could End Strike

Printers To Vote On Settlement

A special meeting of the Chicago Typographical Union Local 16 members will be held Sunday to vote on a proposed settlement with the multi-employer Franklin Association. A favorable vote would end the strike by Local 16 members in effect since July 5.

Fred Hunt Jr. of Des Plaines, president of Local 16, said this settlement would mean a return to work for some 650 of the 2,000 job printing workers in the Chicago metropolitan area. No details of the settlement will be released until after the July 30 vote is held at the Engineering Building, Chicago.

"THERE ARE 25 shops where workers are either locked out or are still on strike," said Hunt. "Of this number, 21 were locked out."

George Houlihan, secretary and general manager of the Franklin Association, said earlier that the employer group did not call for a lockout. He did admit that once selective strikes began against member companies, other members ceased operation according to regulations.

Union members who remained on the job worked for companies which had signed interim agreements with Local 16.

Journeymen printers now earn $229 a week. Firms which signed the interim agreements will pay $240 a week, according to Hunt.

Wages and benefits were at stake in the dispute. The contract between Local 16 and the Franklin Association expired June 6. The union had requested a first-year increase of $15 a week for journeymen printers, compared to the union Franklin Association offer of $2 a week starting in December.

A TWO-YEAR contract will be voted upon at the 11 a.m. meeting on Sunday, according to Hunt. He said the proposed agreement is within President Nixon's Pay Board guidelines. The board seeks to limit pay increases at the 5.5 per cent a year level.

Representatives of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service were consulted several times during the dispute, according to Hunt. He indicated that the federal agency did not participate in the final contract settlement reached July 25.

Striking journeymen printers receive $143.40 a week in strike benefits. The strike was authorized by John J. Pilch, president of the International Typographical Union Executive Council.

Sen. Eagleton, Sen. McGovern after nomination.

Just Politics

Eagleton Damages Ticket's Chances

by BOB LAHEY

If there was anything that Sen. George McGovern did not need in his quest for the Presidency, it was a surprise from his vice presidential running mate.

The shock announcement of Sen. Thomas Eagleton's history of nervous exhaustion, coming as it did as a surprise to the Democratic presidential nominee, cannot help but damage McGovern's campaign, perhaps fatally.

However uncomfortable one feels in throwing up a man's past difficulties, especially when he is treading upon the fringes of history, perhaps greatness, the previously unrevealed fact of Eagleton's past illness will not be erased from the minds of voters. No more than Sen. Edward M. Kennedy will ever be allowed to forget the name Chappaquiddick; no more than Sen. Edmund Muskie can recall his tears on the steps of the Manchester Guardian building; no more than Sen. Barry Goldwater could blot out his words on "extremism" or "defoliation" in the 1964 campaign.

IF SEN. Eagleton were able to prove — which of course he cannot — that there was no future danger whatsoever of his illness ever recurring, two questions remain that are inescapable for him and for McGovern.

The first, of course, is: Why did he not inform the man seeking the Presidency of the potential liability in his past?

Bob Lahey

The second: How did a man aspiring to the Presidency choose as a running mate a candidate about whom he obviously knew so little?

One could argue that the very fact that Eagleton did not reveal his past illness to McGovern is evidence of his own confidence in his permanent recovery.

A St. Louis Globe-Democrat reporter who was with Eagleton when McGovern telephoned to offer him a chance at the second highest office in the land related later that the Missouri senator was completely and totally surprised by the call.

It is conceivable that one might forget the potentially disastrous illness in the shock of such a moment. And yet, in the brief conversation, the presidential nominee specifically asked if there were any such significant thing in his past.

HAD MCGOVERN been presented with Eagleton's medical history, examined it, and declared as he does now that it did not disqualify the vice presidential choice — well, voters might have accepted it.

McGovern, however, suddenly and unexpectedly found himself with only two alternatives. He could either adopt that position, or drop Eagleton from the ticket.

To drop Eagleton would be an admission that he erred in naming him in the first place — not to mention the fact that it would in all probability destroy Eagleton's political future.

The irony is that Sen. George McGovern did not hesitate to impugn the stability of Sen. Edmund Muskie after the Maine senator's loss of emotional control over the despicable attacks on his wife by the Manchester Guardian. McGovern must know that there are Republicans who will not hesitate to use Eagleton's past difficulties in the cruellest and most effective way.

Hanrahan Trial To Resume; Dismissal May Be Sought

The trial of Cook County State's Atty. Edward V. Hanrahan will resume in Circuit Court today after a one-day recess.

Judge Philip J. Romiti granted a temporary suspension to defense attorneys Tuesday after the prosecution revealed written statements from four Black Panthers who said they fired shots and handled guns during a 1969 police raid.

The statements directly contradicted those made by the Panthers last year in testimony before a county grand jury. Defense attorneys for Hanrahan and the 13 other law officers indicted on charges of conspiring to cover up evidence after the raid said the statements are "of almost unbelievable importance."

Today the defense will question the attorney in whose office the four Panther statements were found last Saturday.

There were indications the defense will seek dismissal of the indictment.

Special prosecutor Barnabas Sears said he thought the indictment is still valid, although he agreed the statements should be further probed.

State Panel To Hear Plans For Mass Transit

The Illinois Commission for Economic Development will hold a public hearing today to consider the varied proposals for mass transportation solutions in the six-county Chicago Metropolitan area.

Three separate plans — each advocated in a bill before the Illinois General Assembly — will be backed by different interests at the hearings.

The commission, made up of 10 legislative and seven public members, will make recommendations on the mass transportation problem in the Chicago metropolitan area to the governor and the General Assembly.

The Chicago Metropolitan Area Transit System (CMATS) proposal, backed by the six commuter railroads in the metropolitan area, calls for the merger of all public and private transit carriers in the metropolitan area under control of a public authority.

HOUSE BILL 2136, which would set up the CMATS system, calls for the inclusion of commuter railroads, city and interurban bus lines and the Chicago Transit Authority in one system.

The proposal in part would be financed by a 1-cent-per-gallon tax on motor fuel sold within the six-county metropolitan area.

A second proposal, embodied in House Bill 4362, calls for creating a public authority to own and operate mass transportation in the six-county metropolitan area, but would exclude that portion of Cook County served by the CTA.

Alternately called the Suburban Area Transportation System (SATS) or the Suburban Mass Transportation Agency (SMTA), the bill has the backing of the Council of Governments of Cook County (COG) and of 33 suburban communities, including the villages of Arlington Heights, Elk Grove Village, Palatine, Schaumburg and Wheeling.

The system would include commuter railroad and municipal and interurban bus companies, but would exclude the CTA.

THE THIRD proposal, introduced in House Bill 4313 by State Rep. Eugene Schlickman, R-Arlington Heights, would expand the CTA to include all of Cook, Lake, DuPage, Kane, McHenry and Will counties. It would change the name of the CTA to the Metropolitan Transit Authority (MTA) and would require the MTA to operate a unified commuter railroad, bus and rapid transit system within the six-county metropolitan area.

Area Railroads Finance Study

Six Chicago area commuter railroads are financing a $44,100 study of a proposed regional mass transit system in the Chicago metropolitan area.

The Northwestern University Transportation Center is conducting the study, which will take six months to complete.

The railroads — The Burlington Northern, Illinois Central, Milwaukee Road, Chicago & North Western, Rock Island and South Shore — are already backing a plan to incorporate all metropolitan area transportation services under a central authority.

The study will determine how the public stands to gain from the proposed Chicago Metropolitan Area Transportation System (CMATS), will estimate costs of the various transit service improvements possible with such a regional agency and will suggest priorities for mass transit in the six-county area.

The railroads will use the study as part of the information presented to the state Legislature in support of the CMATS plan.

The MTA would not be required to acquire all the diverse mass transit carriers in the region, however.

In addition to the three major proposals, suggestions from the Illinois Chamber of Commerce, transportation experts, and some civic and planning groups will be presented at the hearings.

A task force created by Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie to make recommendations on the problem also will complete its study later in the year.

The hearing today will begin at 9:30 a.m. in the Illinois Commerce Commission's main hearing room in the State of Illinois Building, 160 N. LaSalle St., Chicago.

Representatives of industry, government agencies, civic organizations and the public have been invited to testify. Written statements also will be accepted at the commission office in Springfield.

High School Work 3 To 5 Weeks Behind

Construction on Hoffman Estates High School, Dist. 211's fifth school, is running three to five weeks behind schedule, but the school's architect says the delay is not yet causing major concern.

Wayne Fritch, a representative of Ke-United and Associates, the building's architect, told the school board Tuesday the work fell behind schedule because of strikes by several trades unions.

"Our project was not actually shut down, but the contractor didn't have any of the striking trades on the site and they could only go so far without them," Fritch said.

He said that in the last six weeks almost no concrete has been poured for the building, now under construction at Higgins and Glen Lake roads in Hoffman Estates.

However, he said work has now resumed and added that he hopes the contractors will be able to catch up by late August.

In addition, Fritch told the board, the architects have decided to increase the size of the retention basin planned for the north end of the school site because of the recent heavy rains.

"WE HAVE HAD real run off problems into the basins south and east of the site," Fritch said. "We are the high ground and now that the site is bare, there is nothing to slow the water down."

The board approved an additional payment of $11,110 to increase the size of the retention basin.

Also, the board agreed to petition the Hoffman Estates Village Board to annex a small, triangular piece of the 42-acre school site that is not now in the village. Fritch said that Metropolitan Sanitary District attorneys discovered that part of the site had not been annexed while investigating the application for sewer permits for the school.

Fritch said the sanitary district insists that the whole site be in a village as a condition for granting the sewer permit.

Pupil 'Excluded' From Conant By School Bd.

A student who was caught last spring calling in bomb threats to Conant High School was permanently excluded from regular classes in High School Dist. 211 by the board of education Tuesday night.

The student, who needs only two more credits to graduate, will be allowed to attend summer school to obtain the two credits under the terms of the board's action.

According to a report submitted to the board, the student called several bomb threats in to the school shortly before school let out for the year.

The board took the action without the closed session customary in student discipline cases because neither the student nor his parents appeared to appeal the ruling.

Mosquito Spray Case To Be Continued Again

The pending lawsuit involving the spraying of a mosquito-control chemical insecticide that is banned in Palatine and Schaumburg apparently won't be resolved this season.

The case is scheduled to come up for a hearing today before Cook County Circuit Court Judge Edward J. Egan, but it is expected to be continued for a third time.

This time the request for a postponement is expected to be made by the Northwest Mosquito Abatement District.

The abatement district is challenging local ordinances in Palatine and Schaumburg which prohibit the spraying of Malathion, a mosquito-killing insecticide, within their corporate limits.

Both communities maintain that the environmental disadvantages of spraying the chemical outweigh the immediate adtion that is uneasable." He then suggested a citizen of the village file suit, demanding the district either fog for mosquitoes, or refund tax monies to all village residents who are not receiving services for their taxes.

In discussion, Atcher pointed out NMAD was only prohibited from fogging by the ordinance, but was not barred from using larvicides on stagnant water or draining stagnant water. But NMAD

"The Lone Ranger and the Lost City of Gold," will be shown Friday at Jane Adams Junior High School, 700 S. Springhurst Rd., Schaumburg.

The feature, along with a short color cartoon, will be shown at 7:30 p.m. The movie is aimed at an audience 5-13 years old. Youngsters ages five and six should be accompanied by someone older.

Admission is 25 cents.

ICC Grants North Western 5 1/2% Increase

The Illinois Commerce Commission yesterday granted the Chicago and North Western Ry. Co. a 5 1/2 per cent hike in commuter fares.

The company had asked for a 7 per cent increase, but the commission said that figure was "excessive and not in the public interest."

The company said its suburban operations net income decreased 9.3 per cent from 1970 to 1971 while expenses increased. They said the loss stemmed from a decrease in passengers and increased labor costs.

Company attorneys said the increase would allow the railway to buy new equipment, to meet increasing labor costs and to provide a fair return for net operating costs.

The increase, providing an additional $2.9 million in suburban income, will go into effect Aug. 1.

vantages of eliminating mosquitoes. In addition, Palatine environmental health director Richard Dawson contends that the spraying would wipe out only 5 per cent of the adult mosquitoes.

The Abatement district, however, maintains that spraying is part of its overall program to eliminate insects, and because mosquitoes do not respect village boundaries, the inability to spray in Palatine and Schaumburg jeopardizes the effectiveness of the program.

The Palatine anti-spraying ordinance constitutes an attempt to enact home rule powers granted by the state constitution to communities with populations over 25,000.

The hearing on the matter is expected to be continued by Judge Egan until late August.

has done neither of those things, he said. The suit could demand those actions, as well as the fogging, he said.

AT THIS point, Jerry Harker, project manager for Levitt, developer of Sheffield Park East, told the board he would commit his firm to hiring a licensed exterminator who would use chemicals other than those banned in the ordinance to fog in the subdivision.

Trustee Ray Kessell, who said NMAD's refusal to fog "upsets me greatly," promised an investigation of the district, with data to present to the board by the second meeting in August. He would look into district financing, staffing, salaries of trustees, budgeting, trustee appointment procedure and other matters, he said.

"I have never really paid too much attention to the mosquito abatement district. I will take it upon myself to learn somewhere, somehow, some information on NMAD and present it to this board," Kessell said.

Kessell also threatened to withhold payment of his taxes to NMAD on receipt of his next bill.

Shell Oil Denied Gas Station Permit

Shell Oil Co. was denied a special use permit Tuesday by the Hoffman Estates Zoning Board of Appeals for construction of a service station on the southeast corner of Higgins and Barrington roads.

The plan commission had previously recommended approval of a change in zoning for the property from M (manufacturing) to B (business).

Board members Walter Ramsey and Floyd Pickering voted in Shell's favor while chairman Robert Valentino, Ed Tavill and William Weaver voted to deny the request.

Litigation initiated by Shell Oil to force the village to grant the special use permit has been before the Circuit Court of Cook County for about six months. Aram Hartuman, attorney for Shell, said the situation was "ironic" because the village had invited his client to appear.

THE BOARD MUST act on special use permits, while requests for rezoning are handled by the Plans Commission.

While the findings of the board will be written during the next week, Hartuman was not told at the meeting which of the special use regulations governing special use permits they had violated.

Valentino said after the meeting that he thought there were too many service stations in the area, that Shell had not exhibited "enough of a market study" and that the company had failed to show that a service station was "the highest and best use of the land."

He said he would pin his case on a violation of the special use regulations which says the planned development "shall not impede the normal development of the land."

The board seemed to feel that the property on Barrington Road and surrounding it should be developed for light manufacturing or a research center because of its access to the Tollway "That's what the matter plan calls for," Valentino said.

Dean Eliot, real estate representative from Shell, said the company had traffic figures indicating the location was a "prime" one because 12,000 cars travel Barrington Road and 10,000 drive Higgins Road each day.

THOUGH THE company has another station at Golf and Barrington roads, he said their studies indicated they could support both. He said the fears of "abandoned stations" which the board expressed were unfounded in Shell's experience, and that Shell would comply with all service stations regulations which he helped to draft for the village.

When City Service applied for rezoning the same property last year to build a station on the site, it was refused on the strength of objections raised by two service station owners in the area, Valentino said.

He said the owners had noted decreases in volume sales after the opening of a station nearby and after the opening of the Golf and Barrington Shell station.

He pointed out that there is a potential for eight gas stations within a 1.1-mile strip along Golf Road. Besides the risk of abandonment, he said the board expressed concern over the value of adjacent property if a service station were built at the intersection.

Back To School For Sarge

When those school bells ring in September for area students, a Schaumburg police officer will be answering the call.

With approval of the Schaumburg Village Board, Sgt. Alvin A. Herzfeld will begin a nine-month training program at Northwestern University in the fall.

Schaumburg Police Chief Martin Conroy said Herzfeld will be the first officer from the village department to attend the university's Traffic Institute. While the village will continue to pay his regular salary, cost of tuition and books will be paid by a state law enforcement grant.

A five-year veteran with Schaumburg, Herzfeld will be among a group of about 90 officers from throughout the United States and three foreign countries to participate in this year's program.

Conroy said Herzfeld will be enrolled in the training section of the institute.

Upon completion of the program, said Conroy, Herzfeld will have the knowledge and the background to establish a well rounded in-service training program for the department.

THE INSTITUTE consists of a basic orientation of Police management, a number of courses in training techniques covering all phases of police work and a practical application segment where the students work with other police departments to design and execute a training program.

"We believe that this type of program will enable our department to build a quality supervisory staff for the future," Conroy said.

He added that he hopes to send other officers later to participate in the traffic and administration programs offered by the institute.

Collecting Coins

by Mort Reed

Much has been written about the 50 commemorative coins issued by the United States from 1952 to 1954, but this column receives more inquiries about those pieces jointly honoring principals of the Union and Confederate armies than any other subject. Four of the 50 fit this description. All were half-dollar denominations.

They commemorated — The Battle of Gettysburg, fought in 1863; Ulysses S. Grant portrayed as a general, dated 1822-1922; the Stone Mountain Memorial, displaying the likeness of Gen. Robert E. Lee and Thomas "Stonewall" Jackson on horseback and dated 1923, and the Battle of Antietam bearing the accoladed busts of Gen. George B. McClellan of the Union army and Robert E. Lee of the Confederacy.

The reverse of the latter commemorative bears a view of "Burnside Bridge" that figured so heavily at Antietam. During this bloody one-day conflict, each side lost a total of 25,000 men and the Confederate troops held their ground.

The Antietam commemorative half-dollar was signed by William Marks and authorized by Congress in 1937 to be issued not to exceed 50,000 pieces total. Eighteen thousand were actually placed on sale, and the "Guide Book of United States Coins" estimates its value at roughly $50 for a specimen in extremely fine condition and $95 in uncirculated condition.

Commemorative U. S. coinage is one of the more popular series among numismatists and collectors. A complete set is available in just about any condition one could possibly want. It makes an attractive display and must be considered of top priority as a safe investment commodity.

Bicentennial News

Bicentennial activities are well underway.

From the American Revolution Bicentennial Headquarters comes the announcement that the first Bicentennial medal of the U. S. Mint and the first set of the 1972 series ARBC postage stamps of the Postal Service, were mailed in the special Philatelic-Numismatic Combination (PNC) envelope to President Nixon at noon from the Colonial Williamsburg, Va., Post Office on July 4, 1972.

Unveiling of the first Bicentennial medal and stamp combination (PNC) took place in Williamsburg in front of the Colonial Printing Office in a one-hour ceremony with representatives of the Postal Service, the Mint and the Bicentennial Committee participating.

Distribution of the First Day Cover containing the medal and four Bicentennial stamps canceled July 4, 1972, began on that date and will continue until all orders postmarked before July 31, have been received by the Mint.

Stamp Notes

Earth Sciences To Be Honored

by BERNADINE M. RECHNER

Four 15-cent stamps representing the earth sciences will be issued by the Canada Post Office Aug. 2 at Ottawa.

Two of the photos were printed last week. This week we print the photo of the photogrammetry stamp, commemorating the 12th Congress of the International Society of Photogrammetry, and the geology stamp, which commemorates the 24th International Geological Congress. Both societies will convene in Canada in July and August.

Photogrammetry, to quote from my collegiate Webster's, is "the art or process of surveying or mapping with the help of photographs."

To quote the Canada Post Office, "Spectacular advances have occurred in recent years in the application of photogrammetry to topographical and cadastral surveys, to planning and engineering, and to the investigation, survey and assessment of natural resources. Moreover, the range of interest has widened to include applications to medicine and work on bodies in inner and outer space."

The stamp . . . is a visual simplification of the theme. The white space represents the area on the ground within range of camera lens at high altitude. Within this area are two sunlit mountains, simplified to two prisms. The black lines meet at a high elevation which represents the approximate position of the aircraft carrying the camera.

So much for that. . .

Groups Pleading Tax Cases

by ANNE SLAVICEK

Representatives of varied special-interest groups have been telling Cook County to "tax the other guy" at a series of public hearings now under way.

The hearings, conducted by the office of County Assessor P. J. Cullerton, are being held under a provision of the new Illinois Constitution that allows reclassification of property for tax assessment purposes.

The decisions made by Cullerton, based on the recommendations of chief hearing officer Richard Michael of Loyola University, will have direct bearing on the dollar amount of tax bills issued next year to property owners throughout the county.

Cullerton is expected to set a percentage of the market value of property that will be used in determining property assessments.

UNOFFICIALLY in the past, single-family homes were assessed for tax purpose at approximately 22 per cent of their market value, while commercial, industrial and high-rise residential property was assessed at between 35 and 45 per cent.

Groups testifying at the Cullerton hearings are alternately proposing plans that would raise the percentage for industry, lower it for apartment owners or place more of the burden on single-family homeowners.

The percentages resulting from the hearings will set the dollar amount by which the total tax rate from all governmental units will be multiplied in determining the actual taxes due.

Cook County collects taxes for all of the governmental units serving Northwest suburban residents, including villages, school districts and park districts, as well as for the county government itself.

The county treasurer then redistributes the taxes collected to the various districts and municipalities that originally levied them.

AT THE HEARINGS Tuesday, a black painting contractor representing minority construction workers and a high-rise apartment developer speaking for the Greater North Michigan Avenue Association both called for a lowering of taxes paid by apartment building owners.

Stanley Goodfriend, president of the association, asked that the percentage for all apartment buildings be made the same as that used in assessing single-family homes.

In support of his position, Goodfriend said homeowners and owners of condominiums have tax advantages the renters lack.

A homeowner may deduct, in determining his income tax, his share of the real estate taxes and interest paid on a mortgage.

Moreover, "at the present time he has a considerably lower assessment base at approximately 50 per cent of the rate of rental high rises" and "if he is 65 years of age or older, he now has the right to the Homestead Exemption," Goodfriend said.

"The tenant, on the other hand, has the disadvantage of not being able to deduct his proportionate share of real estate taxes or interest paid in computing his federal and state income taxes, even though in effect he pays this to the owner of the property or his agent," he said.

GOODFRIEND said average renters demand little in services from the city. There are few school-age children, little need for fire protection and a minimum of police calls. Yet, for example, real estate tax bills on a single apartment in Carl Sandburg Village in Chicago are between $700 and $800, considerably higher than the average tax bill paid by a single family homeowner in Chicago, he said.

He proposed tax assessment percentages of 20 per cent of market value for farm land and government-subsidized housing, 25 per cent for vacant property other than farm land, 25 per cent for all residential property, and 40 per cent for all commercial and industrial developments.

His suggestions mirrored those proposed at an earlier session of the hearings by the Greater Chicago Committee.

Goodfriend told the committee that if taxes continue at such a high rate for high-rise apartment buildings in the city, "there will be little major new construction or rehabilitation, and the increased exodus from the city of people, industrial plants and commercial buildings will continue, and Chicago will be lost."

Goodfriend's proposal would mean a lowering of taxes paid by commercial establishments as well as by high rise apartment building owners.

But for single-family homeowners it would result in an average tax bill increase of $80, hearings chairman Michael said.

PAUL KING, representing the United Builders Association, testified that higher tax assessments in the Woodlawn and Lawndale areas of the city have meant an end to building maintenance in many medium-sized apartment buildings.

Because the building owners no longer can afford the maintenance costs due to high tax bills, minority contractors who make a substantial part of their living by repairing buildings have been suffering a loss of work, King said.

He said owners are abandoning buildings in the area and that the county is losing the taxes on them because the owners no longer find it profitable to continue to pay the taxes or operate the rental buildings.

King had no specific recommendations for new tax percentage estimates, however.

Representatives of Cook County School Supt. Richard Martwick has asked for an increase on the percentage assessment used on industry in earlier testimony Tuesday. They called for percentages used in assessing other property to remain the same.

AT A continuation of the hearings today, the president of the International Association of Assessing Officers, a South Side real estate agent, the South Side Builders Association and the Hegewisch Community Committee are slated to testify.

At an earlier series of hearings earlier this month Town Hall Assembly, the Chicago Real Estate Board and the Citizens Action program presented their members' views.

The hearings on the tax assessment practices are expected to continue into August before all groups interested in influencing Cullerton's decision will have been heard.

How A Loan From The Chicago Mafia Drew Him Into A Gangland Nightmare

by MORT GOLDEN
As Told to Ira Berkow

I still look over my shoulder a lot. I know that some guy could put a bullet through my brain as I cross a street. Some Chicago Mafia guys would probably like to. But you can't let fear rule your life. I've decided.

I got on a plane not long ago and noticed this man sitting behind me. That night I walked through a hotel lobby, and I saw the same face. The next time I saw him I was going to grab him up against a wall and stick my pistol to his head and find out what he was doing. I never saw him again.

I have a new identity now, new birth certificate, new Social Security card, new driver's license, new job, new town. I still have the same face, and I still have my past.

I LEFT Chicago in the late afternoon of Nov. 24, 1969, under a secret armed guard provided by the Illinois Crime Commission, the state's investigative arm. The state has provided my new identity papers. I was taken to a waiting plane immediately after testifying before an Illinois Senate subcommittee on the Mafia's loan shark operation in Chicago.

In that hearing room that afternoon were men like Dick Card, still looking fierce, and a guy named Radio and others who had been subpoenaed. I had made my juice loans and then almost unending payments to them for the last couple of years. I had borrowed about $50,000 in that time, and had already paid back over $100,000, paying as much as $1,000 a week during one period. And still I owed $12,000. I had paid back the interest many times over, but never made a dent in the principal.

I had borrowed from my friends, relatives, parents to pay the Mafia back. I gambled great sums hoping to get out of my jam. I got into a legitimate business that was a front for me to borrow even more money from banks. In that time, I must have had almost $2 million in checks and cash go through my hands to establish a cash flow to keep the Outfit, the Chicago term for Mafia, happy.

Before my problems began with the Outfit, I had been a typically middle-class Jewish salesman, with a nice family and a home in the suburbs, parents who loved me and, in general, a respected citizen. I could have been your next-door-neighbor. Or I could have been you.

WHAT HAPPENED? A personal tragedy — the near death of a newborn son — changed my life. Or maybe it opened a can of worms that was already in my psyche. I don't know. I'm no psychiatrist. But my reaction to my problems was to begin to gamble. People take out their frustration in different ways: I gambled, and gambled heavily. Soon I went to the Outfit for a loan.

There is a misconception about loan sharks — Mafia guys who loan money at exorbitant rates. They don't come to you and muscle you to borrow from them. You go to them. And then they carefully check you out.

But when I began borrowing from them, I found that it was not like borrowing from a bank. I remember once I was absolutely lost for a scheme to raise my weekly payment. I was scared. I had fallen behind before and my parents and my wife and three kids had been threatened by Mafia phone calls.

So I went to a lawyer-friend, told him I was in deep trouble. I told him I need to buy time to think of a way to get money. He suggested I disappear for awhile. But you need money to disappear.

"Do you have Blue Shield and Blue Cross?" he asked.

"What?" I thought he was nuts.

"Do you?"

"Yeah."

He picked up the phone and called a doctor friend of his.

They got me into a Northside hospital on a phony heart condition. I was there for four days and made a lot of phone calls. The syndicate guys were very concerned about my health. A lot of them paid sick calls to me. It was almost touching, how much these hard guys worried over my welfare.

I FINALLY came up with the dough, as I had done in the past. But it was getting harder. I lost my business when bad checks began bouncing. I bought a harness horse and got involved with racing to get closer to the action to make safer bets. I fixed races and I was in on fixed races. I bet thousands, won thousands, but still owed thousands to the Outfit.

I lost my home in the suburbs. My wife divorced me. I spent two horrifying weeks in the Cook County Jail for the bad checks. There were days when I walked the streets with nothing, slept on a park bench. That was one of the most degrading times of my life. I had a four-day growth. I was dirty, and had just one shirt, one sweater, one set of underwear, one pair of shoes and socks.

Dick Card, an important Outfit guy now in jail, wanted me to front a legitimate office-machines business for the Outfit, putting photocopy machines in libraries, that sort of thing. He said I would be assured of making a quarter of a million dollars over five years.

Should I become involved as a part of the Mafia, as opposed to being just a loan-shark victim? Or do I make a clean break? I decided to go to the Illinois Crime Commission. I had heard that they did good work, and that the men there were decent law-enforcement and investigative workers, and would protect me.

AS IT TURNED out, I became an undercover man for them, going so far as to introduce a commission agent named Ron Wert to an Outfit guy and getting that agent a loan. It may be the only time in history that a law enforcement agency got on the books of the Mafia.

During this time, I talked to Mafia people on bugged phones. I talked, for example, with Mike Castaldo, a juice man, at his landscaping store, a front, and was filmed by the Illinois Crime Commission from a nearby trailer. I had to be an Academy Award performer, or I was a dead man.

"And so, finally, when I testified at the subcommittee hearing on my experiences with the Syndicate guys right there, I did not know what my future held. I still don't. That is why a newspaper account of the hearing the next day said that my hands shook on the stand and I spoke barely above a whisper."

First Answers Next Month From Moon Crust Samples?

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI) — It is now clear that Apollo 16's astronauts were lucky and brought back what apparently are the first substantial samples of the old and battered lunar crust.

The big question now is how old are these rocks. The answers will not come easily because of the complicated nature of the samples, but the ages could tell when the moon's crust was formed. The first reports may come out next month.

Determining the age of the lunar crust would be a key point in the effort to piece together the story of the moon's creation and tumultuous childhood, and see how it relates to the evolution of the earth and other planets.

When John W. Young and Charles M. Duke landed in the lunar highlands last April, they were expected to find a rolling plateau made up of volcanic rock that blanketed the remnants of crustal material.

BUT TWO months of analysis by the preliminary examination team at the Manned Spacecraft Center in Houston showed that few specimens were volcanic. Most were complex altered versions of original rock and 90 per cent of the Apollo 16 samples contained large amounts of aluminum and calcium in the form of the common earth mineral, plagioclase.

This agrees with surface composition measurements made from lunar orbit by an X-ray detection experiment. That instrument scanned broad areas of the rugged and heavily cratered highlands and found that they too have a high amount of aluminum and calcium.

Geologists believe the highlands are remnants of the primitive lunar crust, formed more than 4 billion years ago. Parts of it later were flooded by lava to form the dark-colored seas that are visible from earth.

Moonquake detectors set up on the moon by four astronaut teams have confirmed that a crust does exist and recent measurements showed that it is about 38 miles thick — twice the depth of earth's continental crust.

THE FACT that the Apollo 16 samples, and presumably most of the crustal rocks, are rich in aluminum and calcium means that the moon must have been melted to a great depth early in its history, said Dr. Paul W. Gast, chief of lunar sciences at the manned spacecraft center.

The aluminum and calcium rich mineral plagioclase is relatively light and solidifies sooner than other minerals. Geologists therefore believe that plagioclase crystals formed in this hot liquid and floated to the surface like slag in a blast furnace to form a crust rich in aluminum and calcium.

From what now is known about the lunar crust, said Gast, it appears to have no resemblance to earth's crust. He said the lunar crust is much more constant in composition "and its origin must be quite different from the crust of the earth."

Mrs. Chapman Knows Bureau Well

by ESTHER RABCHUK

The Volunteer Service Bureau, Northwest Cook County, has been an interest of State Rep. Eugenia Chapman, D-Arlington Heights, since its formation in 1969.

Mrs. Chapman is the chairman of the Committee on Volunteer Services which is one of six major committees of the Illinois Commission on the Status of Women.

This committee has issued a pamphlet, "Volunteering — How? What? Why?" The Bureau uses the pamphlet in training coordinators, speaking engagements, and general information to the public.

Quoting from the pamphlet, "Why do people volunteer? Volunteering takes time. Anyone who volunteers — who gives his or her time without financial compensation — has made a personal commitment to an organization or cause."

"Too often we make the assumption that a volunteer has offered time merely because it is available. We think, for instance, of a housewife whose youngest child has just entered school. "Volunteer," we tell her. "You need something to do with your time." A widow, a senior citizen — they may be urged to volunteer as a way of filling up empty days with something the community considers acceptable and worthwhile."

"WE THINK OF volunteering, too, as an activity which can result in social prestige and leadership."

"It's true that many people volunteer for just such reasons."

Continuing to quote from the pamphlet, "But if we — and they — limit our thinking, we're missing some of the most important reasons for being a volunteer."

"When someone is giving his or her time to an organization or cause, when someone cares enough to become involved, then there's a personal self-satisfaction which results. There's a real feeling of 'I'm needed I'm Wanted!' and the knowledge that what you do can help something you believe in become successful."

THE PAMPHLET continues, "For this reason, many kinds of people need opportunities to be volunteers . . . men and women who are working can, and often want to, be volunteers, too. So can students and young people. So can senior citizens. Opportunities to be a volunteer must be available to poor as well as middle class and rich."

Mrs. Chapman comments in her pamphlet that "many communities have found that setting up a volunteer service pool, or clearinghouse, is an effective way to exchange ideas, to find and place volunteers where they will work best, will be happy, and will make a real contribution."

The pamphlet gives ideas on how to start a bureau, the structure which contributes to efficient operation, and statements on who in the community organizations stands to benefit from the services as well as who in the community is most likely to support the structure financially and otherwise.

The Volunteer Bureau has this pamphlet on supply at the central office, 799 W. Kensington Rd., Mount Prospect, in the Dist 214 Administration Center. The office hours are Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. Starting Aug. 21 the hours will be expanded to Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. The phone number is 398-1320.

The Lighter Side

by Dick West

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Here it is near the end of July and much of the nation has been experiencing heat waves. Which comes as a big surprise to utility companies in areas where there have been power shortages.

If this had happened in February, we would have been prepared for it, the utility companies say. "But we weren't expecting a heat wave in midsummer."

The main trouble is air conditioning. There is fully enough electricity available to run all of the air conditioners in cool weather. But the public perversely insists on running air conditioners in hot weather.

This is called an "Energy Crisis."

AND WHAT does officialdom do about the crisis? Officialdom urges the public to use less electricity during periods when the public uses more electricity. But it doesn't work.

The public simply has not been conditioned to act in the public interest. Through artful advertising, the public has been conditioned to drive cars and run air conditioners. Promoting the public interest will require something equally artful.

At the moment, the public is going in strong for the "natural look" in cosmetics, plastics, hair styles, clothing and organic food. So why couldn't officialdom take advantage of that with a public service campaign extolling the wonders of "natural heat?"

First we see Ed McMahon fiddling with some knobs in a tastefully furnished condominium. He turns our way, says, "Oh, hi there. Tired of having artificially cooled air circulating through your house or apartment this summer?"

"Then do what I'm doing — turn off that air conditioner and heat your home the natural way — open a window. For less than pennies a day, you can have your home permeated by the same pure unadulterated heat produced only by the natural rays of the sun."

NOW WE see a young woman in a diaphanous negligee silhouetted before the open window of a darkened bedroom. She stretches sensuously and ecstatically murmurs, "Love that natural heat. Since turning off my air conditioner, my figure has improved 37 per cent."

Followed by an "American Gothic" couple. "No doubt about it, Ma," the Titus Moody type twangs. "this is the same kind of old-fashioned natural heat we used to swelter in back on the farm."

Only in this manner can officialdom get the public to act in the public interest. If the public interest isn't nostalgic, seductive or non-fattening, the public isn't interested.

Shades Of Alan Arkin! Centreville Can't Believe It

'The Russians Are Coming, The . . .'

by TOM TIEDE

Here he was, living most of his life in this tiny town, minding his own business as the sediment control officer, asking nothing but a little decency and a chance to salute the flag during the high school football game.

And then all of a sudden — "all of a sudden" — in come these Communist infiltrators. Yes, Communist infiltrators, to plant their flag right on the banks of the Chester River.

M'God. The Russians have come, the Russians have come.

IT HAD BEEN rumored for a couple of years. Word was that the Soviet Embassy in nearby Washington was negotiating a deal to buy 45 acres of vacation retreat land just outside town at Pioneer Point.

Bartow Van Ness, a John Birch Society member and chairman of the Support Your Local Police Committee, was one of the first to protest. So were the county commissioners. Said one of the latter, in a gripe to the U.S. State Department: "We don't want a Russian flag in Queen Anne's County."

But it happened anyway. Last March Soviet diplomats concluded an agreement to buy the 45 acres, including two large mansions thereon, for just over $1 million. Short while later some exploratory Russian limousines began showing up in the area. Then a couple of river cruisers. Somebody started the rumor that a submarine was spotted in the Chester. And, Lord, the town was flapping. "This is the biggest thing around here," says one woman, "since those college kids went nude in Chesterville."

The submarine, of course, proved my-

Bartow
Van Ness

Tony

thical. So did some other stories about radar antenna, frogmen and parts for MIG jets. But the Russian presence here in Centreville, America, is established fact. The land they bought is not only theirs, but is now in effect Russian soil. They have erected "Keep Out" signs at the entrance. They have constructed a Sears-Roebuck chain-wire fence on the adjacent roads. And they've asked local law enforcement officers to help guarantee their privacy.

"They're here to stay," says Bartow Van Ness III, fuming. "Like it's Moscow. Somebody in town has suggested that we change the name of our river to The Volga."

VAN NESS IS the most outspoken opponent to the Russian presence. He says his reasons are simple:

"Leopards do not change their spots. An FBI report of recent years states that a large majority of Russian diplomats and embassy personnel are intelligence agents and spies. Communism is not mellowing as some would have us believe. It is a totalitarian form of government. I have no quarrel with the Russian people themselves. But I don't want their ideology in this country, in this community."

OTHERS IN TOWN, equally anti-Russian, have different complaints. The county commissioners lament the fact the new Russian land enjoys diplomatic immunity, thus the area will lose $10,000 in property taxes every year. A man outside the police station says he doesn't like the idea of the land being fenced off, and wonders if "the bastards will shoot trespassers." Somebody else states simply that "we are not allowed to buy land in Russia, so why should they be able to buy land here?"

NOT EVERYONE, naturally, is so chastened. Tony Kontos, 77, a Greek immigrant, a restaurant owner, a "George McGovern man," and a "good citizen for nearly 50 years," welcomes the Russians. "They are gentlemen," he says. "They come into my store for a beer and they conduct themselves well. Why should we not welcome them? We are not at war. I remember when they first came, there was this Jewish organization in New York, those kooks, the Jewish Defense League. They said they were going to come down here, for God sake, and protest the Russians because Jews are oppressed in Moscow. For God sake. Well, the Jews may be oppressed in Moscow, but they damn well aren't here. We got one Jew in town. He owns the furniture store. First thing the Russians did when they came was to buy $7,000 worth of new decorations from him."

The furniture deal won a number of townsfolk over to the side of live and let live. And where money hasn't talked, the Russian diplomacy has. "They haven't caused a peep of trouble," says one law officer. Indeed, except for trips to the Acme supermarket, and stops at Tony Kontos' restaurant, the Russians stick to themselves, at their retreat, away from incident potential. During the weekday, a small contingent, mostly children, live on the land. Weekends the group grows to as many as 70, including, on occasion, Ambassador Anatoly F. Dobrynin. Whatever the size of the group, however, it stays well back on the land, barely visible from the road, and separated by many acres of open field from their nearest neighbors.

SOME OF THE neighbors, by the way, provide a touch of irony in the whole matter. The president of an insurance company lives nearby, the top executive of the Maryland National Bank does, too. There is even a retired general in the neighborhood. Capitalism and communism. "Man," says one observer, "talk about coexistence."

But if the Pioneer Point dacha has become, in recent weeks, one of quaint chuckling rather than squabbling worry, there are still some in town who believe that, well, "there goes the neighborhood." The neighborhood is almost Mason-Dixon, pink plastic flamingos on the lawns, staunchly conservative — and among those who want to keep it this way is Bartow Van Ness III: "If the Russians are allowed to come and live here, who knows, the Red Chinese may be next."

Social Security and You

Q. Could you tell me where the Social Security Office in Arlington Heights is located? My mother wants me to take her to the office, but neither of us know how to find it.

A. The Social Security Office is on the first floor of a three-story office building at 120 W. Eastman Ave. From Northwest Highway, (U.S. 14), turn north on Highland Avenue, between Kentucky Fried Chicken and a large parking area. The building is labeled with the address and is visible from the highway. Other landmarks in the area are the train station, about two blocks southeast of the office and Illinois Bell Telephone Co. east of the office in the same block on Eastman.

A. I'm starting my own selling business and my wife will be working as my employee. If I pay her a salary, are her earnings covered under Social Security?

A. No. This is considered family employment and is not covered by Social Security.

Q. My wife went to an extended-care facility after a nine-day hospital stay.

Medicare paid her room and board for 14 days. After the 14th day, they would no longer pay for her care. Can you please explain this?

A. Medicare's intent is to pay for services in an extended care facility if a patient requires further skilled medical treatment after leaving a hospital. Apparently, your wife's condition improved to the extent that the level of care required to make payment was no longer present, after 14 days. To say it another way, your wife probably no longer needed care by skilled medical personnel. She probably required only "custodial care" rather than "skilled care."

Skilled care is care that must be furnished by or under the supervision of trained medical or paramedical personnel. Although a nurse may be caring for a patient by giving oral medication, moving him, feeding and bathing him, these are not considered to be skilled care. These services can be carried out by the average non-medical person and are therefore considered unskilled or custodial care.

New Phone System Aids Safety Program

The U.S. Department of Labor's Occupational Safety and Health Administration (OSHA) has set up a new telephone information service to assist Chicago area employers and employees concerning on-the-job safety situations.

Edward E. Eskowski, Regional Administrator for OSHA Region 5, centered in Chicago, said questions may be phoned to a special number in nonworking hours (4:30 p.m. to 8 a.m. weekdays and around-the-clock on weekends).

The number for local calls in the Chicago area is 939-5293.

Callers may request information on all aspects of OSHA program activities. They also may use the new service to report situations of apparent imminent danger in the workplace, or jobsite catastrophes or fatalities.

The Doctor Says

by Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb — Is acupuncture very popular in the United States? Can it be used for all types of operations? Could it be used for a prostate operation?

Dear Reader — No, acupuncture is not popular in the United States. In fact, it's safe to say that most doctors know almost nothing about it. Certainly this would be true from the standpoint of experience. Here has been an upsurge of interest in this procedure since the President's China trip. Just how successfully it can be used in American medicine will need to await clinical trial by medical investigators.

The old traditional acupuncture in Chinese medicine merely consisted of sticking needles into the body at specified points. It would be difficult to see how this alone would produce enough anesthetic reaction to the patient to enable one to perform major surgery, let alone cure disease. Old Chinese teachings believed that insertions of needles at various points in the body cured all sorts of disease just as a result of the procedure alone.

From the available early reports by only a few observers it would appear what the Chinese are doing today isn't traditional acupuncture at all, but in reality the inserted needle which is supposed to reach a nerve may be connected to an electrical current. Nerves literally are the body's electrical wire and whenever you start introducing electrical current along the nerves it is a whole new ball game, not acupuncture.

A NUMBER OF investigators have used electrical anesthesia in this country in the past. Our scientists know electrical current introduced into a nerve can relieve pain. Medical World News recently reported the case of Ted Endrzejewski, a 38-year-old Pennsylvanian, who is protected from pain by a small electrical current.

After a spinal injury he had such severe pain he could not drive a car, have sexual intercourse or even get a night's sleep. Now he can, with the aid of an electrical pack of wires that are inserted into the spine. When he begins to feel pain, he turns a simple dial and the electric current stops it.

I would suspect there are not going to be many people having prostate operations under acupuncture right now, but if the use of the more modern techniques with the electrical impulses prove to be effective, then I expect there will be a mad rush on the part of the American physicians to learn how to use it. In the meantime, if you contemplate anything as sensitive as a prostate operation, I would suggest that you let your doctor stick to the old-fashioned, American system of using an anesthetic.

Dear Dr. Lamb — Does plucking the eyebrows cause cancer?

Dear Reader — No, it won't cause cancer, but an individual who is prone to have pimples is apt to develop an occasional infection at the base of the hair follicle where the hair is pulled.

Do-It-Yourself

Safety, like charity, begins at home. Home is not only where the heart is, it also is where the hazards are.

So many accidents happen at home that if you can make your home safe you've done much to make your life safe.

Most home accidents are preventable. Advance checking, an inventory of what is in the home can help you eliminate potential hazards.

Most home accidents involve falling. Preventing falls is a matter of keeping paths clear. Safety plays a part in furniture arrangement as well as appearance.

Keep paths clear. Chairs or tables don't belong where someone enters a room.

Doors should never be blocked. In a bedroom, keep a clear path from the bed to door since it is a path you may travel in the dark. A dim night light will prevent problems.

THROW RUGS CAN be dangerous. On a slippery floor they can slip right out from under you. Small rugs should have backs treated to prevent slipping or should be placed on skid-proof mats. Fasten down larger rugs. Rubber backing wears off in time so don't count on it. Edges that curl should be tacked down.

Bathrooms are bad places for falls. Use a rubber mat in the tub. Install hand rails for entering or leaving the tub.

Electricity is useful and it is all around you. While you have sense enough to avoid touching a bare wire, do you have foresight enough to prevent bare wires? Don't run electric cords under rugs or through a door where they will be pinched.

Walking over a wire wears the insulation thin and you have a fire hazard.

Pull on the plug when you disconnect a cord, not the wire. The strain could break the cord at the plug.

Don't overload lightweight extensions or use an abundance of double and triple plugs in wall outlets.

Keep cords out of sight and out of the way. Don't have them run across paths.

HEAVY-DUTY appliances and heating appliances need heavy duty extensions.

Do not have any electric appliance or electric switch located so that you can reach it from the bath tub. Don't keep a radio playing nearby where you can reach it while bathing.

More than a shock can result. You can be electrocuted. Never place a radio or other small appliance where it might fall in the water.

Don't overload your storage space. Piles of papers and magazines are a fire hazard. Oily rags, paints, solvents should not be stored in the house if possible. Store them away from the house and keep oily rags in a closed container.

150 Baby Ducks Find New Homes

Cook County Forest Preserves have 150 new feathered residents this week as the result of a research project.

Five-week-old mallard ducklings were released Monday at the Crabtree Nature Center in Barrington and in five other areas throughout the district.

The Max McGraw Wildlife Foundation and the forest preserve district are cooperating in the project to learn more about current waterfowl use of the preserves and to increase the number and variety of wild ducks and geese visiting or living in the waters.

The ducks are an experimental strain hatched and reared for the first three weeks of life without contact with man. The isolation is designed to improve survival and behavior of the birds.

The mallards are a cross between wild drakes and hand-reared hens.

Pale green plastic saddles have been placed on the bills of the ducks to enable the foundation and district biologists to distinguish them from other birds.

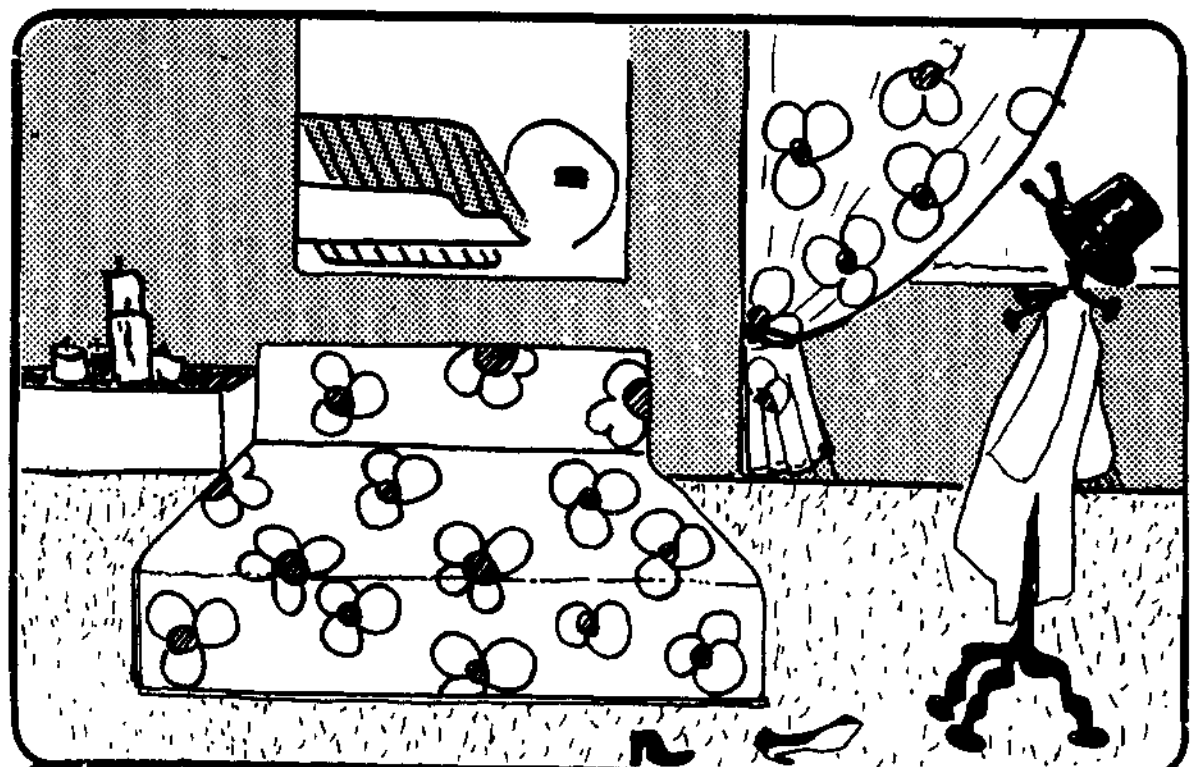

Persons who see one of the marked ducks are asked to report the sighting to the Crabtree Nature Center in Barrington.

Win At Bridge

by Oswald and James Jacoby

Here is a very unusual hand taken from the Bridge Philosopher.

We have a strong feeling that Jim Kauder made this one up. There is East with one jack finding a chance to collect two tricks against three no-trump, but using his deuce of hearts to refuse both of them.

We hold no brief for West's diamond opening except to point out that if he leads his jack of clubs South will romp home with his contract.

Anyway, West does lead the deuce of diamonds. Dummy wins. The ace of spades is cashed and a club to South's queen loses to West's ace. A second diamond is led. The king of clubs is cashed and South has to abandon that suit.

He plays out his ace-king-queen and three of hearts.

If East wins that heart trick he can cash two heart tricks, but must give South the rest of the tricks in spades. If East has hung onto his deuce of hearts he lets the three-spot hold. The spade suit is shut out and West sets the hand by taking the last four tricks.

Soap Opera Star Is A Model Parent

by VERNON SCOTT
UPI Hollywood Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD — Bill Hayes, one of the co-stars of "Days of Our Lives," might make the central figure in his own soap opera.

Divorced after 23 years of marriage, he moved to Hollywood more than two years ago from New York to star in the long-running series.

Now he lives in the San Fernando valley with his three youngest children: Christian, 21; Tom, 18, and Peg, 16.

THE HOUSE IS large enough for the entire family and is close to NBC studios in Burbank where the show is filmed. Hayes, in fact, may be looking for smaller quarters soon. Christian will be moving to Arizona and Tom is headed for college, leaving only Peg at home.

Hayes became a grandfather earlier this year when his daughter, Carrie, gave birth to a son, David Samuel.

Hayes asked his producers to write him out of the script for 10 days so he could fly back to Indiana to see his first grandchild.

Another son, Bill Jr., is 22 and a Navy ensign flying jets. NBC has Hayes under contract 52 weeks a year. There are no re-runs of daytime serials. Therefore Hayes is on call almost every weekday.

Generally he reports to the studio at 7 a.m. where the cast reads through the script and then rehearses. Then the crew is brought in for actual staging and another rehearsal before the episode is taped.

THEREAFTER THE cast sits around a table and goes over the next day's script, timing the segment and changing dialogue here and there to suit the director and actors.

Some performers are quick studies. After an hour or so with the script they have their lines down pat. Not Bill Hayes.

He is usually through at the studio by 3 p.m., but returns home to study and re-study the script, painfully memorizing his lines.

Christian, Tom and Peg alternate with household chores.

"It works out pretty well," Hayes said. "But when I get tired of eating pizza and hamburgers I pitch in and do the cooking myself."

After dinner Hayes finds a quiet corner of the house to continue memorizing his lines. Then it's off to bed for that early call in the morning.

On weekends Hayes not infrequently visits his parents who make their home in Tucson, Ariz. He would like to spend more time at the beach or in the mountains with his offspring.

BEING BOTH MOTHER and father to his youngsters, Hayes must devote Saturdays and Sundays to shopping, gardening and supervising the running of the house.

"I have to put relaxation and recreation into the future," he says. "It's a someday thing with me."

"Once in a while I get out to see a play or a movie, or visit friends in San Diego. But as long as I'm doing this show it means giving up a lot of other things."

"But the important element is that the series allows me to work regularly and stay in one place to be with my family. Not too many actors today can pull that off."

Notes To Watch TV By . . .

NEW YORK (UPI) — Ask Alfred Hitchcock if he is going to produce any more suspense dramas for television, and you get this precise and sensible answer: "Why should I? The old ones are still in constant circulation." For 10 years, ending in 1965, Hitch produced 237 half-hour video thrillers and 91 one-hour shows. They're never off the air, always being repeated somewhere.

THE FEMALE freedom fighters might want to look into this "Bonanza" matter. The veteran, male-dominated western series on NBC is scheduled to open in the fall with an episode that has Michael Landon, as Little Joe Cartwright, getting married, at long last. But the bride dies, which leaves the Ponderosa again an all-male domain. A gesture that might be considered a copout in the female mind, which must have been thinking for years that a woman's influence would make for a better "Bonanza."

Lake Water Is Good News

At last, an abundant supply of water from Lake Michigan appears to be a reality for much of the Northwest suburbs. But how we obtain that supply of water, and the price tag, will be determined by how much we want to extend inter-governmental cooperation.

The good news came out last week when John C. Guillou, director of the Illinois Division of Water Resources Management, announced that the Northwest and Western suburbs had received a water "allocation."

Two intergovernmental agencies — DAMP, which serves Des Plaines, Arlington Heights, Mount Prospect and Palatine, and Tree Towns Water Commission, serving the Western suburbs — had sought the water for years.

DAMP's struggle had been especially long and difficult. Founded in 1957 when the projected need for water became apparent, DAMP has struggled against the courts and lawsuits to obtain — finally — its allocation.

As planned now, the water would be pumped in from a station located in Lake Michigan near the North Shore. DAMP has been awarded a total of 37.5 cubic feet of water per second.

All of this is reassuring, but the mechanics of receiving the water remain to be worked out — and there is where intergovernmental cooperation can pay off.

There has been some talk that DAMP and Tree Towns can get together and establish a common pipeline to serve both the Northwest and Western suburbs. Indeed, the two agencies have talked together about this possibility.

Egypt's War Forces

The decision by Egyptian President Anwar Sadat to oust all Soviet military advisers, estimated at anywhere from 10,000 to 20,000, from his country because of the Soviet Union's refusal to provide Egypt with all the weapons it asked for inspires a mixed reaction.

It is good news to the extent that a decline of Soviet influence anywhere in the world may be good news for the West.

Yet for the same reason it is disquieting news because it suggests that since the disastrous Six-Day War the Kremlin has been, at least to some degree, a restraining influence on the Arabs who are hell-bent for another showdown with Israel. It confirms that prowar forces are firmly in the saddle in Egypt, and whether Sadat is riding with them or is being ridden by them makes little difference.

But if not from Russia, where then will Egypt get the weapons it needs to support a fourth war with Israel in 24 years? Oil-rich Libya and Saudi Arabia, the latter in particular no great admirer of the Soviet Union, have reportedly prom-

A stumbling block at this time, however, may be the report that Tree Towns is a year ahead of DAMP in planning for water. Guillou reports that Tree Towns is ready to sell revenue bonds to provide financing for the pipeline; he reports that DAMP has further to go in preparing for the availability of water.

Cooperation, however, would be essential wherever such cooperation is possible, if for no other reason that other communities besides those involved in DAMP are interested in the availability of water from Lake Michigan.

All communities in the Northwest suburbs have faced a common problem: the amount of water available underground is not increasing to match the needs of this area. As the water table has dropped, communities have been forced to sink more and deeper wells to tap the remaining supply.

So, other communities have expressed an interest in joining up with DAMP or with Tree Towns. It remains to be determined, however, just how many will want to cooperate with DAMP.

Water for the suburbs, with Lake Michigan so nearby, must be a regional problem, and the nature of the problem indicates the potential for inter-governmental cooperation.

In the past, most local communities have obtained water from the ground on an individual basis. Now, with Lake Michigan water available, the cooperation which DAMP typifies can be extended. The winners will be local residents, who shall be assured a permanent supply of water.

ised Egypt Western arms in return for a break with Moscow. A Beirut newspaper mentions France as a source.

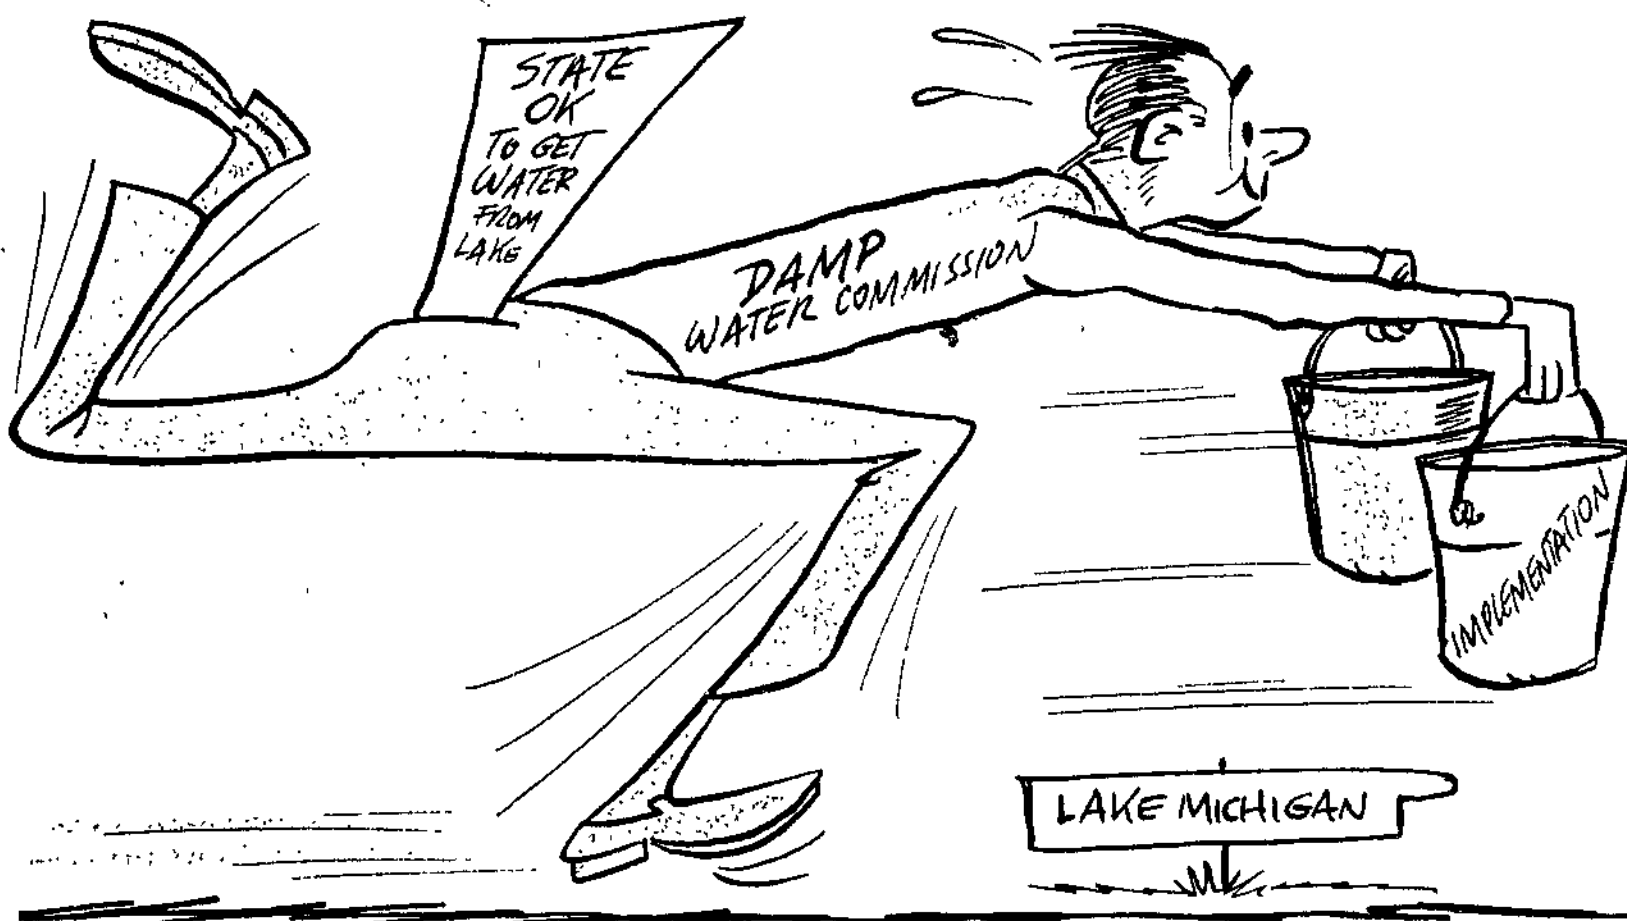

It would be ironic if Western-armed Israel were one day to be confronted by a bellicose Egypt also armed by the West, but it would not be the first time the democracies have worked against their own best interests.

According to Egyptian political sources, however, Egypt is not beginning to cozy up to the West, certainly not to the United States. Instead, this latest move by Sadat is a demonstration of his independence from the superpowers. This would also include China.

If that is the case, then the Middle East status is more quo than it was before, despite continued Arab blustering. There will be no peace in the foreseeable future but no war either, or at least no war that a strong and vigilant Israel cannot handle.

That is about the most encouraging interpretation of the situation that can be made at this time.

Shouldn't Have To Push Him

Bob Lahey's Column

The Great Diplomat Robbery, 1972

Frankly, I can't imagine why anyone over the age of six would value a clothes hanger with the words "Diplomat Hotel" emblazoned on it.

And the fact that it was filched by a Chicago alderman by the name of Singer or Langford, to me, makes a clothes hanger about as exciting as if it had once held the coat of Ish Kabibble.

The value of the items which the gleeful "Chicago 59" pilfered from their Miami Beach Hotel apparently was not great enough to elicit more than a shrug from the hotel management.

But the juvenile — yes, juvenile — act of carting off towels, ash trays, coat hangers and even room keys, by a bunch of alleged adults, angers — yes, angers — me.

The "Chicago 59," we are being told (by the Chicago 59), is the wave of the future in Chicago politics; these are the saviors, risen from the ranks of the people, come to rid us of the oppression of Mayor Daley and his minions.

Well, can anyone out there conjure up a vision of Richard J. Daley of Chicago slinking out of a hotel with a suitcase bulging with stolen towels?

According to the Chicago Tribune,

Anna Langford, the female alderman, chortled to the crowd who was buying up all the stolen goods at a fund-raiser Sunday: "When they first let us (blacks) in all those hotels, they all said, 'You better watch it, they'll steal you blind.'" And, sure enough, you stole them blind, didn't you, baby?

Archie Bunker may no longer claim the "they'll steal you blind" philosophy; Ald. Langford has pre-empted it and made it her own.

Her petty theft, said Ald. Langford, was an act of "courage" because in perpetrating it she risked perpetuation of a slander against her race. I am not certain that her fellow black Americans will fully comprehend the debt of gratitude they owe her.

It is of course unfair to single out Mrs. Langford for her heroism in ripping off the Diplomat Hotel, except for her mo-ronic boast, which entitles her to individual attention.

Indeed, the trio pictured in newspapers as they auctioned off the hotel loot was a microcosm of the Chicago 59. Mrs. Langford, Carmen Chico and Bill Singer: young, over-40, black, white, Chicano, male, female, all equally represented in a coalition of two-bit thievery.

"Well, see," Singer told the Tribune, "old and new politics aren't so far apart." The self-styled reformer would appear to believe the only difference is in whether you steal votes or towels. Or does it make any difference?

And Mrs. Langford declared that the merry band of larcenists defeated the Daley machine at the Democratic convention through the efforts of a lot of little people working together.

Right again, Anna. And they were never littler than when they checked out of the Diplomat Hotel.

Fence Post Letters To The Editor

Reader Reviews Flooding Problems

The FENCE POST Letters to the Editor

The article on the front page of the July 20 issue of the Arlington Herald left the inference that the only solution to the sewer backups and flooding experienced in recent weeks was the rebuilding of miles of outdated and undersized sewer lines at a cost of millions of dollars.

In reality, the tremendous recent growth of the community in the past decade from near 30,000 population to near 70,000 has taken place in areas, not with combined sewers, but with separate storm and sanitary sewers as required by State and local codes, and we do indeed have severe flooding in these newer areas and also sewer backups, not taking anything away from the other problem areas.

The situation has been worsening in recent years with the most recent rainfalls reported as ranging from 1" to 2½", more or less. In the article you reported 3/4" of rainfall in 15 minutes, which would have been 3" in one hour, but you also reported only 2.6" of rain in the past seven days, surely not tremendous quantities of rainfall, when storm drainage facilities should be designed for a maximum, specified rainfall in 25, 50, or 100 years. Or in other words, the storm drain system of the newer sections of Arlington Heights should have been more than adequate for the last several weeks rainfall.

A case in point is the 1400 block of North Highland, a village area that is never mentioned in the news articles, not mentioned in the village engineer's reporting (may be we should all call the engineer's office at each rainfall) and an area which sees several feet of water buildup at each "heavy" rainfall, to the point where the homes are completely surrounded by water. And this condition is worsening.

What amplifies the situation is that the area above is located exactly two city blocks from a storm water retention basin, has no combined sewers (which go to the Sanitary District anyway), and where the storm drains back up at each minor rainfall. At one of the recent flooding periods, the retention basin was within a foot or two of backing into Thomas Street, which certainly would have flooded the entire area with only a little more rainfall.

The reasoning appears quite obvious and has to be only a function of:

- Inadequately designed storm drains;
- Clogged storm drains;
- Inadequate retention in the basin.

With respect to the above, the first I do not know the circumstances; the second, in 10½ years, I have never seen a city crew clean a catch basin and/or check or clean out the storm drain piping, which could be completely blocked. And lastly, at a cost considerably less than the millions mentioned in the article, the retention basin could be deepened or widened to handle two or three times the acre feet of water it presently handles.

I am aware of the inadequacy of the local drainage basin to handle the immediate runoff of the Arlington Heights area, and that enlarged retention basins with pumping are only a temporary solution, but also a solution that might easily rectify the problems we have faced of late.

Thanking you for your consideration,
Richard L. Halsall

Housing Report Draws Support

Mission Council No. 2 of the Presbytery of Chicago, composed of representatives of fifteen Presbyterian churches in the Northwest Chicago area, wishes to commend the Arlington Heights Board of Trustees on its approval of the Joint Study Report on Low-Moderate Income Housing and its approval of the ordinance providing for the Housing Commission. These actions are important preliminary moves in meeting the urgent need for low-moderate income housing in the village of Arlington Heights.

We are particularly gratified by the village's recognition of the area-wide nature of the housing problem and its commitment to work with the surrounding communities and governmental agencies in meeting the housing needs of low and moderate income families in the area, all as indicated by the statement in the resolution.

We feel that this shared approach will be the method which will contribute most effectively to the final solution of the problem of our housing needs.

The "party of the people" is not the party of the "grass roots," but of a new group of political insiders which merely took over from the old group. The Democratic Party is changed, all right. But it is still not the "party of the people."

Mrs. William Stockdale

IEA Gets At Root Of Problem

Many of our more ecologically-minded constituents were elated with your July 20 headline declaring I.E.A.'s involvement with tree burning in Palatine. Certainly, our entire organization (60,000 teachers strong) would endorse any move that might prevent the possibility of timber tumbling on teachers or tots.

However, as you might now assume, the I.E.A. (Illinois Education Association) did not urge Palatine residents to "break the law" and burn their dying Dutch Elms as the headline suggested.

Rest assured, we are not offended. Rather, we are proud that some enlightened headline writer assumed we had branched out in our efforts.

Democrat 'Elite' Scolded

The Hollywood stars and professional politicians who ran the Democratic Party fund-raising "telethon" kept referring to themselves as the "party of the people" and the "grass roots" people, the people who are now supposedly dominant in the party. All this makes fine publicity and seems an appealing way to sell a political party, but it is not true.

The Democratic convention delegates stuck out like sore thumbs when compared with the majority of people who have traditionally called themselves Democrats, and who are the real "grass roots" of the party. The delegates were

Word-A-Day

Business Today

by BERNARD BRENNER

WASHINGTON (UPI) —A sharp conflict is brewing in the Senate over terms of a proposed new pesticide control bill which may be called up for a vote before Congress adjourns for the Republican convention next month.

The dispute centers around a bundle of "environmentalist" amendments added to the measure by the Senate Commerce Committee after the bill had first been cleared by the Senate Agriculture Committee.

Basic provisions of the bill, which were proposed by the administration last year, would give the Environmental Protection Agency new and much stronger controls over the approval for sale and actual use of chemical pesticides. There was comparatively little dispute over many of the key new control provisions in the House, which passed the bill last year, and in the Senate Agriculture Committee which stiffened the House version with its own amendments.

The Senate Commerce Committee amendments were seen by proponents as adding further safeguards for man and his environment. But Agriculture Committee members, up in arms over some commerce changes they regard as needless and possibly even dangerous in some cases, were preparing a long and reportedly blistering report for the Senate denouncing many of the amendments.

SOME OF THE Commerce Committee changes, farm bloc forces concede, represent head-on differences in policy.

The commerce amendments, for example, specifically authorize citizens suits to enforce pesticide controls — the Agriculture Committee bill does not. The commerce version requires EPA to make public test data filed by pesticide manufacturers as soon as it is received, so environmentalists can review it — before a pesticide is approved — the agriculture version would permit such early disclosure, but would not require opening the files until after a pesticide was registered.

But in other areas, the pending Agriculture Committee report was expected to attack commerce amendments as unnecessary verbiage which could lead to needless confusion and possible damage.

One amendment, for example, would require sending all U. S. pesticide registration labels to all foreign governments. Agriculture sources said this could lead to confusion because foreign buyers sometimes order pesticides in strength formulations not used in the U. S.

by BERNARD BRENNER

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Spurred by a 2.8 per cent jump in farm prices, the retail cost of a typical family food market basket rose 0.9 per cent in June to a record high, the Agriculture Department reported.

The retail increase was the sharpest monthly gain since February when prices rose 1.9 per cent. It left the market basket cost, which had declined in March and April before beginning a new rise in May, at 0.6 per cent above March levels and 3.6 per cent above a year ago.

The department's monthly "Price Spread" report showed supermarkets reduced their margins for the third consecutive month as a partial offset to June increases in raw farm products. But the narrowed margins absorbed only part of the raw product and wholesale gains, leaving part of them to be passed on in the form of higher retail prices.

THE REPORT SAID the chief factors in the June price increases were "substantially higher" farm returns for beef cattle, which reached record levels, and for hogs. Increases were also reported in farm values of frying chickens and fresh fruit, while farm and retail prices for eggs were down sharply.

Officials noted the recently-released Consumer Price Index report for June showed retail food prices up 0.6 per cent compared with the bigger 0.9 per cent gain shown in the Agriculture Department study. The difference came because the agriculture figures cover beef and pork rises for the entire month of June, while the CPI survey was made only in the first week of the month.

The 0.9 per cent June market basket increase lifted the annual cost of the food for a typical family of four to a record $1,299, up $11 from a month earlier and $2 above the previous record set in February, 1972.

only in the first week of the month.

The farm value of foods in the market basket was put at a record $528 for June, up 2.8 per cent from a month earlier, 5.3 per cent above March and 10.8 per cent above a year earlier. The spread between farm and retail prices — the mid-dieman's share of the food dollar — fell to $771 on an annual basis in June. This was 0.4 per cent below a month earlier, 2.4 per cent below March and 0.8 per cent below a year ago.

SEC Proposes Rules To Protect Investors

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Securities and Exchange Commission has proposed new rules designed to protect investors from some of the risk in buying new stock issues which suddenly soar in price — but not in value.

The thrust of the "hot issues" proposal is to give investors more information about the company's prospects and to require stock brokers to investigate companies issuing stocks "intensively."

The rules would also put pressure on brokers to steer investors away from stock too risky for the customers' own financial conditions.

"Hot issues," usually in young, highly technical firms whose products have not been tested in the market place, have a high mortality rate. Nonetheless, the demand for new issues is often high, with investors always eager to get in on the ground floor of the next Xerox or Polaroid — new issues which soared in price and stayed high.

A SEC aide said of 12 new issues in one week this year, eight became "hot issues." Such stocks sometimes start off selling for $5 a share and sell for 10 times that much a few weeks later. Sometimes, they become worthless.

The chief change proposed by the SEC would be to require a firm issuing stock for the first time to publish in its prospectus a prospective budget and its plans of operations, if available. Detailed information backing up the budget and plans would also be required.

This is a reversal from SEC policy, which has prohibited publication of the sort of "predictive" information on the grounds it could be misleading.

THE COVER of the prospectus would also have to carry the expected price of the shares when they go on the market.

The initial selling price is not now known until the stock actually goes on sale. In setting the expected price, the company and its underwriter would have to consider the firm's financial conditions and prospects so the price would be a reasonable reflection of the stock's value.

The SEC also recommended that the National Association of Securities Dealers (NASD) require underwriters to conduct a "thorough and intensive" investigation of the prospectus' statements.

Net income increased to $330,000, or 24 cents a share, compared to $99,000, or six cents per share, in the first quarter of 1971. The diversified community development and home building firm reported.

Net new contracts entered into in the quarter increased to 392 homes, from 249 units a year ago. The backlog of homes to be delivered increased to 569 units valued at $17-million, compared to 400 valued at $12.8-million at the same point in 1971.

Wall Street Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI) — The stock market has continued to ignore Main Street and focused on Miami Beach, Paris and Hanoi, according to Dean Witter & Co. Good economic news and a cyclical upswing has only brought frustration to the investor who has seen the market slide, it adds. However, Dean Witter still expects the stock market to "perform satisfactorily over the next 3-4 months." Second and third quarter earnings reports will help the market too, Witter adds.

JUICY CORPORATE profits plus many bargain — counter stocks should bring money back into the stock market, according to the Alexander Hamilton Institute. The market, however, is still worried about the Vietnam War, the international monetary situation and Sen. George McGovern, the institute says. In this case, the firm concludes, investors don't invest where there is uncertainty.

Legion Tourney Is Up For Grabs

by TOM CARKEEK

Gene Sackelt, chairman of Ninth District baseball, announced the pairings for the league tournament Wednesday morning and no matter what happened in the Park Ridge-Logan Square game last night, Park Ridge has been awarded the No. 1 seeding.

The tournament will begin at 5 p.m. today at three sites around the league with the first-place team playing the last-place club, second vs. fifth and third vs. fourth. Only six of the seven Ninth District teams will have to compete in the district tourney since Arlington Heights has already gained a berth in the state finals by hosting the affair.

Thus, it will be Park Ridge against winless Schiller Park at Maine South, Logan Square taking on Norwood Park at Recreation Park, and Des Plaines colliding with Palatine at Forest View High School. The tourney is a double-elimination setup, so no squad will be expelled until Friday.

The unusually close race in the Ninth District this year forced Sackelt to compose a tournament schedule before the regular season play had been concluded. But Wednesday's two games, the Park Ridge-Logan Square and Des Plaines-Palatine tilts, would not have affected the seedlings in the tournament. They would have influenced the regular league standings, however.

Going into Wednesday's action, Park Ridge stood at 12-5 with a half-game lead over Arlington Heights, which was 12-6. Logan Square was one game out at 11-6, so if Logan Square defeated Park Ridge yesterday, all three clubs would have 12-6 regular season marks. In that case, Sackelt decided the fairest way to seed the teams into the tournament would be to "take the teams involved and look at the wins and losses against each other. That will decide the No. 1 team."

Using that criterion, even if Park Ridge lost to Logan it would be 4-2 overall against the Lions and Arlington by virtue of a 1-2 record against Logan Square and a clean 3-0 sweep over Heights. The Lions would be 3-3 (1-2 vs. Park Ridge and 2-1 vs. Arlington Heights) and Arlington would be 2-4.

So the worst that could have happened to Park Ridge was that it tied for first but was seeded first anyhow. Since Arlington is being permitted to bypass district and county preliminaries, Logan Square automatically assumes second seeding in the Ninth District playoffs.

This entire arrangement, of course, was predicated on the assumption that Logan Square defeated Park Ridge Wednesday. If instead Post 217 downed the Lions, Park Ridge would win the title outright with a 13-5 record and Logan Square would drop to 11-7 and finish third.

So who is the favorite in the Ninth District tournament? Actually, the league was so evenly-balanced (with the exception of Schiller Park) that the four coaches of the area teams in the tourney are, understandably, a bit hesitant to single out any one club as the likely champion. However, Logan Square and Des Plaines seemed to draw the most support from coaches Jerry Romes of Park Ridge, Bob Grybash of Palatine, Merv Fink of Des Plaines, and Larry Nomellini of Logan Square.

Grybash was the most direct in his opinion that Logan Square may be the team to beat. "Pitching is the name of the game, and anyone with three good pitchers like Larry has got to be considered a favorite," Grybash said. "But Des Plaines and Park Ridge are tough too. Anyone of them could take it. You could just about pick them out of a hat."

Fink said, "Logan Square would have to be my pick because of their pitching, but really I don't see anybody better than we are." Fink added that his squad would be hurt by the apparent loss of pitcher Rick Haaning for the entire tourney. Haaning broke a bone in his foot against Arlington Heights Sunday.

Nomellini was non-committal insofar as a prediction, saying, "Well, I think we have as good a chance as anyone because our pitching rates with the best, but I have no predictions. It'll be very close."

When asked who his pick for tourney champion was, Romes replied "Us. We're in first place and we're hitting .285 as a team, so you can't go against the statistics. If we're healthy we should be right in there."

But Romes revealed that his squad may not be healthy. Starting catcher Mike McDonnell and leading hitter and third baseman Russ Anderson are ailing, according to Romes, and this may cause him some worry during the tournament. McDonnell "should be all right," but Romes rated Anderson as "questionable."

Other than his own team, Romes ranked Des Plaines as the favorite. "I think the pitching around the league is pretty even and hitting should win the tournament," he said. "To me, Des Plaines is the toughest-hitting club I've seen."

The Ninth District tournament, then, looks wide open to the coaches, and they should know best. We'll all know by next Monday.

OOPS, UMP. While Park Ridge's catcher gropes for the ball, Norwood Park's Rick Wisniewski scores during All-Star game action Saturday at Recreation Park. A wild throw to the plate in hopes of a force out accounted for one of the seven runs the Stars scored in the seventh. The league leaders could never recover and dropped the Ninth District's annual showcasing event, 11-3. (Photo by Jim Frost)

High School Clubs Lose Playoffs

The High School Summer League baseball season is quickly drawing to a close for the Herald area.

Only one area team remained alive in the post-season, single-elimination tournament after three more — Rolling Meadows, Fremd and Arlington — were ousted Tuesday. They all had advanced by winning playoff openers.

Another team which had won its tourney debut, Prospect, was not yet dead after Tuesday's play — though the Knights did not post an official victory. They were leading Niles West 5-4 after five and a half innings at Prospect before the game was halted because of darkness. (It had gotten underway late because of lack of an umpire). The teams were slated to finish this contest yesterday.

Highlights of the other three battles were as follows:

MEADOWS NIPPED

Rolling Meadows took the state high school baseball champion into extra innings before succumbing and dropping out of the tournament Tuesday. The Mustangs lost to Niles West 3-2 in eight innings.

The state champs had five players back from the IHSA titlist team including the pitcher, Blake Lorenz, who won the state semi-final game. Lorenz struck out six and walked none to help Niles West over the Mustangs.

Meadows tallied in the first and the fifth to grab a 2-0 lead but two errors and a tricky hop single gave Niles two runs in the sixth. A sacrifice fly brought home the winning run in the eighth inning.

Rolling Meadows scored on three singles by Mike Saugling, Len Link and Bruce Hanson in the first, with Hanson getting the RBI. In the fifth, Jack Lloyd singled and was tripled home by Carl Pedersen to make it 2-0 Meadows.

But the Mustangs let it slip away in the sixth. With one out, an error by the first baseman put a Niles West runner on. Then on a slow tapper to third, the third baseman erred on the throw. The umpire ruled that the base runner had already rounded second and was therefore entitled to score and the batter was awarded second. Then with two outs, Niles West scored its second run as a grounder right at the second baseman took a bad hop over his head.

The game went into extra innings and after two hits and a walk off loser Carl Pedersen, a sacrifice fly took Meadows out of the tourney.

VIKINGS BOW OUT

Dundee eliminated Fremd from further competition in the tournament by dealing the Vikings a 5-1 setback Tuesday.

Fremd scored its only run in the bottom of the seventh inning when Ken Roggenbuck doubled, Jeff Brisson singled, and a walk loaded the bases. Roggenbuck tallied on a fielder's choice, but then Dundee got out of the inning.

Dundee scored in the second on a double and an RBI single and then got two in the third via a walk and three consecutive base hits. Roggenbuck relieved starter Jeff Hanisch during the third-inning flurry.

Dundee added one in the sixth on a triple and a single and another in the seventh on an error, a stolen base and a double.

Dundee pitcher Richardson "completely overpowered us," according to Fremd coach Terry Gellinger. Richardson struck out nine and allowed only four hits. Hanisch was charged with the loss for the Vikings.

ARLINGTON OUSTED

Naperville scored a pair of safeties and then went on to push over a touchdown and an extra point in romping past Arlington, 11-1 on the latter's field.

The winner's score could have been in a football game except for the losers' singleton. That made the contest really a baseball game — the last one of the summer season for the Cardinals.

Naperville's "two safeties" came in the four-run first inning. The Cards never really recovered from those four unearned tallies that came about with the help of three errors. Joe Losos was the victim of the miscues.

Heading into the fifth, Losos still had a two-hitter going when his teammates started their hitless comeback. Chuck Dillon was hit by a pitch, advanced to second on a ground out, took third on a wild pitch and scored on an error.

Then came the bottom of the fifth, an inning that saw Losos fail to retire a batter. Seven runs — the "TD" — were registered and then the game was called because of the 10-run rule.

SCORE BY INNINGS

Arlington ..... 000 01— 1-3-4

Best Ballers Shoot 61

Bert Johnson would have been pleased with John Eiler and Bill Whitehead — winners of first annual Memorial Best Ball Tournament named in Johnson's honor.

Just a little over a year ago, Johnson was to play in the then Buffalo Grove Golf Club Best Ball Tourney, but he died the morning of the event. It was decided to pay tribute to the former Buffalo Grove resident beginning this year.

Eiler and Whitehead fired a net 61 to lead the 16 two-man field. Their efforts won for them $20 each last Saturday. The 61 equalled last year's winning total.

Right behind were Tony Krolack and Joe Sloat with a net 62. They pocketed $15 each.

Two pairs of golfers shared third place money of $7 each by their net 63s — Dennis Harrison and Jim Kinderman and Hank Blenner and Mario Molinaro.

Paul Logan

Those who say baseball is dying in popularity seem to have mistaken a death rattle for growing pains.

Football may be dominating the television ratings, but a glance at grass roots baseball in the Herald area proves hardball has never been bigger.

Each week several hundred games are published covering the sandlot spectrum — minors, majors, seniors, pony, colt, high school Junior Babe Ruth, American Legion and semi-pro. However, only the latter two organizations have been available to satisfy the needs of high school graduates.

At least that's been the case until a couple of years ago. At that time a handful of teams formed a Senior Babe Ruth League in Brookfield, the first 16-18 organization of that kind in the state.

In 1971 this young Illinois program had grown to 16 teams; this year the statewide organization had doubled that total.

Hoffman Estates was in on setting up the first Senior Babe Ruth League last year. This up-and-coming village and three others nearby (Bartlett, Streamwood and Hanover Park) formed the Irving-Lake League, the name coming from the roads that run through the four communities.

This summer this sophomore league, joined by Schaumburg, produced a state champion all-star team — an almost unbelievable feat.

Guiding the newly crowned champs is Lou Bocci. This All-Star manager came out of Cleveland in 1963 and threw himself into the boys baseball programs in the area. When this latest league was formed, Lou took charge of one team and led them to the first Irving-Lake title.

Bocci was back in the winner's circle this summer as his charges wrapped up the No. 1 spot again without a defeat. Over two seasons, his team has a remarkable 27-0-1 record!

Winning the league championship gave Bocci the manager's job of the all-star team. He took them to fourth place in last year's state finals and all the way last weekend. Today he's taking them to Alpena, Mich., for sectional play. After that is the National Finals in North Carolina.

Naturally you need talented players to go this far — Irving-Lake is loaded; you also need knowledgeable coaches — Ceph Johnson of Hoffman Estates and Bob Barna of Streamwood fill the bill; a strong group of backers helps a lot — they have followed the team all the way; and you need a lot of luck.

Lou Bocci

Sports Shop in Schaumburg when the season's over, but he's willing to do it. He believes in his ball club.

"Basically, we're a sound team," says Lou. "We're going into the tourney with six good pitchers. Our chances are real good."

Being a former outstanding hurler, Bocci realizes the value of a deep pitching staff. He was a four-year letterman and on the All Mid-America team each time while at Kent State University. Lou signed a contract with the Pittsburgh Pirates after graduation, but a muscle tear in his arm cut short a budding career.

"That was the most bitter frustration of my whole life," said Lou.

Last Sunday's 12-inning championship victory at Joliet helps make proud former athletes like him forget former misfortune. Instead, they can share in the pride of their young men and help them to reach their goals.

Few Illinois baseball teams have ever won big past state competition. Lou Bocci is optimistic. And, if the good Lord's willing . . .

Olympic Feats Of 1908

(One of a series on extra-ordinary happenings in each of the 16 modern Olympic Games.)

LONDON, 1908 — The Russians made their first appearance at an Olympic Games in 1908, with a team of only seven competitors. Four years later they returned to Stockholm with a team of 173 competitors.

In these two Games the Russians won four silver and three bronze medals in shooting, wrestling and yachting. Following Stockholm, the Russians did not appear again at an Olympic Games until 1952 at Helsinki.

Robert Kerr (Canada), at 5-5 the shortest man to win an Olympic sprint title, admitted that he had to get drunk to win his gold medal at London in 1908.

By taking the British A.A.A. 100- and 200-yard titles just before the Games, he had established himself as an almost east-river favorite to take the two Olympic sprints.

But shortly before the Games, an over-zealous trainer worked Kerr almost to the point of exhaustion and he finished a disappointing third in the Olympic 100-meter final.

Kerr then took matters into his own hands. He stopped training, went out and took more than a fair share of drink and danced and dined until the early hours of the morning. Thoroughly refreshed, he returned to his Olympic battle and ran away with the final of the 200 meters in 22.6 seconds.

Sportsman's Notebook

by Bob Holiday

THE NORTHERN ILLINOIS Chain of Lakes, at one stage some three feet above normal water level, is now something more like a foot and a half high and dropping slowly. And fishing the Chain lakes should be about back to normal by this weekend.

According to Bob Lang — who operates the Bob Lang Fishing Center on Lake Marie, about the middle of the Chain — walleyes continue to be the most surprising news of the 1972 season.

"We've always caught walleyes," says Lang, "but in previous years they were plentiful only through the spring months. But this year they are still coming in. There's a good sandbar in the middle of Lake Marie, our 'walleye bar,' and if you hit it at the right time you generally can pick up one or two."

Walleyes are answering most consistently to the Lindy Rig baited with a night crawler and back-trolled verrry slowly over the underwater rock and sandbars. Last week's walleyes included a seven pounder, so this summer's walleye action is no fluke. There obviously is a good population of these tasty pike in Lake Marie.

Lang also reports that the largemouth bass are continuing at their usual good mid-summer pace, oblivious to the high waters. Best results are with Lang's own Raider, single-spin lure, and with plastic worms.

"Stripers are running about 7 feet," says Bob, who adds that the most productive way to troll for them is with a small spinner-jug combination, similar to the popular river-rigs.

"Some of the best fishing," says Lang, "is for stripers and crappies at night. It's beautiful on this lake at night. (He answered the next question before it was asked.) "You'll have mosquitoes only for about an hour after dark. But then they disappear and it's beautiful and comfortable . . . and darn good fishing."

Anglers heading for the Chain of Lakes in the near future have not only a fairly good fishing population going for them — if they know where to go — but they can also enjoy a full day of fishing without driving for hours to get there.

For the guy or the family who just want to "go fishing" and they don't really care what they catch, live bait will be the most productive. On nite crawlers you can take just about any of the fish that swim the chain, all you have to do is put the nite crawler in the right place . . . right depth . . . etc. For crappies and stripers, minnows are the choice.

There have been relatively few northern pike caught this season in the Chain of Lakes, and Lang believes this might be partly because so many of the good fishermen have abandoned the old stand-by Spoonplug rigs in favor of plastic worms and Raiders.

"I think most of us agree that, all other things being equal, it's more fun to catch a good bass on spinning equipment than it is to troll with heavier tackle," says Lang. "But there's no getting around the fact that the Spoonplug is still one of the most effective lures for all kinds of fish, especially northern pike."

"Does he believe the northerns are there . . . that it just might take a good Spoonplug to find them?"

"That could well be," he answered. "Largemouth bass are at the dropoffs and you need a plastic worm or a Raider," he said. "And you have to remember that those are two very different lures. You can't work them alike at all."

"Normally by this time of year we've had a dozen or so real lunker northerns . . . but not this year. And, at the same time, you'll notice there aren't too many Spoonplugs working the lakes."

How would he fish the Chain if he were coming up for the first time this season?

"For walleyes," says Lang, "you need a Lindy Rig and big, fat night crawlers. And you will be more effective if you troll. You have to find the sandbars and work them back and forth."

"I'd troll Spoonplugs if I was looking for big northerns. They ought to be swimming the same waters the largemouth bass are working, except the northerns may be up shallower and further into the weeds."

"Largemouth bass are at the dropoffs and you need a plastic worm or a Raider," he said. "And you have to remember that those are two very different lures. You can't work them alike at all."

"You cast the plastic worm from the boat toward the shoreline and work it back to the dropoff where the bass are working. And you have to work it painfully slow so slow that you're sure you're working it too slow."

"The Raider, on the other hand, you can work faster. It's a spinner lure and you can just skim the tops of the weeds with it, or you can work it right on the bottom, just letting it limp along with the blade fluttering. Or you can let it fall down through heavier weeds and brush. It's a very versatile lure."

"And if I were fishing for stripers or crappies or catfish, 'I'd definitely go night fishing . . . first of all because that's the best time to catch them . . . and second because that's a very pleasant time to fish. No power boats, no water skiers, no mosquitoes . . ."

But Lang won't be night fishing this weekend, or any other weekend, since his Fishing Center is open 24 hours a day from Friday thru Monday morning and daylight to dark weekdays. Bait, guides, information, boats for rent, coffee, food, etc. Telephone 395-0112 for any other details.

Smith, DeLuca In Mat Nationals

The third in a series of top summer high school wrestling attractions will unfold in Iowa City, Ia., starting today and continuing through Saturday as the National Junior Championships are held.

As in the other events, two of the prominent names should be the aces from Hersey High School, Brad Smith and Tad DeLuca. These two plus others who finished in the top two places in the recent state summer championships will have expenses paid to Iowa by the Illinois Wrestling Federation. Others who participated in the summer meets may also enter the Nationals on their own.

In the state freestyle championships held a week ago last Saturday at Hersey, DeLuca — who was second in the state at 145 pounds last winter — was the 165-pound champion.

Smith, who had been undefeated for two and a half years through more than 70 matches and was two-time state champ at 126 and 132 pounds, finally had his long string broken in the freestyle tourney and was runner-up at 143.

Many of the other prep mat superstars from Illinois who finished first or second in the state in winter and summer competition, will also be showcased at Iowa City in the next three days.

Close on the heels of the Nationals will be a series of three all-star dual meets pitting Illinois squads against those from New York. They will take place this Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday nights at East Moline, Glenbrook South and Wheaton College, respectively.

This will give local fans another chance to see Smith and DeLuca in action, as well as other top wrestlers, without having to journey far from home. Each of the three duals will be preceded by opening ceremonies at 7:45 p.m. with wrestling starting at 8:00. Tickets may be purchased at the door for $2.

DeLuca will compete at both Glenbrook South and Wheaton. A third area boy entered at Glenbrook will be Marc Frankovic of Arlington High School.

Chemplex Golfers Sweat

Warmth and humidity wore down golfers as scores soared during the tenth round of the Chemplex Twilight Golf League. But while many wilted, steady Ray Cameron continued his mastery of the League by shooting an equally warm 40, the sixth time this season that Cameron has captured low net.

honors with a 33.

Both Cameron and Melchior came close to Jack Blanchard's 39-31 registered on opening night, but with only four weeks remaining, it looks as though Blanchard's records may remain unchallenged.

Bill Abbey, a "D" fighter, bagged a birdie on par 4 hole No. 8, as did Ray Cameron on par 5 hole No. 4.

Team No. 5 (Jack Jacobs, Milt Kostner, Sven Solvik and George Laybourne) was unable to shake off Team No. 6 (Ray Cameron, Hank Gudrian, and Bill Abbey), which trails by a single point. At this pace, the championship may be decided on the final night when the two teams meet.

Flight leaders for the second half of the season are Flight A — Ray Cameron and Walt Ramsey (tie); Flight B — Mike Melchior, Flight C — Sven Solvik, and Flight D — Bill Abbey.

Arlington Hangs On, 7-3

by LARRY EVERHART

Arlington Heights' Legion team did all it could to try to throw the Ninth District standings into a three-way tie Tuesday when it whipped Palatine 7-3 at Recreation Park.

That's just what might have ensued if Logan Square defeated Park Ridge last evening (press deadline came before game time). That would leave both of the latter teams with 12-6 league records, the same as Heights' final tally.

If Arlington did get an assist from Logan Square last night, it would be the fourth time in the last eight years that Heights has won or shared a Ninth District regular-season title.

Their latest triumph was gained by building up a 6-0 lead over Palatine in the first four innings, then hanging on after the visitors staged a rally that could have been worse and appeared to threaten the lead.

Post 690, which was in the thick of the race until it suffered a costly upset at Norwood Park last Saturday, must feel it should have taken home a win Tuesday. Palatine out hit Arlington 3-5 and socked two doubles and two triples, but left six men on base in the last two innings alone.

The visitors just couldn't come up with the big hit that would have had Arlington on the ropes.

Jene Bell walloped both of Palatine's triples — a pair of towering shots that would have been out of any park with a fence — while Gary Pemberton socked both doubles. Keith Steelman also had a pair of hits to keep his average around .400.

Jim Hopkins — whose Arlington teammates call him "Hoppy" — had a hop-in' fast ball and sailed through the first five innings scattering four hits and not allowing a run.

He departed in favor of Dave Sherrow in the sixth and that's when Palatine started making noise. Five straight runners reached base and three scored before an out was made as Ed Carpenter came in to snuff out the threat.

Prior to that Arlington scored all its runs off John Erickson who gave up six walks along with the five hits. The hosts started with two in the first on two walks, an error and a two-run single by Jim Locascio.

Heights broke it open with a three-run fourth on only one hit — Pat Broderick's

THE BEST IN Sports

two-out, two-run triple after two walks. The other run had scored on a fielder's choice.

Instead of rolling over and playing dead, Palatine came out swinging in the sixth. Pemberton led off with his second double. Steelman singled, Pemberton scored on a passed ball, Bruce Eberle walked and Bell clouted his triple to almost precisely the same spot as his previous one — the extreme right-field corner.

Bell's high, long shot ended up past the backstop of the opposite field and Palatine claimed it cleared the fence (about 340 feet from the plate) and should have been a homer. But Bell was confined to third and stayed there as the next three men were retired in order by Carpenter. Arlington added an insurance tally without a hit in the sixth on Bert Newman's sacrifice fly.

The loss dropped Palatine's league record to 9-7.

Palatine Golfers Just Miss Consecutive NIMAGA Wins

Palatine golfers just missed capturing back-to-back Junior Flight titles in the most recent Northern Illinois Men's Amateur Golf Association (NIMAGA) Junior Tournaments.

Jim Arden fired a brilliant sub-par 69 to capture the title at White Pines on Monday. In the previous tourney, John Loneragan narrowly missed taking home the top trophy at Chevy Chase. He was tied by Wheaton's Dave Thornally at 74 each and Thornally posted a par on the first hole of sudden death for the title.

In this week's Bensenville hosted event, Arden dazzled the field with an amazing 31 first nine total and then coasted in with a 38. Just one stroke back was Dave Long of Hoffman Estates (35-35) with 70. Long won a playoff with Jim Lentz and Blair Sunbury.

Sunbury, a North Chicago golfer, could have won the title had he showed up on time. His tardiness cost him a two-stroke penalty which boosted his (32-36) field leading 68 to what turned out to be a fourth place 70.

Rounding out the top six were Wilmette's John Montross and Skokie's Andy Ruttenburg with 71s.

Chris Dilger of Hoffman Estates came

Junior ROTC Going Co-Ed

The Army's Junior ROTC program is going co-educational this fall. The Department of the Army announced recently that girls should be given an opportunity to enroll in the Junior ROTC (Reserve Officers Training Corps) program conducted in high schools throughout the country. Until now, co-eds could participate only in such JROTC-support activities as sponsor groups and drill teams. Girls will be accepted at those high schools now offering Army Junior ROTC provided school officials agree. Girls, like boys, must be at least 14 years old before they can enroll in the JROTC. Students who participate in the program incur no service obligation.

Earlier this year, the Army announced that women college students could attend the Senior ROTC program. Ten institutions were selected to offer the ROTC college-level program to women on a five-year test basis. More than 94,000 boys were enrolled in Army Junior ROTC at 595 high schools during the 1971-72 school year. Some 3,000 girls at 129 of these high schools supported the JROTC by serving as sponsors and as members of drill teams. When schools reopen this fall, more than 600 high schools are expected to offer the Army JROTC program throughout the United States, the District of Columbia, Puerto Rico, Guam and the Canal Zone.

Make your own loan by writing a check!

Ever been tempted to write a check for a high priced item that was on sale but you didn't have enough cash left in your checking account?

With a Credit-By-Check account, you can go ahead and write that check, knowing the money will be in your account. That's because Credit-By-Check is a revolving line of credit designed to give you funds for anything you wish, any time, anywhere.

You pay nothing for this service until you write your first check. And, actually, you save money as compared to most other deferred payment charge plans.

So, don't get caught short of cash. Set up a First National Credit-By-Check account. It's as easy as signing your name. For complete details, visit one of our loan officers or call 827-4411.

Poor John. Money just seemed to slip right through his fingers. Every time he planned to stash something away, there wasn't anything left.

Then John decided to join the Payroll Savings Plan where he works. Now, an amount he specifies is automatically set aside from his check before he gets it. And invested in U.S. Savings Bonds.

Because John has become such a systematic saver, he's almost forgotten about it. When he gets around to remembering, he's going to have quite a nest egg laid away.

And now there's a bonus interest rate on all U.S. Savings Bonds—for E Bonds, 5 1/2% when held to maturity of 5 years, 10 months (4% the first year). That extra 1/2%, payable as a bonus at maturity, applies to all Bonds issued since June 1, 1970... with a comparable improvement for all older Bonds.

ARCHITECT'S RENDERING of the first of three luxury pet "motels" to be established by American Pet Motels, Inc., Buffalo Grove. The first in the multi-million-dollar complex of pet board units is scheduled to open in November in Lake County on Aptakisic Rd. near Milwaukee Rd. Others will be located in DuPage and Will Counties. Each motel will have private accommodations for more than 400 pets, with separate facilities designed specifically for different types. ## Announce Motels For Pets

The annual family vacation soon will include more than mom, dad and the kids when Robert Leeds opens the doors to his unique hospitality in suburban Buffalo Grove. For the first time, vacation plans can include the family pets, who will have luxury spas of their own to visit, thanks to American Pet Motels, Inc.

Plans for a multi-million-dollar complex of three pet boarding units were announced by Leeds, a management engineer, who heads the new company formed to establish the motel system.

Leeds, quite a pet fancier himself, said the Chicago architectural firm of Salvatore Balsamo & Associates, Inc. has been awarded a contract to design and build the units. The first is scheduled to open in November in Lake County on Aptakisic Rd. near Milwaukee Ave. Others will be located in DuPage and Will counties.

Each will have private accommodations for more than 400 animals, with separate facilities designed specifically for the type of pet to be boarded, Leeds said.

"Even such 'exotic' pets as ocelots, cheetahs, snakes and monkeys will have their own special living quarters," Leeds said. "Surveys indicate that 14 per cent of all Chicago area pet owners have animals other than dogs or cats. American Pet Motels will be the first privately-operated shelter with special accommodations for any type of pet."

Cats will have their Felidae House, fish a Piscatorium, dogs a Kennel and birds an Aviary. Other sections will include a Stable, Serpenterium, Simian Salon, Bunny Club and Exotic Empery. The last is for ocelots, cheetahs, margays and other unusual types.

Leeds said the four-footed animals will have carpeted sleeping quarters, adjoining outdoor runs, a maternity ward, special dietary services and a beauty salon for grooming. Music and ordinary street sounds will be piped in to make the animals feel at home.

Plans call for controlled temperatures, 10 to 15 fresh air changes per hour and "washing" of incoming air by batteries of bactericidal lamps installed in the air ducts.

"Fresh air entering the animals' quarters will be 99.9 per cent free of any bacteria," Leeds said. "This is especially important because one of the great hazards of the ordinary pet boarding establishment is the spread of disease."

To further prevent illness, no animal will be admitted unless it is in good health and has had the shots recommended for its type.

Leeds also is concerned with his guests' psychological health. All prospective employees will be tested to determine their compatibility with animals.

"Pets separated from their families and familiar surroundings need an extra measure of loving attention," Leeds said. Other services will include pick-up and delivery by attendants accustomed to handling pets which may be fearful of strangers.

And what will all this luxury cost? Rates are scheduled to fit into the average scale for the Chicago area, averaging $2 a day for cats and $2.50 for dogs.

Leeds became interested in making life better for boarded-out animals because of bad experiences he and his friends had with ordinary shelters. Among other things, they found over-crowding, dirt, fire hazards, lack of fresh air and careless, unsympathetic attendants.

"I've never been without dogs of one sort or another and my wife and I have raised coonhounds, raccoons and ocelots along with our three children," he said.

Before founding American Pet Motels, Leeds spent nearly four years researching the project, including interviews with pet owners, veterinarians, pet food manufacturers, kennel owners and kennel employees. He recently resigned as managing director of a management engineering firm to start his new company.

Leeds is a member of the Simian Society of America and the Long Island Ocelot Club and was one of the founders of the Michigan chapter of the Pony Club.

Chilled Water Cools Buildings

When was the last time you went to a movie theatre that was not air conditioned? What new office building have you visited that was not equipped with air conditioning?

Yet, up until the 1950s, the marquees were blazoned with the words "air conditioned" and "refrigerated." Today, we take it for granted, in the theatre, office or anywhere.

There is one factor, points out the National Better Heating-Cooling Council, that most of these systems have in common. If you ask engineers familiar with the workings of larger buildings, they will tell you that most air conditioning systems use chilled water for cooling.

Most people are aware that hot water is used for heating — many of today's homes have hydronic (modern hot water) heating systems. Not so many people are familiar with the other role for water in comfort control — taking heat away when it is not wanted.

In air conditioning, water is cooled in a "chiller" and circulated to cooling units either in the room or on the roof of large buildings. The chilled water picks up unwanted heat and brings it back to the chiller.

Because it has proved itself so comfortable in commercial buildings, many home buyers are now selecting water for heating and cooling, the council says.

Buyers Demand Smaller Homes

Record sales in residential real estate are chugging along, spurred by convenient new financial services for builders and buyers.

So observes Jackson W. Goss, president of Investors Mortgage Insurance Company, Boston, a subsidiary of Continental Investment Corporation, Boston, and a leading organization in the private mortgage insurance industry. The company works with lenders, such as savings and loan associations, mutual savings banks and commercial banks, by insuring the top 20-25 per cent of high-ratio conventional mortgage loans.

"THE DREAM of home ownership is coming true for 3.8 million American homebuyers this year — because they are finding substantial sums of mortgage money available at rates considerably under the high water mark of 1970," Goss said. "Couple this with extremely low down payments — as little as 5 or 10 per cent of the total cost of the house, including a private mortgage insurance plan to cover the top 20-25 per cent of the loan, and you have an extremely active market."

Conroy Receives Allstate Award

Jerry Conroy, 531 S. Dryden, Arlington Heights, has been awarded "Seal of Confidence" certification by the Allstate Insurance Companies, according to Illinois regional manager Richard A. Hogan. Seventy-nine of the companies' 680 11% nois sales representatives received this distinction recently.

The "Seal of Confidence" is awarded only to those among the companies' agents who have demonstrated over a long period of time their outstanding ability and exceptional judgment in dealing with the public as company representatives.

Conroy has been an Allstate agent since 1962. He represents the companies in Chicago, working mainly from the Allstate location in the Austin Claims Office, 2535 N. Central, Chicago.

"Realtors — builders — the housing industry — all have done their homework and they're selling more than just a dwelling. They're pushing the advantages of home ownership — space, modern conveniences, pride of owning a house as well as some very definite financial attractions."

"Today's home buyer is building an equity for future use — and if the value of his house goes up in the next 10 or 15 years, as values have in most areas in the past decade, he may find that the cost of ownership has been surprisingly economical."

"Builders and realtors are emphasizing the deductions that buyers can make on their federal income tax returns — mortgage interest and property taxes. This selling point stresses a lower actual monthly cost to the individual buyer, when he figures his income taxes for Uncle Sam each April," Goss explained.

"THE GREAT MAJORITY of buyers in this record surge are countering the trend of a few years ago, when it was fashionable to move into a large house with a large lot."

"The demand is now growing steadily for smaller homes, for townhouses, for condominiums and for the purchase of apartments and duplexes. The two-family dwelling buyer usually wants the added income — or if he is a retiree, an added measure of security, especially if he is handy with tools and plans to do his own upkeep."

"Even with duplexes, townhouses and apartments accounting for a vast segment of the new home sales, there is no lack of individuality available to the buyer. For instance, ingenious designs allow the townhouse purchaser to own a distinctive one-of-a-kind dwelling, even though he may have 15 or 20 close-by neighbors."

"This record demand for new homes, which began last year, is built on a solid foundation and should continue to demonstrate increasing strength in 1973."

"The pioneering spirit of the American family man still dictates settling down on a piece of land that's all his own," Goss concluded.

Prospect Heights is an unincorporated community along with its sister community Prospect Meadows, adjoining the northwest boundary of Mount Prospect. It has no village officials, and its local government affairs are handled by the Prospect Heights' Improvement Association. Located at the junction of Highway 83 and Camp McDonald Roads, the original center of the town remains much the same as in previous years.

However, there are several ultra modern community shopping centers on the perimeter of Prospect Heights, and the town is adjacent to Randhurst Shopping Center.

Prospect Heights is noted for its tall, mature trees and winding streets. There are several community swimming pools, parks, and 6 nearby public and private golf courses.

Home prices range from $32,000 to $78,000 and apartment rentals range from $200 to $295 per month.

Transportation is afforded in nearby Mount Prospect's Chicago and North Western Depot. Prospect Heights has 3 elementary schools and is served by 3 nearby high schools.

ROSELLE

TAX PROFILES	MEDIAN HOME VALUE	MEDIAN INCOME

MEDIAN AGE
Female	25 1 years
Male	20 2 years

Originally a small farm community, Roselle is rapidly becoming a typical modern suburb. The business area is that of a small town yet is modern, convenient, and constantly expanding, and home construction is developing at a rapid rate.

Roselle's older homes average 50 to 60 years old with newer homes starting at $38,000 to $50,000. Rental units are rapidly being developed with rents starting at $250 per month. There are 4 elementary, a junior high, and Lake Park High School nearby. Pupil-teacher ratio is 20:1 with $672 spent annually per pupil.

The main shopping section is supplemented by 2 shopping centers plus Woodfield Mall in nearby Schaumburg. The Village operates 4 parks, 2 playgrounds, and there are riding stables and 4 country clubs within 3 miles of the village.

Hanover Park is one of the more rapidly growing communities that are included in the Schaumburg territory of suburban subdivisions. A wide variety of new homes have been constructed in the past 6 years, ranging in price from $38,000 to $55,000 plus many multi-family dwellings and apartment complexes with rents ranging from $200 to $275 per month.

Hanover Park is served by Conant High School and the new Schaumburg High School. Pupil-teacher ratio is 24:1 with $548 spent annually per pupil.

There are several community shopping centers in Hanover Park plus much additional shopping convenience in nearby Hoffman Estates and Woodfield Mall. The community is served by St. Alexis Hospital in Elk Grove Village and Northwest Community Hospital in Arlington Heights. There are 8 doctors and 6 dentists practicing in the immediate area.

Inverness is located along the rolling hills and wooded valleys of Palatine. The community is noted for its large lots, winding roads, natural wooded beauty, and numerous styles of custom built homes developed with the approval of the Developers and Home Owners' Association. Homes in Inverness range from $70,000 to $250,000 in value, and Inverness is considered one of the Northwest Suburbs' most prestigious communities.

Inverness is served by Palatine and Fremd High Schools, with a pupil-teacher ratio of 23:1 and approximately $699 spent annually per pupil. There are 13 elementary schools, and the William Rainey Harper College.

Shopping is done in nearby Palatine, Woodfield Mall, and Randhurst Shopping Center.

Dist. 21. Zale made the presentation on behalf of Lakeside Villas townhomes, the new Zale development in Wheeling.

A sizable contribution to the public school system of Wheeling was made recently by Zale Construction Company, on behalf of Lakeside Villas, their new townhome development in Wheeling.

The presentation was made by Al Zale, president of Zale Construction, to Kenneth F. Gill, superintendent of School Dist. 21, in a recent ceremony in Gill's offices in Wheeling. Zale feels that builders of extensive new housing have a civic responsibility to share in the cost of educational services required by the influx of new families.

Lakeside Villas is a 35-acre, $20 million development built around a 2½-acre, manmade lake. Seven different townhomes are available, ranging in size from 1,800 to 2,100 square feet under roof, with two or three bedrooms and 1½ baths.

THE SPACIOUS, California-Contemporary style townhomes boast such luxury features as wall-to-wall carpeting, full basements, fully-sodded lawns and shrubs, glamour baths and kitchens, and extensive closet space. Five homes have attached garages, all are available with optional central air conditioning. Models are priced from $29,250

Lakeside Villas is located within bus, train or automobile commuting of Chicago; shopping, including the Randhurst and North Point shopping centers, is a few minutes away. In addition to the public schools of Wheeling, a number of parochial schools are close at hand, as well as restaurants, theaters and churches. The development is also conveniently close to the Arlington Country Club and many other golf courses.

Furnished models are open Sunday and daily from 10 A.M. to 6 P.M. To reach Lakeside Villas, take Edens Expressway or the Tri-State Tollway to Willow Road, turn West on Willow to Schoenbeck Road

Terrence A. Bolger, president of T. A. Bolger Realtors, Inc. of Elk Grove Village, announced that broker Dale Hada-

Sales of existing homes in Cook County for the month of May showed a five per cent increase in number volume over April figures and a 3.5 per cent increase in dollar volume according to First Fed-

May, 1972, totals were $92,053,000 for 2,849 transactions compared to April's $88,939,000 for 2,713 transactions.

However, cumulative figures for the first five months of 1972 show a .7 per cent increase in number volume over the same period last year, and a .8 per cent decrease in dollar volume. Sales through May, 1972, totaled $369,755,600 from 11,930 transactions compared to $372,638,400 from 11,848 sales during the first five months of 1971.

Compared to the same month last year, May, 1972, dollar volume dipped 1.4 per cent below the $93,382,500 recorded for May, 1971. Transaction volume dropped 5.2 per cent below the 3,038 sales in May of last year.

JEFFERSON TOWNSHIP experienced the heaviest trading of the 33 townships with $12,627,000 for 357 transactions. This made up 13.7 per cent of the total dollar volume and 12.5 per cent of number volume.

Lake Township ranked second in overall activity with 239 transactions for $6,182,000, representing 8.4 per cent of total sales and 6.7 per cent of total dollar volume.

Both Proviso and Maine Townships accounted for 4.9 per cent each of total dollar volume, with $4,511,000 for Proviso, placing third, followed by Maine with $4,475,000.

Thornton Township ranked third in number volume with 162 transactions totaling 5.7 per cent of county figures, and fifth in dollar volume, with $4,391,500 for 4.8 per cent of the county total. Calumet Township trailed slightly in number volume, with 160 transactions for 5.6 per cent.

"REAL ESTATE sales remain strong as we approach mid-year," says James C. Fitzmaurice, senior vice president and mortgage manager. "There is good strength in the existing market, enough so that many realtors are still having difficulty obtaining an adequate number of listings. Mortgage demand has certainly been stronger than we anticipated, and we were already prepared for record volume," Fitzmaurice added.

"During the past month, savings and loan associations received expanded authority to make loans up to 95 per cent on residential properties valued to $37,895 and 90 per cent loans on properties valued to $50,000. This is important because it is representative of the broadened real estate lending powers available to savings and loan associations."

Fitzmaurice concluded that the increased lending authority should help foster greater variety in kinds of housing as well as heightened responsiveness to the demands of the market.

With a net savings gain of $27,626,155 during the first six months of 1972, resources of St. Paul Federal Savings and Loan Ass. of Chicago climbed to $400,443,506, Faustin A. Pipal, board chairman, announced.

Total savings deposits rose to $345,201,135 at June 30 from $317,574,980 at the beginning of the year.

"Reaching the $400 million mark in assets not only represents a milestone for St. Paul Federal but also further strengthens our position as the leader in home financing for the western area of Chicagoland," Pipal said. "Our strong savings inflow, when added to continuous loan repayments, should enable St Paul to top the 1971 record mortgage disbursements of $72 million."

He said first mortgage loans and contracts increased to $352,654,033 at June 30, compared with $332,280,962 at the start of the year.

Reflecting savings activity, the association paid in excess of $8 million in interest to its depositors during the six months period.

St. Paul Federal, the largest financial institution in western Chicagoland, is located at 6700 W. North Ave., Chicago.

Golf Course, Campgrounds Ready At Apple Canyon

Two more recreation opportunities — this time on land — will add to sports activities at Apple Canyon Lake, the new leisure-like living community near Galena, Ill. Built around a 420-acre spring-fed lake the Apple Canyon Lake community has opened a nine-hole golf course. A camping center was recently finished.

The golf course, which winds among private homesites around the lake, is ready for play. It was designed by David Stortz, who also supervised construction of the courses at the Playboy Club, Lake Geneva, and the Indian Lakes Country Club in Bloomington, Illinois. Open to property owners as part of their membership privileges, the course is also available to guests who make appointments prior to their visit to tour Apple Canyon Lake.

The course is maintained by the Management Services Division of the Branigan Organization and controlled by the Apple Canyon Lake Property Owner's Association.

The new camping area was designed into the lake community by the Branigan Organization so that property owners who have not yet built their homes may still enjoy their lake investment. Home owners, of course, may also use the campgrounds, as well as visitors on appointments. Altogether, there are about 100 sites, many with electrical hook-ups. A pavilion with laundromat, rest rooms and showers has also been finished.

Also completed is the "Apple Cove Shopping Port," a cluster of shops down on the shoreline. To start, it includes a convenience grocery store, snack bar, and Branigan Sales Offices. Plans will be installed so that property owners may run to the store via boat. A deck will surround the buildings, featuring outside dining.

Currently, about 75 per cent of the sites have been sold at Apple Canyon Lake, with 90 homes either up or nearing completion.

The Canyon Club, overlooking a portion of the lake, is in full operation, including the teen center and swimming pool.

Down at the lake, all water sports are underway with fish reaching maturity this summer. Two years ago, the lake was stocked with 480,000 fingerlings.

Apple Canyon Lake may be toured by land or water, every day, from 9 a.m. until dusk.

To get to Apple Canyon Lake, take Highway 20 west through Freeport and Stockton, then follow the signs.

A SPORTY, NEW GOLF course designed by David Stortz at Branigan's private Apple Canyon Lake near Galena, is now ready for play. Open to property owners, the course is also available to guests who make appointments prior to visiting the lake. Tours can be arranged by contacting The Branigan Organization of Medinah, Ill.

Executive Plaza At Woodfield Told

Plans for construction of Woodfield Executive Plaza, $20 million twin tower office development adjacent to Woodfield Mall, in Schaumburg, have been announced.

Charles W. Palmer, partner in Farnsworth, Palmer and Co., developer and leasing-management agent of the complex, said it will occupy 12 acres at the southwest corner of Golf Rd. (Rte. 58) and the new Rte. 53 expressway, south of the Northwest Tollway cloverleaf.

A roadway, East Entrance Dr., separates the development from the southeast parking area of Woodfield Mall, world's largest multi-level enclosed shopping center with 2 million square feet of retail space on 191 acres.

Woodfield Executive Plaza will feature twin 11-story buildings, each occupying six acres offland with total parking for 1,300 cars. Dining facilities for tenants will be provided in the buildings.

Construction on the first Woodfield Executive Plaza building will begin next month. Occupancy is scheduled for early next summer.

The steel and concrete all-electric structures, topped in buff precast concrete and accented with bronze glass, are designed by Perkins and Will Architects, Inc.

Location of the complex, according to Palmer, is the most desirable for commercial development of any in the Woodfield Mall area. "The project's accessibility to either Golf Rd. or off of Woodfield Mall enables visitors to completely bypass Mall vehicular traffic and its parking area," he explained.

The site is 15 minutes by car from O'Hare Airport and about 35 minutes to downtown Chicago via the Kennedy expressway.

Palmer said he expects as much as "one-half" of Woodfield Executive Plaza tenants to maintain corporate headquarters in the complex. Other occupants will include mainly sales, service and corporate regional offices, accounting, advertising and graphic arts firms and branch offices of Chicago area companies.

Woodfield Executive Plaza will add more than 440,000 square feet of office space to the commercially-booming Woodfield area. Each floor will provide 17,000 square feet of nearly column-free space.

Perkins and Will estimates that each floor will serve a firm employing as many as 150 persons. Smaller space users with suites from 800 square feet will also be accommodated.

The lobby level floor offers 13,000 square feet of space. Five high-speed elevators per building will open to carpeted lobby areas on each level. Mechanical equipment is to be located in the basement and on the roof of each tower.

A heating air conditioning system features individual controls for all exterior offices. A number of free tenant installations include vinyl asbestos flooring, modular fluorescent lighting system, vertical venetian blinds and ample partitioning.

Attorney for the developers in the project is Mel Katten of Altman Kulaniet and Weiss, Chicago.

Construction Industry Seen As The Economy Frontrunner

The commercial construction industry is clearly one of our economy's front-runners — and will so remain for the rest of the year.

"A tremendous tide of commercial building is now sweeping westward," declares Duane A. Holladay, managing trustee of Continental Mortgage Investors and chairman and managing trustee of Diversified Mortgage Investors, both of Boston.

The picture for the last half of 1972 should remain almost unchanged from the current situation.

"The West and the South will continue to dominate the remainder of 1972 — the demand is there — it is strong now and will continue strong," Holladay notes.

A projection, based on current trends, pretty well pinpoints the 19 cities where commercial builders will be busiest during the final half of 1972, he notes.

"In Denver the value of non-residential construction this year is already up about 175 per cent from a year ago — and should end the year near that level."

The other "hot" markets for 1972 include Milwaukee, where commercial construction values will be up about 140 per cent ahead of last year, Phoenix, up 135 per cent, San Diego up 129 per cent, Anaheim, California up 111 per cent, Philadelphia, up 72 per cent, Los Angeles, up 70 per cent, Birmingham, up 50 per cent, Atlanta up 49 per cent, and Miami up 43 per cent, Holladay predicts.

"LAST YEAR, commercial builders in the Northeast held the spotlight. In 1972, that spotlight will be focused on the West. On a regional basis, total commercial building in the 'West' is already up 46 per cent from a year ago, with new office construction — up 115 per cent — leading the way. Store construction has increased 50 per cent and industrial construction 48 per cent. And the pace should be maintained for the last six months of 1972."

"In the South, non-residential building is up 27 per cent. While industrial construction has leveled off — supply has, for the moment, caught up with demand — new office building is up 33 per cent, and store construction up 35 per cent," Holladay notes.

In the North Central section of the nation, overall commercial construction is up slightly over 2 per cent and temporarily off about 6 per cent in the Northeast. The last half of 1972 will almost equal the tremendous surge of commercial construction in the Northeast last year — a surge brought about by heavy demands for new office buildings and industrial plants. While the rates are off in that section now, the pace should pick up again before the end of the year, he emphasizes.

"A similar situation is becoming apparent in the North Central section," Holladay adds.

The last six months of 1972 will "show burgeoning demands — a pleasant prospect indeed, for the commercial construction industry — despite the crocodile tears that they may shed because there's just too much work to handle," Holladay concludes.

Real Estate Bd. To Make Survey

A survey of Chicago Real Estate Board (CREB) members will soon be conducted to determine the assessment percentages now being placed on different types of property, according to Joseph G. Kuehnle, chairman of the real estate tax committee of CREB.

In a statement before public hearings conducted for the Cook County Assessor's Office on July 13, Kuehnle said CREB is not prepared to recommend percentages of assessment for various types of property.

"The necessary data that must serve as a base for such percentages are not yet available," he said.

Kuehnle said the results of the planned survey will be presented to the assessor's office for evaluation.

According to Kuehnle, property taxes in the City of Chicago have risen by 66 per cent between 1960 and 1971. "The real estate tax situation is desperate," he said.

"The important proposition now facing the people of Cook County, concerning the classification of property for assessment on the basis of its use, is most crucial for their economic and social welfare," he said.

"The Chicago Real Estate Board maintains that classification of real property is not equitable," Kuehnle said. Classification is a way of officially shifting the financial load from one type of property to another. This shifting of the burden from one type of property to another does not solve the problem. On the contrary, it compounds the problem."

KUEHNLE CITED four points made by the National Commission for Urban Problems on the consequences of the real estate tax:

High property taxes raise the cost of housing to the occupants and simply put a significant part of the existing housing stock beyond the reach of many in the low-income population. One outcome is an increasing need for public housing to fill the gap.

These taxes discourage consumption of and investment in housing in general by the entire population. Especially hard-hit are middle-income families: people ineligible for subsidized or public housing, and with insufficient income to pay for luxury housing.

Real estate taxes deter property improvements, making it less likely that the central city will remain desirable as an attractive residential location for families of all income levels.

There is evidence that the property tax helps to make central city locations relatively unattractive for most types of business activity.

Designer Stresses 'Believability' In Models

"Believability" is the key to effectively planning the interior decorating scheme of a model home, in the judgment of one of the Chicago area's leading young interior designers.

Richard Honquest, president of Richard Honquest and Assoc. of Addison, is convinced that whatever else it might be — cute, cozy, elegant, dramatic — a model home has to be believable.

"If you can't make the potential buyer believe that she can do as well within her own budget and, in many cases, using as many of the things she already owns as possible, you're really not serving anyone," said Honquest. "We're not trying to build monuments to the interior design art. We're aiming to show a specific home to its best advantage and suggest practical and beautiful ways the buyer can decorate and furnish."

A demonstration of the Honquest staff's approach to design are the three furnished models at The Trees of Wheaton, a newly opened development of 248 "country cluster" homes by Albert Riley, Builder.

Although this new development has enjoyed exceptional sales results — the firm took 150 deposits from people driving by even before the models were opened — word of the interior design has also generated a good deal of interest and traffic to The Trees. One reason is Honquest's philosophy of exploiting the environmental plan and even the architectural motif as part of his design approach.

"THE MAN IS A wizard," extolls sales manager Mort Stein.

Honquest's "wizardry" begins with working with the house design. The Trees of Wheaton are basically four individual homes in a single building, each with its own private entrance and gar-rage. The Aspenwood is a ground-level ranch plan, the Dogwood is also a ranch but located on the second floor, and the Birchwood and Cedarwood are two-story plans.

Honquest and his staff build on the style of house as a starting point for planning. For example, he created a "loft" effect for the Dogwood. The Aspenwood ranch model has a ground level orientation and its design theme is that of an indoor garden.

Another of Honquest's techniques for achieving believability is combining the old with the new.

"Rarely will you find a family or even an unmarried buyer who is planning to furnish from scratch. Ordinarily, people want to use as many of their possessions as possible, and we try to use a number of older pieces or accessories to demonstrate that you can incorporate much of what you may already own to furnish your home," Honquest noted.

He concedes that there are obstacles to using some of the furniture which a mature couple especially might have used in the large home in which they reared their family or furniture which the young couple or single buyer might have inherited along the way. The problem is one of size and scale.

To compensate for the steadily rising costs of construction, today's homes are being built a little smaller to keep prices within the reach of middle income families.

"Scaled-down rooms need scaled-down furniture," said Honquest. "Some things simply will not work. They may be simply too large to fit or to maintain proper proportions to the room. What we show in the models is what can work so the buyer can make some judgments about those things he can keep and what he may have to acquire."

Honquest's craftsmanship is open for inspection from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. seven days a week. The Trees of Wheaton are located on Roosevelt Road, about 1½ miles west of Naperville Rd.

Home Payments Seldom More Than Rent

Young people just getting started with their families often look on the purchase of a home as something quite beyond them financially. Yet those are the very ones who should be seriously considering it.

They have a rising scale of earning power ahead of them, and what may be a tight budget now will be easier as time passes. Payments on a home are seldom higher than rent if the young couple chooses something within their income level.

This is not to say that home ownership is always right for young people. Situations such as a job requiring frequent relocation, lack of down payment, and other factors may indicate that home purchase isn't the wise course. Decisions should be made from the facts, however, not from the lack of them.

The usual comparison of rent receipts against growing equity in a house is valid. Modest monthly payments on a mortgage, even at today's high interest rates, will accumulate substantial equity growth over 5 to 10 years. There will be added advantages of income tax deductions for taxes paid and interest paid, and the satisfaction of ownership.

ON THE OTHER side of the coin is the fact that rental payments can sometimes buy more spacious quarters than the same figure in mortgage payments. The mobility afforded by renting is sometimes so attractive that renters are willing to forego the advantages of accumulated capital. There also are no hot water heaters to replace, shrubs to buy and other maintenance costs.

Sometimes the solution is buying low-cost income property, a duplex, for instance. The down payment requirement is usually comparable to a single-family residence, but half the property is supplying income from rental, which helps make the payment. Upkeep is generally higher and there is some inconvenience because ownership of income-producing property carries some additional responsibilities with it.

In a few years, however, it may be possible to use both sides of the duplex for income and buy a single-family house. The income will probably pay for the duplex with some left over to apply against the house payments, at the same time building an estate for a young family with no strain on the budget.

All of this is not to say that young people should enter into home ownership without an understanding of the obligations they would assume and the value and legal status of title to the property. If they look at the facts of their particular circumstance, however, getting advice from a Realtor, banker or other professional where they need it, it could be a step toward security that they will enjoy as the years pass.

Advice To The Old-Home Owner

If you are a bit uptight about the way your home looks, revamping the heating system may solve a lot of your problems. A few bits of advice from the National Better Heating-Cooling Council may give you some solid ideas.

First of all, if you are planning any sort of home improvement, remember that heating is needed in nine out of ten modernization projects, and if planned at the outset will save you a lot of money. Later on, it will be much more costly.

If the house is old and has a steam or hot water system using large, bulky radiators, you can change the appearance of the entire home by converting to modern baseboard heating. Low in height and trim looking, baseboard panels actually liberate a room and provide more living space.

With baseboard heating, you can hang draperies to floor length, push your furniture back against the wall adding space to the center of the room and lay carpeting wall-to-wall. Best of all, because the baseboard panels literally stretch the heat from corner to corner, all drafts are eliminated.

To gain even more space, trade in your old boiler for one with the new compact designs. Appliance-styled and much more efficient than the older models, they pay for themselves by up-to-25 percent reduction in fuel consumption and leave enough space for a pleasant play or work area.

400 CENTER Now Open

Deerfield's newest office building, the 400 CENTER, located at 400 County Line Road, has officially opened this month.

A variety of professional and business tenants are beginning to occupy the 36,000 square foot building. Recently opened offices include Francoeur & Company, Dr. Michael C. Rodbro, Ltd.,

D.D.S., a general practice dentist, Dr. A. E. Atta, D.D.S., an orthodontist, and the general offices of Northern Earth Movers, Inc. Five other tenants are scheduled to move into the building next month.

The two story mansard roof building is located across the Deerbrook Shopping Center, next to the Atrium Plaza. The building is a development of Keeper Nagel, Inc. of Lake Forest and James DiPietro of Deerfield. The building architect was Howard Lawton, Jr. of Highland Park.

The 400 CENTER is owned by a group of investors organized by Keeper Nagel, Inc., a real estate investment firm.

"The building represents a redevelopment, expansion and modernization of what was formerly the DiPietro Plumbing building," said Charles R. Catalano, Executive Vice President of Keeper Nagel.

"An investment partnership acquired the old building and provided the equity capital for approximately one million dollars in improvements that have gone into the new structure," said Catalano.

A FULL SERVICE office building, the 400 CENTER features a convenient location, modern well structured facilities and ample parking for tenants and visitors. Individual office spaces are custom designed for each tenant and are completely carpeted throughout.

"The building is designed to meet the needs of small space users with a blend of tenants including accounting, investment and insurance firms and small business offices, as well as physicians and dentists," said Karl F. Nagel, Chairman of Keeper Nagel Inc. The firm is also responsible for leasing the building.

"The building is leasing ahead of projections and interest has been high especially since we opened our new model office suite," said Nagel. "We believe there is definite need for well appointed new office space that is realistically priced," he said.

THE 400 CENTER, located in building designed for the needs of Deerfield, is a full service office small space users

Introduce New Concept In Real Estate Service

Located on a site known to Schaumburg residents as the Four Seasons Nursery & Equipment Supply, Annen & Busse, Inc. opened their new office to serve the Schaumburg Hoffman Estate locale. In a building more than 50 years old, renovated and redecorated, Annen & Busse introduced a new concept in real estate service.

"We believe that people will enjoy an informal atmosphere, made comfortable in pleasant surroundings, the feeling of a peaceful climate amidst the frantic hustle of everyday living," said William A. Annen, president of the firm. "When clients are either selling property or purchasing a home for their family, they should be able to relax to give considered thought in making that decision."

The office is at 127 S. Roselle Road, directly across from the Schaumburg Village Square Shopping Center, about one quarter mile south of Schaumburg Road.

Situated on one-half acre of landscape surrounded by wooded areas, the new office is highlighted with many private conversation settings, for use when discussing the needs of the customer, including the future utilization of a large screened patio area overlooking fruit trees and gardens, that says "Relax, we're your friends and we're here to serve you."

Annen & Busse, serving the northwest suburbs for over 20 years, are experts in aiding owners and buyers of residential property. The firm has four offices: Schaumburg, Arlington Heights, Mount Prospect, and Palatine. Pete Rodgers, sales manager, along with experienced members of his staff, Dick Dwinell, Ron Vollmann, Ken Dubs & Ron Schune, are in the new Schaumburg facilities, along with several new sales associates who are joining them immediately.

Annen & Busse, Inc., charter members of MAP Multiple Listing Service, have celebrated 22 consecutive record breaking years. Members of the National Multiple Listing Service, they have successfully transferred hundreds of families in and out of the northwest suburban area to all parts of the United States, simplifying the many problems and inconveniences of moving from city to city.

Tiburon Brings Touch Of California

Tiburon, Larwin's townhome model in Tanglewood Village, located in DuPage County, is named for a relaxed and rustic community located in scenic San Francisco Bay.

The design of the Tiburon and the resort-like atmosphere of Tanglewood confirm the choice of name. Larwin has brought California to Illinois by creating the kind of recreation-oriented, maintenance-free environment that homeowners enjoy on the West Coast.

The single-story Tiburon has three bedrooms with a centrally situated bath that has a separate entrance to the master bedroom suite. A dramatic, garden view living room leads through sliding glass doors to the outside patio, and to a convenient kitchen and breakfast bar with an adjacent garden view family room for dining. A separate utility room is located between the kitchen and the bath.

More formal dining space is available as an option if the family requires only two bedrooms. As shown in the model home, the optional formal dining room is raised and separated from the living room by a decorative wooden beam railing.

The Tiburon's $28,490 price includes full house carpeting, dishwasher, waste disposal, refrigerator, range and oven, and automatic washer and dryer. A private fenced rear patio also comes with the price of the home.

DECORATOR DESIGNED vinyl asbestos tile in the entry area, kitchens, family rooms, and bathrooms are another Larwin "extra" that enhance the practicality of its Tanglewood townhomes while adding color highlights that blend perfectly with the California styling.

An imaginative basement treatment in the Tiburon model features an Hawaiian motif, complete with colorful polynesian ceiling paper, a luau serving cart, and a hand-carved south pacific chess set. The basement demonstrates another Larwin exclusive, full eight-foot ceilings that add exciting living dimensions to the downstairs rooms.

Three basement plans are available as options to Tiburon homebuyers. At nominal additional cost, ordered at the time of purchase, owners can select an unfinished basement and utility area, a large family room and utility room with storage and walk-in closets, or a smaller family room, utility room bath, closets and two bonus rooms. All basements feature full eight-foot high ceilings.

The Tiburon is one of five decorator-finished models on display at Tanglewood. Residents may call upon the Larwin Home Center at Tanglewood for the purchase of additional items for their home. The Home Center offers a full line of home furnishings and appliances as well as free professional decorating counsel.

TANGLEWOOD IS the newest of three villages in Larwin's 1,000-acre "Greenbrook Country" in DuPage County on Lake Street just east of Barrington Road.

Two, three and four-bedroom townhomes in one and two-story plans are priced from $23,990 to $30,990. FHA, VA and conventional financing are available.

Tanglewood's resort-like atmosphere also stems from the community's extensive recreational facilities which include Club Tanglewood's two spacious clubhouses, three competition-sized swimming pools, children's wading pools, barbecue areas, putting greens, and courts for shuffleboard, volleyball, and badminton. One of the clubhouses will be equipped with cabanas and three game rooms.

Maintenance at Tanglewood is handled by professionals and includes complete maintenance of home exteriors, grounds and recreational facilities at a nominal monthly cost.

The community also offers a closed circuit, two-channel television system that monitors the swimming pool and playground so that mothers can observe their children from inside the home.

Like Larwin's neighboring Trend and Tempo Villages in Greenbrook, Tanglewood has been master planned as a total community. The village is designed in seven clusters, each with approximately 100 homes.

Homeowners are automatically members of Club Tanglewood and the Homeowners Association which maintains high standards for the community as well as directing its activities. Daily activities are handled by Larwin's recreation director, Jean Bates. Association members may serve on many committees and are welcome to participate in planning homeowners activities.

Greenbrook is being developed by the Single Family Home Division of The Larwin Group, Inc., of Beverly Hills, Calif. Larwin has built more than 28,000 homes in 56 communities since 1948.

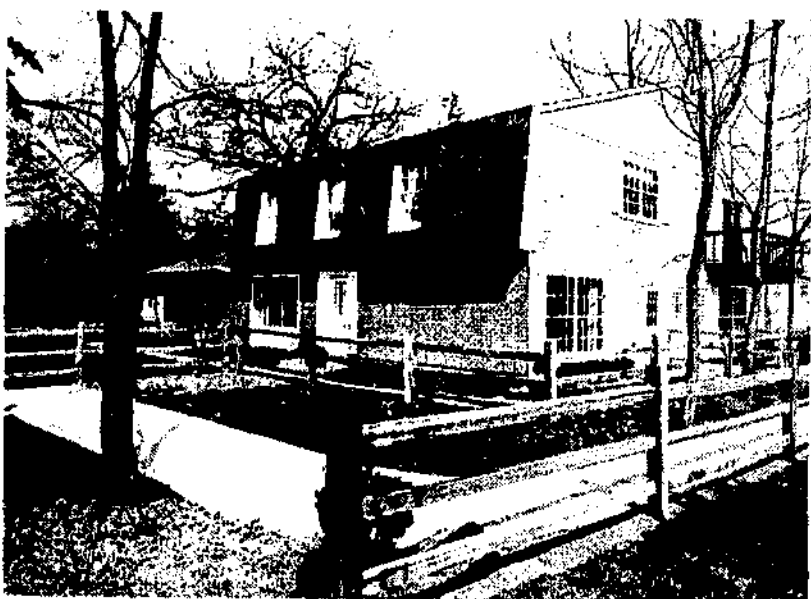

Larwin also has major divisions in multiple-family housing, mortgage banking, real estate investment trust management, recreational communities development, commercial property development, and urban housing. Larwin is a subsidiary of CNA Financial Corp., a Chicago-headquartered holding company with more than $3.8 billion in assets.

GARDEN-VIEW living room of the Larwin Tanglewood Tiburon townhome leads through sliding glass doors to the private fenced outside patio, and to the kitchen and breakfast bar.

BASEMENT OF THE Larwin Tiburon model home, a buyer option, features a Hawaiian motif complete with colorful polynesian ceiling paper, a luau serving cart, and a hand-carved south pacific chess set. The basement demonstrates a Larwin exclusive, full eight-foot height ceilings that add exciting dimensions to the downstairs rooms.

"COUNTRY CLUSTER" building with a distinctive Dutch gambrel roof was chosen as the model unit now on display at The Trees of Wheaton, a development at 1500 W. Roosevelt Rd.

in Wheaton. Each building has four individual two-bedroom homes, each with a private entrance and garage. The homes are currently priced at $23,490 each.

Get Longer Use Out Of Your Pool

Do you wish you could get more use out of your backyard swimming pool? It's easy, says the Chicagoland Better Heating-Cooling Council, if you have hydronic (modern hot water) heating. By extending the tubing from your boiler to the pool, you can add heated water. The swimming season will start earlier and end later.

Quinlan-Tyson Doing Well In Highland Park

Quinlan and Tyson's new Highland Park office has recorded a large volume of business in its first month of operation.

John Orchard, real estate sales manager of the office, said that sales volume during the first month totaled more than $400,000.

"We are pleased at the early community acceptance of our new office in Highland Park, which is staffed with experienced, professional personnel," he said.

Richard G. Rutledge, executive vice president and general manager-real estate sales, said that the dramatic start made by the Highland Park Area Office further establishes the sales dominance by Q&T in Lake County.

"Quinlan and Tyson has received an increasing share of the market in Lake County in recent years, and the Highland Park office is continuing that success," he said.

Q&T operates Lake County offices in Highland Park, Deerfield, Lake Forest and Libertyville.

Named Agents For Fly-In Community

Towne & Country Real Estate of Elgin has been named an area sales agent for The Landings, a fly-in community being developed near Interstate 90, eight miles northwest of Elgin.

Peter A. DeBoer, broker, said sales of building lots in the 160-acre first phase of The Landings will be handled in the Elgin-Aurora-Rockford area through Towne & Country's offices.

Barbara Kovacs, chairman of BarKo Development Company, developer of The Landings, said sales agents for other areas around Chicago would be named later. She also reported site improvement work has begun. Improvements will include:

- Completing a lighted, asphalt runway, 50 feet wide and 3,000 feet long which will be used exclusively by residents of the community and their guests.
- Deepening and widening an existing two-acre lake and creating a second one-acre lake.
- Erecting 10 hangars which can house 10 planes each and preparing grass tie-down areas for additional planes.
- Installing a fueling facility for the aircraft.
- Preparing the land and paving streets to serve the 130 residential lots which represent the first phase of the project.
- Building a community water plant.
- Completing a clubhouse, swimming pool, tennis courts and other recreational facilities.

Owners of The Landings which is located near the Illinois Route 47 interchange on Interstate 90 are: John J. Brittain, an Elgin lawyer, Richard Blankenship, Elgin, president of Archie Food Systems, Inc., and Cal's Roast Beef Restaurants; Lyle King, Freeport, Ill., who operates a number of franchise food operations in Illinois and Iowa; James Griggs, Costa Rica, founder of Dog 'n Sids food operations who now has extensive investments in Costa Rica; and Gary Kovacs, Libertyville, Ill., former senior vice president of Dunkin' Donuts restaurants and president of The Landings Corp.

Real Estate Activity Continues High

County Recorder Sidney R. Olsen reported real estate activity continued its upswing in Cook County the first six months of 1972, averaging close to 10 per cent above the record-setting pace of 1971.

Transfers climbed 12.2 per cent from 33,359 to 37,450 in the comparable half-year periods.

Mortgages number 47,536, up 9.9 per cent from the 43,235 in the first six months of 1971.

Mortgage consideration showed an 8.9 per cent increase from $1,635,610,019 to $1,782,352,197.

Recorder Olsen stated that it was likely the record set for mortgage consideration for all of 1971 would be broken this year. Last year mortgage consideration topped $3.8 billion.

Des Plaines Church of Christ sold its property at 305 S. Candota, Mt. Prospect, to Casimir C. Barszcz for $34,000, it was announced in the mid-summer Elk Grove township real estate transfer report from County Recorder Sidney R. Olsen.

There were 46 sales in Mt. Prospect, 15 in Des Plaines, 11 in Arlington Heights, and 48 in Elk Grove Village and the rest of the township.

Olsen recorded the following property transfers for the township. The list shows the purchase price of equity and does not include the amount of a mortgage which the purchaser may have assumed. The price is indicated by the amount of state revenue stamps on the document ($1.00 in stamps for each $1,000.00 of market value).

The transfers are

Planned Unit Developments Add Housing Variety

The planned unit development is the spice that is putting new variety in the lives of the nation's home builders and land developers.

Durand A. Holladay, managing trustee of Continental Mortgage Investors and chairman and managing trustee of Diversified Mortgage Investors, Boston, adds that "the PUD also is a giant step forward — toward a more effective use of available land."

Continental Mortgage, which has made more than $1.5 billion in mortgage loans since 1952, is the nation's largest independently sponsored real estate trust in mortgage lending. Diversified Mortgage, a multi-specialty real estate trust, has made more than $500 million in mortgage loans since starting operations in late 1969. The shares of both CMI and DMI are traded on the New York and other leading stock exchanges.

"It has always been a formidable task for builders and developers to achieve variety in a development — a balanced blend of detached homes, townhouses and apartments. The PUD is not a cure-all for the problem — but it does help make the job easier.

"And there is the added advantage to the developer of being able to use the natural topography of the land. The open land can be used more effectively and existing features can be retained — the bulldozer is not sent in to level everything in sight," Holladay states.

AND, HE ADDS, the growing popularity of planned developments with home buyers is certainly not to be overlooked. A well-designed PUD offers homeowners a variety of housing, regulated automobile traffic — a definitive safety factor for pedestrians — and attractive open areas — usable areas.

The larger PUDs generally include recreational and shopping centers, as well as other community facilities such as schools and churches. "Put the housing, the commercial and civic facilities together and the result is actually a 'new town,'" Holladay emphasizes.

The pure economics of a well-designed PUD may well help a builder or developer breathe easier, he adds.

"Being able to preserve the natural environment and make better use of open space in many cases does reduce land development costs. A greater density of housing — necessitated by soaring land costs — can be achieved.

"For example, in a 30-acre PUD, the builder can stagger set-backs and put houses on quarter acre rather than half acre lots. As a result, there are 15 acres of open space left for the use of the home owners," Holladay explains.

THE MONEY saved with lower land development costs can add to a builder's margin profit and, at the same time, permit him to use some of the savings to add more frills to his houses.

"The PUD concept is spreading rapidly across the nation and there are developments ranging in size from 10 acres to others that cover several hundred acres of land. And there are advantages for everyone. The better — more effective use of land and detailed planning — is making for better communities for thousands of American families.

"And for the builder-investor — well, larger profits are indeed welcome," Holladay concludes.

estate is a people business and only in America could real estate be such a rewarding profession. As part of its training for sales associates, Rich Port, Realtor regularly invites outstanding speakers to their monthly sales meetings.

Anchor Chemical Leases Warehouse

Anchor Chemical Co. has leased the 10,000 square foot office and warehouse facility at 875 Nicholas Blvd. in Elk Grove.

The New York based firm, which specializes in products for the graphic arts industry, plans to use the Nicholas property as a Mid-West regional distribution center.

John Boylan, vice president of Sturm-Bickel Corp. represented Anchor Chemical Co. in the negotiations. Donald Mizock of Podolsky and Associates, Ltd. represented the owners of the building.

TIPS TO HOME BUYERS & SELLERS

If you're in a hurry to sell ... the "Multiple" system can speed things up.

Although some home sellers are in no particular hurry to sell their home, most sellers set a definite deadline for the sale of their home.

Generally speaking, the greater percentage of people who must sell their home in a hurry cannot rely on the rigors of selling the home on their own without the aid of a Real Estate Broker, especially a broker who belongs to an active, influential Multiple Listing & Sales organization. The "Multiple" system immediately puts hundreds of professional salespeople to work to find a qualified buyer for the home. All multiple offices are quickly aware of the property and they treat the property like their own personal listing, exerting every means of sales efficiency and experience to sell the home equitably for buyer and seller.

The big difference between selling a home individually and listing with a Multiple Associated Broker is the difference between whispering and shouting and the MAP Multiple Listing Real Estate Service is one of the nation's most powerful and successful sales organizations.

If you're selling in a hurry ... call a MAP Multiple Broker office ... and relax!

Atrium Clubhouse Work Is Begun

Setting of caissons for the foundation of the clubhouse at Atrium Elmhurst's $20,000,000 planned unit development of townhomes and condominium apartments, began June 27. The center of recreation which in cludes tennis courts and indoor and outdoor heated swimming pools will be completed this fall, according to Stuart Silver, construction superintendent for I Simon and Son, Inc., developer.

Atrium/Elmhurst models, surrounded by intensively landscaped grounds, and located just north of Roosevelt Road, midway between York Road and Route 83, went on sale early in June.

The contemporary clubhouse, designed by architects Booth and Nagle, will feature dramatic, two-and three-story-high interior space interior and exterior glass view walls, a sloping transparent roof over the indoor swimming pool and cylindrical columns.

The 53-by-27-foot outdoor pool and its broad deck for sunbathing will be on the south side of the clubhouse, for maximum exposure to the sun.

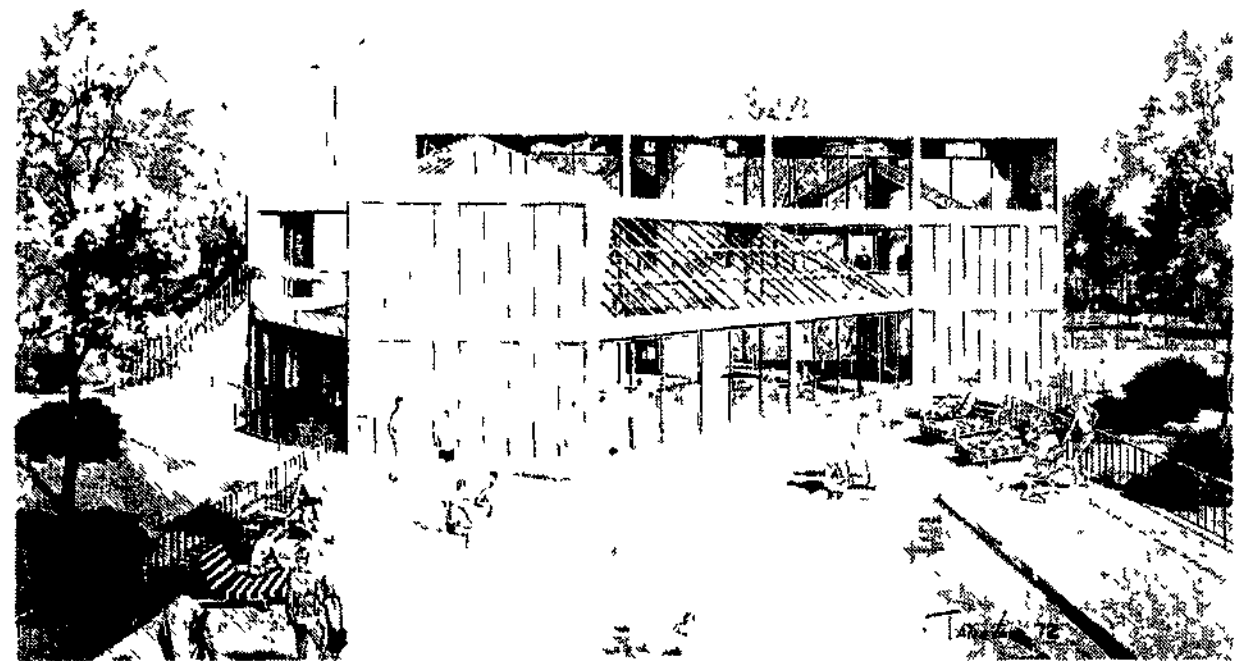

ON THE NORTH side of the structure, landscaped grounds will be sloped up to the second-floor main entry, which will lead to lounge party and game rooms across an open bridge spanning a three-story interior space. Glass walls on this floor will provide views down into the indoor 20-by-40-foot swimming pool, and beyond into the landscaping. Open spaces from floor to floor will offer other dramatic, inside-outside views.

In addition to the indoor pool the ground level of the clubhouse will accommodate a youth recreation center, locker rooms, sauna baths, exercise room and lavatory facilities. A glass wall with sliding doors will separate indoor and outdoor pools and the transparent acrylic roof will bathe the indoor pool in natural light. Outdoor tennis courts will be lo-

Put Heat Panels Where Needed Most

If your house suffers from cold walls and chilling drafts along the floors, you have a heating system problem, says the National Better Heating-Cooling Council.

As the outdoor temperature drops, the inside surfaces of windows and exterior walls grow colder. When the air inside the house comes in contact with the cold windows and walls, it chills and settles to the floor, creating a draft as it moves across the floor.

To eliminate these drafts, the Council advises homeowners to locate heating units along the outside walls. The Council specifically recommends the installation of hydronic (circulated hot water) baseboard heating panels along outside walls, especially under windows, so that no current of cool air will pass down over the glass.

Heat emitted from hydronic baseboard units, says the Council, will flow upward and blanket both windows and floors with warmth. In this way heat is introduced where it will block the cold and prevent chilling drafts.

Insulation Is Secret To Keeping Cool

As Randolph Valentino rides over the hot sands of the Sahara Desert on the late-late TV, dressed in a long flowing burnoose, do you ever wonder how he keeps his cool?

Well, according to the National Better Heating-Cooling Council, it's due to that burnoose, the long, one-piece woolen cape Arabs wear. Wool is an excellent insulator, and if worn loosely, it permits the body to "breathe" and be more comfortable.

Insulation, whether wool or other material, is recognized as an effective agent in reducing heat loss to keep a house warmer in the winter, but it is also helpful in keeping it cooler in the summer. To have maximum efficiency, insulation should be installed properly, hanging or lying straight without sagging. Like the Arab's burnoose, it should be loose fitting.

A well designed home is insulated on all outside walls, the uppermost ceilings, and around the foundation to protect ground-level rooms. Floors above crawl spaces also require attention.

Some insulation is backed by aluminum foil because aluminum reflects heat. This is added protection to keep the heat inside during the winter and outside in the summer. The Council also suggests light-colored roof shingles to reflect the strong rays of the sun away from the house in the summer. The house will be cooler.

LARGER, LOW DOWN payment loans can now be made by federal savings and loan associations. This is allowed under new regulations of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board. The maximum amount $4L can lend on a 90 per cent mortgage (10 per cent down payment) was increased from $36,000 to $45,000. The limit on a 95 per cent loan was raised from $30,000 to $23,000. Loans in excess of 90 per cent cannot exceed 10 per cent of an institution's assets, however, and the 95 per cent loans must be self-insured or privately-insured.

TRANS-AMERICA REALTY

65 S. Milwaukee Ave., Wheeling 541-4770

Just like the expensive

Most of the new homes you've been looking at have much higher price tags than what we're asking at Ivy Glen in Palatine. You know it's true.

And maybe you've come away from the others with the idea that you won't get anything—or should we say, anything you'd want—for your money today.

That's only because you haven't seen Ivy Glen yet.

What looks like an $80,000 to $90,000 house in a quiet meadow is a condominium of four or five homes per house, landscaped all around. It's a two-story colonial, or one, with an attached garage for you and room enough in the garage for a small truckload of things besides your car.

Your Ivy Glen home has two bedrooms upstairs and a tiled bath and several closets, including a huge walk-in. And, because the floor above belongs to you and the walls are engineered to squelch sound, you won't ever have to put up with somebody else's noise.

Downstairs you'll have a large, living-dining area, and a large, complete GE kitchen you'll enjoy cooking in. And everywhere but the kitchen and bath, there's wall-to-wall carpeting and wonderful air conditioning (your very own central system).

As for the hard work of maintenance, there's hardly any. We do all the outside chores, and so you can do the other things on weekends that maybe you've been planning to for years, but haven't had the time to do.

And don't forget the tax deductions you're entitled to as a condominium owner, and the equity build-up you'll have when you go to sell your Ivy Glen home.

Another important thing. We use all high-quality building materials. And still we're able to keep the price at $20,990. Only $950 down and $151 a month.* And we pay the closing costs.

In your search for a nice home you've probably come to expect nothing for something. Let us finally show you something for next to nothing. See Ivy Glen any day of the week from 10 to 10. We're in Palatine. On Baldwin Rd., north of Dundee (Rt. 68) between Rand and I-53. (312) 359-9212.

Magnavox Dealers Introduced To Product Innovations

Magnavox dealers attending the company's annual zone meeting at the O'Hare Inn in Des Plaines were introduced to six major product innovations, including several in entirely new product areas.

All modular, all solid state color television sets are being shown, along with Videomatic, a revolutionary advance in automatic color television operation; Odyssey, a new electronic television game; Home Security Systems, the first low-cost, mass marketed alarm systems for the home; the Magnavox Video System, for home videotape recording/playing, and the exclusive built-in 4-channel sound capability of Magnavox console stereo products.

MODULAR SOLID STATE: 100 per cent Solid State reliability, plus a revolutionary modular concept providing maximum serviceability, highlights Magnavox' new color television line. Not only major circuits but also minor circuits and even individual transistors are separately replaceable to allow the most economical and rapid servicing. This wholly modular concept introduces the future prospect of complete interchangeability of "plug in" circuit modules between different models and different generations of Magnavox color televisions.

Developed by Magnavox' advance engineering program and perfected through extensive "use" testing, the new Magnavox all Solid State Modular color chassis is highly compact and offers consumers the optimum combination of reliability and serviceability. Any repair costs — both parts and labor — will be paid by Magnavox for a full year from purchase.

VIDEOMATIC: A major advance in the company's continuing effort to develop the most automatic "set and forget" color television is Videomatic, which introduces an entirely new and exclusive capability to the automatic operation of Magnavox color receivers. With Videomatic, picture brightness, contrast and color will now automatically and instantaneously adjust to changes in room light to provide the optimum color picture at all times.

Not only will the new color sets correct changes in the incoming signal, provided by Magnavox' previously introduced automatic controls for fine tuning, tint and color intensity, but they will now also automatically adjust to changing light conditions in the room where the set is located. This is accomplished by a new electronic circuit — called the LDR (Light-Dependent-Resistor) Sensor — which senses and responds to ambient room light by constantly adjusting brightness, contrast and color to eliminate such problems as picture washout when room light intensity increases.

All of Magnavox' automatic color controls are activated by simply turning the set on. No further adjustments are necessary, although tuning refinements can easily be made manually if desired — no serviceman assistance required.

Both Modular Solid State and Videomatic are now available in a variety of large screen models and will be extended to smaller screen sizes within the coming model year.

ODYSSEY: Magnavox unveiled its "mystery product," a unique electronic game called "Odyssey" that can be played by every American household on any television set 18 inches or larger. Adding an entirely new dimension to the use of television sets, "Odyssey" is an all-electronic game simulator that hooks up to a television set and provides the basis for playing many different games of skill or chance ranging from ping-pong and football to roulette, tennis and hockey. Offering limitless hours of fun for small children as well as adults, Odyssey includes educational games designed to reinforce the teaching of arithmetic, geography, etc.

Transforming the TV set into an electronic playground, "Odyssey" consists of a master control unit that contains all the electronics necessary for each game, two Player Controls which control the "players" on the TV screen, and a set of electronic program cards each of which "broadcasts" a different game. When the program card is inserted into a slot in the Master Control, the television screen becomes the playing field — the hockey rink, tennis court, etc. — and lights up with "balls" and "players" that the game-players can control from their individual player controls.

Available to Magnavox' dealers in August, Odyssey's initial price tag of just under $100 will include 12 different games. Many additional games such as a "rifle-range," which includes a toy electronic rifle, may be purchased separately by the consumer.

HOME SECURITY SYSTEMS: The company also introduced a series of burglar and fire alarm systems — a totally new product area for Magnavox.

The four Magnavox home security systems, which are ultrasonically activated and radio transmitted, include intruder detection units and advance fire alarm systems. All of them can be installed in minutes by the average homeowner, using only a screw-driver.

The Magnavox systems represent the only home security products manufactured by a nationally known brand-name company with broad distribution capability. They will be marketed nationally with advertising support, and will be available to consumers at Magnavox dealers throughout the country.

Priced for the mass market at from just under $100 to just under $170, the Magnavox home security systems are expected to answer the burgeoning consumer demand for low-cost, easy to install, and easily purchased products of this type from a recognized brand-name manufacturer. Most other home security systems now on the market must be purchased through specialized outlets and require professional installation resulting in costs to the consumer of $600 to $1,000.

MAGNAVOX VIDEO SYSTEM: Also introduced was the Magnavox Video System and a compact portable color television camera. With the system, the user can make videotape "home movies" in color, record favorite television programs, or play hour-length pre-recorded shows — all using simple-to-handle tape cartridges.

The recorder, which was developed by RCA Corporation, connects to the antenna terminals of any home color television set. It comes equipped with its own independent TV tuner, so that the user can watch one program while simultaneously recording another for future playback.

Magnavox' proprietary camera weighs 6½ pounds including its own electronic viewfinder, is slightly larger than current 8mm film cameras, and can be held or used with a tripod. The camera operates with normal room lighting, and has automatic light level control over a 10 to 1 range of illumination. For a greater range of illumination a standard lens iris control can be used.

When recordings are made of telecasts, the audio is recorded without any additional connections or any attention on the part of the user. In "live" tapings with the camera, the audio is picked up by a small condenser microphone built into the camera body.

4-CHANNEL SOUND: Magnavox' new console stereo products feature built-in 4-channel sound capability. The consoles come equipped with Magnavox' exclusive matrix decoder system for 4-channel sound from records, tape or FM radio. The system will enhance conventional 2-channel stereo as well.

The matrix decoder system is included at no extra cost on 95 per cent of all new models. No additional amplifiers or other equipment except two extra speakers are required for 4-channel sound. A simple rocker switch controls the changing from 2-channel to 4-channel operation.

The new console stereo products are also designed to accommodate optional cassette and 8-track tape units.

Ellis Receives Service Award

William J. S. Ellis, of Palatine, manager, Administrative Services, Chicago Tribune, received the Association for Systems Management's highest award, the Distinguished Service Award, at the 25th International Systems Meeting recently in Miami Beach.

Our selection standards and training for sales associates insure that you should receive outstanding service at all times. (If there is ever any problem, please call our president, Robert W. Starck: 255-2000 in daytime or CL 3-7273 at night.)
- TOP PRICE. On every home we list, we do an evaluation of the property and furnish you a copy of a Competitive Market Analysis. This way you know that your property is priced "right." Overpricing is just as bad as underpricing.
- FAST SALE. Your home gets immediate exposure through M.A.P. Multiple Listing Service and through our effective mass advertising. 30,000 Home Guide booklets are sent each quarter to homeowners, nationwide Realtors, corporations transferring personnel. Weekly ads in Paddock Publications, Copley Papers, daily ads in Chicago papers add to the exposure. Our exclusive membership in Inter-City Relocation Service brings us hundreds of transferred buyers from Realtors across the country. Our Guarantee Sale program permits a buyer to buy your home in spite of the fact that his old home is still unsold. Open house tours and all the other marketing efforts usually result in exceptionally fast sales for our clients.
- FREEDOM. When you sell with us, you never feel "tied down." Just live and enjoy a normal life while we handle the complete sale of your home. Come and go as you please. Our sales associates only bring fully qualified buyers to your home, never just "lookers."
- COMMUNICATION. The sales associate that will be assigned to your listing will keep in weekly contact with you and keep you informed of everything that is happening at all times.
- WORRY-FREE FOLLOW-UP. Because we are one of the few Realtors in the area with a special Closing Department, you can rest assured that all details of the sale will be handled with the utmost efficiency in cooperation with your attorney.

Education: As NEA President Sees It

by PATRICIA McCORMACK

NEW YORK (UPI) — Mrs. Catherine Barrett wears two important hats. The one says grandmother. It makes 11 children of assorted sizes around Syracuse, N.Y., take notice. "It's just beautiful being a grandmother," she says.

The other one says, "madame president." It draws salutes from hundreds of thousands of school teachers nationwide. Mrs. Barrett, an inner city sixth grade teacher from Syracuse, is president of the National Education Association (NEA).

In an interview, she discussed cooperation between parents and teachers, federal aid to local school districts, and other issues along the academic trail.

Here's how Mrs. Barrett feels about some major issues:

PARENTS HELPING TEACHERS TO HELP THEIR CHILDREN. More involvement on the school scene before youngsters go to school. More regular meetings between parents and teachers discussing what each wants for children once the youngsters go to school. Pre-programs, orientation for parents and new students, a good idea. Sees no reason parent-teacher conferences can't be scheduled evenings or Saturday mornings for parents who work. Parents also help by making sure children are neat and clean when they leave for school.

At home — have an atmosphere where the whole family is engaged in learning at some period in the evening. Mrs. Barrett recalled the old-fashioned homework plan — everyone working around the dining room table. It was not a bad scene. To recreate the atmosphere one, of necessity, would have to black out the television, radio, phonograph during the homework hour. If you don't have a dining room, use kitchen table.

OVERSUPPLY OF TEACHERS. Mrs. Barrett maintains that there is no oversupply of teachers even though many, including newly trained ones, are jobless. She said the nation has seven million youngsters mentally and physically handicapped. If that group is to have adequate education Mrs. Barrett said there would be no oversupply of teachers. The needs of the handicapped are not being met in school.

TEACHER DEMANDS. An oversupply of teachers and the taxpayer revolt causing the curbing of some education programs and even the school year in some places makes the times seem poor for teachers to ask for more money. Mrs. Barrett said it is a fact that all over the country schools are going bankrupt. But she said people forget that school teachers are taxpayers, too — and consumers. As the cost of living advances, the salaries of teachers must advance, she said. Where is the money coming from? Mrs. Barrett said the federal government, which now puts up 8.8 per cent to pay the public education bill. The NEA intends to push for more from Uncle Sam. One third of the school funds from federal sources is what the NEA has in mind.

NUMBER ONE PROBLEM IN THE NEW SCHOOL YEAR. Money. Around the country programs are being cut back. Frills they're called. But it makes Mrs.

Barrett see red to hear art, physical education, health, guidance called frills. Amputating such things affects the quality of education. But that's not all. Large blocks of teachers are being separated by some school systems. That means more pupils per teacher. Larger classes. In Detroit, 6000 teachers were separated. In New York City, 5,000; in Los Angeles, 2,000.

One subject Mrs. Barrett had only positive words about was students. Her words:

"Most youngsters are responsive and responsible. They are knowledgeable and mature. On account of advanced communication, they have it all over the students of yesteryear. Many may not know the printed word as well but they are mature and sophisticated."

Risks More Than Physical

by ELEANOR RIVES

(Last of two parts)

That too early childbearing involves physical hazards to both mother and baby is a generally accepted fact, with the baby perhaps being a greater risk than the mother.

But girls who bear a child before the age of 17 are subject to psychological, educational and social risks as well. The problems for the unwanted child may be tragic.

Consider the teen-age mother. Psychologically immature, she is forced to cope with the frightening physical changes of pregnancy and at the same time face a society that often rejects her if she is unmarried.

The experience can be a shattering one, detrimental to her future well-being and that of her child. Teen-age pregnancy may be the critical factor in the development of psychosomatic, neurotic and sometimes even psychotic illnesses of both mother and child.

DR. EFFIE ELLIS of the American Medical Association points out that adolescence is a tremendously important stage in the growth and development of an individual. During this period, teenagers must attain two goals: 1. Identification — to themselves, to their peers and to their family and other adults. 2. The independence necessary to start them on their life's work.

The pregnant teen-age schoolgirl suddenly must face three life crises at one time, any one of which is difficult in itself. She must make the transition from adolescence to adulthood, she must face the physical changes and emotional turmoil accompanying pregnancy, and she must accept her role as mother, or as wife and mother.

THE PROBLEM is compounded in the case of girls under 16, youngsters who have extreme difficulty understanding the "mother" role, who tend to view their babies as dolls.

"It's a child with a child," said Dr. Ellis. "How is she going to work and take care of her baby without assistance? How will the emotional development of the baby be affected?"

Pregnancy in the girl under 16 is seldom the result of a love relationship, more often the result of a disturbed family situation. Studies cited in "Today's Education," the journal of the National Education Association, have shown that the unwed pregnant girl under 16 is less likely to marry, more likely to have repeated pregnancies out of wedlock and less likely to finish high school.

A COMMUNITY-WIDE study in Pennsylvania showed that 60 per cent of under-16, first-baby mothers will have another baby while still of school age.

Those who marry are high social risks. Some have been forced into an early, perhaps unwanted marriage. Most are too immature for the responsibilities of marriage. The divorce rate for those who marry between the ages of 15 and 19 is the highest in the country — three to four times greater than for those who marry when they are older.

From an educational standpoint, pregnancy causes the largest number of high school dropouts, frustrating the girl's future hopes and plans, lowering her earning power and leaving her feeling rejected by school authorities and fellow students. And this at a time when separation from her peer group is most damaging to her.

"SOMEHOW WE are not able to get the depth of interest or level of awareness in the community concerning the broad implications of teenage pregnancy," said Dr. Ellis. "We need people in every community who are friends of the young, who will hear what the problems are and deal with them — who realize these are precious human beings who need help."

A community should ask itself: Are services available to teen-age pregnant girls? Do they include guidance, counseling and follow-up? Is education available in family planning before such problems as pregnancy occur? What education is available for the young father?

The Quality of Life Congress pointed out that sex education is essential. "The basic reasons for sex education must be the desire to strengthen family life, to increase self-understanding and self-respect, to develop sexual and social responsibility, and to encourage responsible parenthood," states the Congress' summary background paper.

IF DESPITE education, help and counsel, the problem of teen-age pregnancy should occur, the great need is for the girl to deliver her baby safely and still continue to develop her own potential. Schools should encourage continued education both during pregnancy and after. The child who has had a child must be helped to restructure her life and go on.

The American Medical Association offers technical assistance to any groups trying to help the teen-age mother. "We are not here to be judgmental," said Dr. Ellis. "We're here to help. We must let these girls know by our actions that we are in full support of their feelings."

The ultimate solution to the problem of studies have shown that a girl under 16 who has a baby is likely to have another baby while still of school age. The late teens are the most fertile period of a woman's life.

school age pregnancies is comprehensive care and education before any problem occurs. Should it occur, educational, health and social agencies must work together to meet the individual needs of each pregnant school girl.

The Consumer

by Monica Wilch

Instructions as to proper cleaning methods must be attached to all clothes manufactured from now on, or the manufacturer will be in violation of a Federal Trade Commission order.

The FTC has ruled that all garments hosiery and piece goods produced on or after July 3, 1972, must contain a label informing the consumer how to "effect such regular care and maintenance as is necessary to the ordinary use and enjoyment of the article."

That means the tags will tell you whether to machine wash, dry clean, or hand wash, as well as the preferred temperature of the water and possibly other information.

These instructions may appear on a label sewn to the neck of the garment, or on paper tags attached to it. The exception is that piece goods must have a label that can be permanently affixed.

ACCORDING TO Miss Blanche Stein of the Chicago office of the FTC, articles that were already in inventory as of July 3 are not subject to the regulation. But, she said, by fall consumers should be able to expect all clothes to be properly labelled.

Miss Stein declined to speculate on whether or when the FTC may take steps to enforce the ruling if clothiers fail to comply.

Despite assurances from Arlington Heights sanitarian Daniel C. Tarry that the anti-mosquito spray now being applied in the NW Mosquito Abatement District is not a hazard to children, it would be highly advisable to keep youngsters and pets — and yourself — indoors.

The active ingredient in the spray is malathion, an organophosphate which has replaced DDT in some uses because it is less persistent, but unfortunately is extremely toxic. Malathion is touted as being "safe" for use in populated areas because certain enzymes in the human liver de-toxify it.

HOWEVER, THIS assumption is not foot-proof since other chemicals which may be present in a person's system can react to nullify those enzymes and increase the toxicity of malathion.

The U.S. Public Health Service recommends that applicators who are dealing with malathion wear rubber gloves, boots and slickers. Residents of areas being sprayed — regardless of the chemical — would be foolish to expose themselves needlessly. Anyone who accidentally comes into contact with this or any chemical should wash immediately.

ASSOCIATED PRESS reported recently that the National Institute of Environmental Health Sciences has found a number of nonphosphate detergents to contain ingredients that can cause blindness. The Food and Drug Administration, which is charged with protecting the public from harmful substances, reacted by criticizing the scientists for "treading outside the realm in which they should be operating" and declared, "we have the mandate."

INTERESTINGLY, one of the laundry products tested by NIH was Ecolo-G, which contains metasilicate. The FDA in March 1971 seized this product from the market because of the health hazard of this phosphate-substitute. FDA Commissioner Charles C. Edwards said at that time that metasilicate has proven "to be toxic, corrosive to skin and the cause of severe eye irritation."

But the FDA allowed Ecolo-G back on the shelves with only the stipulation that the package be labeled as containing a "hazardous substance irritating to the eyes," and include precautions and antidotes.

Meanwhile, the Chicago ordinance banning the sale of detergents containing phosphates has gone into effect. But the issue has died in the northwest suburbs, since the September 1971 statement of Surgeon General Jesse Steinfeld that many phosphate substitutes are more harmful than phosphates.

Your Home Decor

It Can Tell What You're Like

by PATRICIA McCORMACK

NEW YORK (UPI) — If by some magic, Mary Ann Wills visited the place where you live and you weren't home, she probably could figure your approximate state of age and marital status.

Miss Wills, an interior designer, would do these things by looking at your furniture. The furnishings also would tip her off about your level of self-assertion and status consciousness.

The design consultant for a Traverse City, Mich., manufacturer of home accessories would base her conclusions on psychological studies of consumer buying habits.

"Knowing what these psychological drives are," she says, "it's often possible to tell what a person is like simply by examining the decor of his home."

Here's what the studies show:

—Young career persons are drawn to designs that are stimulating in subject matter, bright in color or finish, and contemporary. This shows up in their choice of furniture, carpeting and drapes, as well as in art and accessories. Young career women decorate in a way that bespeaks self expression. But young career men decorate mostly to impress their status on others, particularly young women. They spend more than a young woman on objects to express status. Early American, traditional and provincial designs don't turn on the unmarried young career person.

—Newly-marrieds in their 20s prefer contemporary furniture, too. But most of all they want furnishings that break with parental influences. If the parents recently redecorated with contemporary furnishings, the newly-marrieds can't be expected to do the same.

"Without realizing it," Miss Wills says, "the young marrieds are imitating the parents who, in their day, had exactly the same attitude toward the grandparents' decorating tastes." The young marrieds also steer clear of stimulating designs.

—A family with young children, meanwhile, tends to prefer functional furniture and decorations. About the only safe place is the walls. Children can't get to things on walls. People at this stage of life may spend a lot for a good painting or plaque. Try out new styles.

—The family with children growing older — and more invisible. Husband and wife at this point are getting around to admitting that maybe their parents' decorating tastes weren't too awful. When they move furniture children have beat up into a family room, they're likely to put new, traditional furniture in the living room. But not for status. They just want to please themselves.

—The family after the children have left the nest is an unpredictable one. Mom and Dad may try out a new decorating style, even a contemporary one if it makes them feel younger. Or the couple may move into a mobile home or smaller apartment or house. They may even pick up things appealing to the under-30s.

Miss Wills said early indications are that this may well be the case with a new collection of wicker-look accessories keyed to the current nostalgia trend in furnishings and decorating.

"What impresses young people as 'kicky' comes through to the older generation as a 'homey look' that brings back pleasant memories," she said.

The Potting Shed

by Mary B. Good

A vacation in southern California is a real revelation to a first-time visitor from the Midwest.

For the gardener, it's even more of a shock. Forget all those illusions of lush, green tropical heaven. The region is desert, the soil is brick-hard clay. A popular soil conditioner there is called, "adobe buster." The people "don't garden with a rake and hoe. They need pick axes."

We, who are familiar with the scoop-plunk-cover method of planting, because of our friable soil, would not be able to grow a weed in California.

THE BIG PRODUCE ranches irrigate by elaborate water systems or they have no produce. No one has wells. All the water is conducted hundreds of miles by aqueduct systems from the Sacramento and Colorado River valleys. In spots where small fruit growers could not longer hold their land because of high taxes, orange and apricot groves, with trees like grey skeletons, die from lack of water.

We were fortunate enough to pick Bing cherries (50 cents a head in the grove, all we could eat, and 40 cents a pound for carry-outs); apricots (free); oranges, 10 pounds for $1; lemons, 50 cents a bag, and we brought back 60 pounds of fruit on the plane. My California sister called it an exercise in lust.

Great fun was climbing enormous ladders in the cherry groves, swaying in the treetops like Tarzan, communing with the birds in their nests, and scooping up fistfuls of juicy Bing cherries.

THE TRIP to Cherry Valley, Calif., and up to Mile High Ranch is second only to a trip to Shangri-la. Nestled in the mountain tops of the San Jacinto Mountains, high above the clouds, it is a scene of undefinable beauty, a real attraction for nature gourmets.

This trip included many of the garden-oriented, but off-beat spots, in out-of-the-way places not generally included on the usual itinerary — and free too!

Take Forest Lawn Cemetery for instance. It is the living end, a grandiose park-like Eden where surroundings are so glamorized, it's real easy to forget the place is actually a cemetery at all! But like Hollywood, the place has an inbred flair for dramatization. Shaded arbors, heavy statuary, formal gardens, Forest Lawn is to landscaping what Cecil B. DeMille was to movies. Forest Lawn attracts not only the movieland and other "dear departed", 55,000 persons have been married there. Bizarre? Take a trip and judge for yourself. If you're planning a California vacation.

SEVERAL OTHER good flower-rated stops I'd recommend to other southern California tripsters include Descanso Gardens (LaCanada, Calif.) where one can view the American Rose Society trial gardens, an 800-plant rosarium, walk through paths of tropicals or have a cup of tea and a bamboo basket of almond cookies for 40 cents served in a Japanese tea-house by a kimono-clad Oriental maiden.

At the UCLA gardens in midtown Los Angeles, I saw my first bunya bunya tree, while beneath it sat a girl playing a flute, reminding me vaguely of a spring fertility rite presided over by Pan.

There is nothing more peaceful than enjoying a picnic lunch at the Tucker Hummingbird Sanctuary (in Modjeska Canyon, Orange, Calif.), another crowd-less spot, this one administered by the California State College at Fullerton. While we munched sandwiches, dozens of Anna's black-chinned hummers buzzed past our heads.

HARDY HIKERS at the sanctuary climb Harding Canyon. There's also a Braille trail, and a chance to become a volunteer naturalist in a summer program.

I heartily recommend the tidal pools at Corona del Mar to all who enjoy the flora and fauna of the ocean. Rare shells, rocks, crabs, limpets, tube mollusks, etc., all are trapped in the little pools, made by rock formations. Of particular interest is the sea anemone, which looks like a sunflower, but is a sea animal which closes up when touched.

And if you must accede and take the kids to Disneyland, there is something to be said for the landscaping there. The evergreen topiaries in front of the "It's a Small World" attraction are beautifully executed creations of Disney characters sculptured in yew, juniper and boxwood. And the formal gardens will help you get your mind off how much the whole gig is costing you!

California? It sure is fun for garden and nature lovers!

Guitar Service For Prospect Pair

A guitar wedding service united a Mount Prospect couple on July 1 in the local Community Presbyterian Church. Pam Carlson, daughter of the Roy E. Ericksons of 614 N. Elmhurst Ave., became the bride of Dennis Muhr, whose parents are the Julius Muhrs of 908 S. Owen Ave.

A friend of the bridal pair, C. L. Smith of Wheeling, who was also among the ushers for the five o'clock candlelight rites, played guitar and sang his own compositions before the ceremony began.

The couple's honor attendants were Steve and Vickie McAuliffe of Palatine, who were married in April with Pam

Charmaine Willis Weds Navy Man At Great Lakes

Holy Name Chapel at Great Lakes Naval Base was the setting for the July 1 wedding of Charmaine Willis and Stephen Wida. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Willis 41 Poplar St., Arlington Heights, and the groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. A. Wida of Cornwall, Pa.

The bride wore a Victorian-style gown with high collar and leg o'mutton sleeves and trimmed down the front with a panel of white embroidery. Her fingertip veil was attached to a Juliet cap, and she carried a bouquet of purple-tipped white orchids.

MRS. AUDREY STARKEY of Carpentersville, sister of the bride, was matron of honor, while Pat Tompkins, Des Plaines, Lori Graves, Franklin Park; and Sandy Hartmann, Elk Grove, were bridesmaids.

The attendants wore Victorian gowns with orchid skirts and white bodices embroidered in an orchid floral pattern. They carried white carnations, lavender daisies and purple straw flowers, with the colors reversed in the honor attendant's bouquet.

The groom's brother, Tom Wida of Cornwall, was best man. Ushers were Lance Hankins, Dennis Burton and Eric Redden, all Navy friends of the groom. The men wore their white Navy uniforms, except for the best man who wore a white tuxedo.

A reception was held at the Holiday Inn in Rolling Meadows, after which the couple left on a three-day honeymoon in

Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Wida

Wisconsin. They are living in North Chicago.

The bride was graduated from Elk Grove High School and is employed in Chicago. Her husband attended Lebanon College in Pennsylvania before entering the Navy.

and seed pearls. The lace accented the high neckline, long full sleeves with wide cuffs and the A-line skirt and chapel train. Pam also wore a matching lace portrait band over her hair and an elbow-length illusion veil.

The bridal bouquet was composed of yellow and ivory daisies, bachelor buttons and baby's breath.

PAM'S ATTENDANTS were gowned alike in lime green chiffon with ivory lace at the Empire waist, high neckline and on cuffs of the long full sleeves. The girls carried yellow daisies and bachelor buttons. They also had crowns of yellow daisies over their hair.

A reception at Camelot Restaurant, Des Plaines, followed the wedding for 135 guests.

After a camping trip to Baraboo, Wis., the newlyweds are living in a Wheeling apartment.

Pam attended Prospect High School and works for the Methodist Publishing House in Park Ridge. Dennis, a Forest View High graduate, is with Consumer Construction Co., Schaumburg.

Marry In Long Grove Church

A June 17 ceremony united Holly Anderson, daughter of the Robert J. Andersons of Long Grove, and Scott J. Richardson, son of Mrs. Earl Richardson of Palatine and the late Mr. Richardson. The Rev. James Dotson of Shell Rock, Iowa, a college friend of the bride, performed the rites in Long Grove Church, and the groom's uncle, Richard Richardson, was guest soloist.

The bride's sister Dawn was maid of honor. Marilyn Bode, Morton Grove, her cousin; Pat Gallagher, Arlington Heights; Rosemary Dotson, Shell Rock; and Joyce Nickrandt, Chicago, the groom's cousin, were bridesmaids.

SCOTT CHOSE Kerry Meissner, Arlington, as best man. Groomsman include Richard Sarna and Ray Nicholas, Chicago; Jim Bode, Morton Grove, Holly's cousin; and Jeff Richardson, Palatine, Scott's cousin.

Also in the bridal procession were Elizabeth Moore, 4, Prospect Heights, as flower girl and Kerry Richardson, 7, the groom's brother, as ring bearer.

A dinner reception followed at Rolling Green Country Club, and after a honeymoon in the Virgin Islands the couple is living in Palatine.

Holly is a Cornell College graduate and works in Arlington as a legal secretary.

Mr. and Mrs. Scott Richardson

Scott, a graduate of DePaul University, attends DePaul Law School and works for a Chicago law firm.

The Home Line

by Dorothy Ritz

This is the time of year when requests come for the ingredients used in old-time balsam liniment and how one gets balsam seed. Have no idea of where to get the seed, nor do I know of any nurseries that carry the plant. It's one of those perennials.

People who know what they are, see them growing and ask for one or two of the balsam apples. It's been so long since the recipe has been published, I am delighted to repeat Allan Trout's version of this old country liniment:

Put a cut-up ripe balsam apple in a quart jar, add 4 ounces witch hazel, 2 ounces wintergreen, 2 cakes camphor and fill the rest of the jar with rubbing alcohol. Let it stand from 24 to 48 hours and it's ready. Does anyone need reminding it's for external use only?

Dear Dorothy: Help! I love making doughnuts, but can't keep them fresh for even one day. I've tried waxed paper, foil, covered casserole, but the day after I make them they're soggy. Do you have any ideas? —Deborah Cavanah.

Try freezing them or putting them in an airtight cookie tin.

Dear Dorothy: Is there a way to keep an aluminum frying pan from warping? —Mrs. Betty Garton.

None I know of. If the metal is too light, it can warp. You can correct it without too much trouble, however. Heat the pan (with nothing in it, of course) and take it outside to a concrete step. Put a wood block inside and hammer it until the pan is straight. Be careful or you'll burn yourself.

Dear Dorothy: You might tell Mrs. James Willis who got some tile cleaner on her bathtub to try kerosene. — S. Bern.

(Mrs. Ritz welcomes questions and hints. If a personal reply is required, please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Write to Dorothy Ritz in care of Suburban Living, Paddock Publications, Box 280, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60006.)

Mary Jo
Hostert

Kathleen Karasuskas

Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Kahn of Bermetula have announced the engagement of their daughter, Betty Jane, to Dale Jay Garber, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alan J. Garber.

Her fiancé's father is president of Crawford Department Stores in Chicago and Rolling Meadows.

Betty Jane was graduated from Washington University, St. Louis, where she is working on an advanced degree at George Warren Brown School of Social Work. She also has studied at the University of Pittsburgh and University of Valencia, Spain.

Dale is a graduate of the University of Chicago Laboratory School and Washington University, where he is now in the Graduate School of Business.

A June 1973, wedding is planned.

Sally Elizabeth Slater's engagement to Timothy John Rosberg, son of the J. Wesley Rosbergs of Prospect Heights, is announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis M. Slater of Grosse Pointe Farms, Mich.

The wedding is planned for June, 1973. Sally and Tim both attend DePaul University, Greencastle, Ind., where she is affiliated with Phi Beta Phi Sorority and Tim with Sigma Alpha Epsilon Fraternity.

Lynnea M. Taylor

Two seniors at Adrian College in Adrian, Mich., are engaged, according to an announcement by Mr. and Mrs. Mynderse H. Taylor of 200 S. Owen St., Mount Prospect. Their daughter Lynnea will be married Sept. 9 to Robert H. Arnold, son of the Robert Arnolds of Ida, Mich.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Stephenson McKay of Columbus, Ohio, announce the engagement of their daughter, Virginia Alice, to George William Smith Jr., son of the George W. Smiths of Palatine.

The wedding is set for Aug. 12 in Columbus.

The young couple are both graduates of the College of William and Mary in Williamsburg, Va., where Virginia was an affiliate of Delta Delta Delta Sorority and George of Pi Kappa Alpha Fraternity. He later served in Africa with the Peace Corps.

Sherri Ann Greco

Mr. and Mrs. August Greco of Mount Prospect announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Sherri Ann, to Edward Shrimplin Jr., son of the Edward Shrimplins of Hazelcrest, Ill.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hysell Jr. of 800 S. William St., Mount Prospect, announce their daughter Laurie's engagement and approaching marriage to Charles E. Wikke, son of the John Wildes of West Chicago.

The wedding date is set for Aug. 12 in the First Congregational Church, West Chicago.

Laurie is a '70 graduate of Forest View High School and works for Fort Howard Paper Co. Her fiancé is a teacher at Forest View High.

The wedding will take place in November.

A graduate of Rosary College, River Forest, the bride-elect works for the Better Business Bureau in Chicago. Her fiancé, a Southern Illinois University graduate, is with the Department of Revenue.

A young couple who both work in the statistical department of The Peoples Gas Light and Coke Co. in Chicago are engaged and planning an Oct. 7 wedding.

The bride-to-be is Mary Jo Hostert, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Hostert of Worthington, Iowa. The wedding will take place in her home town.

Her fiancé is Joseph Zakas Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Zakas of Arlington Heights.

Mary Jo is a graduate of Clarke College, Dubuque, Iowa, and Joseph from Roosevelt University, Chicago.

The engagement and forthcoming marriage of Kathleen Karasuskas of Niles to James Christopher of Mount Prospect is announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Victor Karasuskas.

James, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Christopher, 1219 W. Sunset Road, is a graduate of Forest View High School and Northern Illinois University. He will begin teaching this fall at Jack London Junior High in Wheeling.

Kathleen attends Northern, majoring in special education. She is a member of Alpha Delta Pi Sorority.

The couple will be married Jan. 27, 1973.

Mr. and Mrs. John M. Hanekamp

John Hanekamp's Bride Wears Chantilly Lace

Susan K. Steck wore a fitted, floor-length gown of white chantilly lace with silk organza when she became the bride of John M. Hanekamp of Hoffman Estates. Her headpiece of matching lace with seed pearl trim held a shoulder-length veil. Susan carried a cascade of white carnations and pink roses.

A candlelight service in the Congregational Church in Whitewater, Wis., was the setting for the July 8 wedding. White gladioli and blue carnations bedecked the church along with altar baskets of white mums and blue carnations.

John is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Hanekamp, 219 Firestone Drive, Hoffman Estates. Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Steck of Whitewater, Wis., Susan's parents, hosted a reception at their home following the wedding.

The couple met while attending Wisconsin State University at Whitewater.

NANCY POMPLUM of Whitewater, a friend of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore an Empire-styled gown featuring a blue organza bodice with long sleeves and a printed voile skirt. Nancy carried a basket of yellow and white mums, blue carnations and pink roses.

Mrs. David Miller of Ogden, Kan., and Linda Christen, Whitewater, were bridal aides. Becky Steck of Whitewater was junior bridesmaid. All attendants were dressed alike and carried identical flowers.

ROBERT HANEKAMP of Hoffman Estates was best man for his brother, Robert O'Neil of Northbrook and Ed Steck, Whitewater, were groomsmen; Art Lien, Whitewater, Douglas Paupa, Palatine, ushered. Michael Hanekamp served as ring bearer.

John is manager of the men's department at Marshall Field's Woodfield store. The newlyweds are making their home in Hoffman Estates.

A Holiday Wedding Theme

Red, white and blue was the color scheme for the July 1 wedding of Pamela Sue Roth of Prospect Heights and Earl Philip of Schaumburg. The bride's parents are the Alfred A. Roths of 204 Chester Lane, Prospect Heights.

The bridal gown of dotted organza over taffeta, which was made by the bride's grandmother, featured a square, Juliet neckline. Empire waist and a long, triple-flounced skirt. It was trimmed with bands of embroidered daisies and had leg of mutton sleeves. The veil of French illusion trimmed in matching daisies was attached to a crown of seed pearl petals. The bride carried a bouquet of white daisies with stephanotis, baby's breath and ivy.

NANCY PFEIFER of Glen Ellyn was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Susan Pierce of Schaumburg, Cynthia Philip of Waukegan, sister of the groom, and Laurie Roth, sister of the bride.

They wore red and white checked peasant-style gowns of sheer gingham with eyelid-embroidered organza ruffled collars and embroidered daisy trim. Their bouquets were composed of red carnations, white daisies and blue cornflowers in white wicker baskets.

The flower girl, 5-year-old Joy Finlayson of Waukegan, wore a matching dress. Ring bearer was Darren Sprow, 6, also of Waukegan.

The groom's brother, Don Philip of Panama City, Fla., stood up as best man, and ushers were Bruce Illingworth of Wheeling, Bill Laursen of Schaumburg, and Randy Roth, brother of the bride.

HIGHLIGHT OF the 11 a.m. ceremony in Prospect Heights Community Church was a flute solo by the bride's sister. Afterward, a reception was held at Old Orchard Country Club for 200 guests. The couple then left on a brief honeymoon to Lake Geneva, Wis., but are planning a delayed honeymoon trip to Europe in the spring.

The bride graduated from Wheeling High School, Western Illinois University and Northwest Community Hospital School of Radiology. She is employed at Holy Family Hospital, Des Plaines.

The groom is a graduate of Northern Illinois University with bachelor's and master's degrees and teaches at Wheeling High School.

Kickoff Dinner

Kappa Kappa Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi will be participating in a dinner event which starts a new club year for the organization. The Northwest Suburban Area Council is hosting the kickoff Aug. 29 at Chateau Louise.

Women making reservations with Kappa Kappa chapter should phone Linda Brown, 394-2462, by Aug. 1.

For Garden Buffs

"Landscape Design for Home and Community" and "Summer Pruning" will be topics for two programs next week at the Botanic Gardens, Edens Expressway between Dundee and Lake/Cook Roads.

Wednesday from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. the Garden Club of Illinois will present the landscape design program featuring two architects. Saturday, Aug. 5, a program on pruning will be given at 10 a.m., 11 and 3 p.m.

Reservations can be made by phoning 332-2888.

When it comes to saving money, most of us can use all the help we can get.

Joining the Payroll Savings Plan is one easy way to force yourself to save. When you sign up, an amount you specify is set aside from each paycheck and used to buy U.S. Savings Bonds. It's automatic. Everything is done for you.

And now there's a bonus interest rate on all U.S. Savings Bonds—for E Bonds, 5 1/2% when held to maturity of 5 years, 10 months (4% the first year). That extra 1/2%, payable as a bonus at maturity, applies to all Bonds issued since June 1, 1970... with a comparable improvement for all older Bonds.

Stick with the plan and before you know it you'll have a bankroll waiting. That's when you'll find you can do a lot more with money than you can with string.

But please note: the reason of the bonus interest rate is that the U.S. Government does not pay for this advance interest. The bonus is a result of the U.S. Government's policy of encouraging the purchase of U.S. Savings Bonds.

The Balloon Cut-ups are "sandwiches" made of such goodies as cake, frosting, ice cream and candy — imagine eating those four favorites all at once!

Or bring on the clowns at refreshment time. They are easy to assemble with doughnuts, ice cream and cones.

BALLOON CUT-UPS

CAKE:

- 1/2 cup milk
- 2 tablespoons butter
- 2 eggs
- 1 cup sugar
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 1 1/2 cups sifted cake flour
- 1 1/2 teaspoons baking powder
- 1/2 teaspoon salt

FROSTING:

- 1 1/2 cups confectioners sugar
- 1 tablespoon butter
- 1 1/2 tablespoons milk
- 2 pints chocolate ice cream
- Pastel mints
- Red licorice strings

To prepare cake: Line 15 1/2 x 10 1/2 x 1-inch jelly roll pan with waxed paper. In a 1-quart saucepan heat milk, add butter. Cool. In a small mixing bowl beat eggs until very thick and lemon-colored. Gradually add sugar and continue beating until smooth. Add vanilla. Sift together flour, baking powder and salt. Gradually add to egg mixture and mix only until blended. Add milk, stirring quickly only until batter is smooth. Spread evenly in pan. Bake in preheated 350-degree oven 15-20 minutes. Loosen around edges. Turn onto wire rack. Gently remove paper. Cool. Cut cake into 20 pieces about 3 x 2 1/2 inches. To prepare frosting: In a bowl beat confectioners sugar, butter and milk until of spreading consistency. Frost 10 cake pieces.

To assemble sandwiches: Cut each pint of ice cream into 5 slices. Place ice cream on 10 plain cake pieces top with frosted cake. Place in freezer until frosting is firm. Wrap and return to freezer. Just before serving, decorate tops of sandwiches with pastel mints for balloons and licorice for strings. Makes 10 servings.

A children's party should be as much fun as a three-ring circus. What better way to set the scene than with one of these circus-inspired dessert ideas?

Presenting in the center ring a Carrousel Cake! Here are the most important ingredients of a birthday celebration: the ice cream and cake, put together in one enchanting surprise. The cake is frosted with whipped cream and decorated with a parade of animals carved from chocolate with cookie cutters.

CARROUSEL CAKE

- 1 package (9 oz.) dark fudge cake mix
- Chocolate animals
- 2 pints peppermint ice cream, softened
- 1 pint chocolate ice cream, softened
- 1 1/2 cups whipping cream
- 2 tablespoons sugar
- Red food color
- Candy canes

Prepare cake according to package directions. Bake in one 9-inch round pan. Prepare Chocolate Animals. Line bottom and sides of second 9-inch round pan with aluminum foil. Pack peppermint ice cream in even layer. Freeze. Spread chocolate ice cream over peppermint ice cream. Freeze.

To assemble cake: Whip cream, add sugar and food color. Set aside. Place cake layer on serving plate. Remove ice cream from pan. Remove foil and place on top of cake, chocolate side up. Working quickly, frost entire cake with whipped cream. Arrange Chocolate Animals around side and top of cake. Place candy canes with handles toward center on top of cake. Serve immediately. Makes 10-12 servings.

Chocolate Animals

Melt one 9-oz. bar milk chocolate over hot water or very low heat. Spread 1/4-inch thick on waxed paper. Chill. Before chocolate hardens completely, cut animals with cookie cutters. Chill to harden completely. Remove excess chocolate with sharp knife. Refrigerate animals until ready to use. Sufficient for at least 12 animals.

ICE CREAM CLOWN CONES

Scoop 12 balls from 2 pints vanilla or chocolate ice cream. Place in shallow pan. Freeze. In a bowl combine 1 1/2 cups confectioners sugar, 1 tablespoon butter and 1/2 teaspoon vanilla. Gradually add 2-3 tablespoons milk, stirring constantly until of spreading consistency. Frost 12 cake-type doughnuts, one at a time, on top and around edges. Sprinkle with decorates. Frost edge of 12 cup-type ice cream cones, dip in decorates. Allow to stand until frosting hardens.

To assemble clowns: Make one clown at a time, returning to freezer after completion. Place ice cream ball on doughnut. Using raisins and gumdrops make eyes and nose. Top ice cream with inverted cone to make hat. Store in freezer.

Party performers that keep their cool!

Strawberry Ice Cream Cake is a dream dessert that's everything a party finale should be — sensational to look at and marvelous to eat.

But here's the special beauty of it: you can do almost all the preparation ahead of time. Have the ice cream layer in the freezer set to go. Split the cake — the bottom layer goes on the serving plate, overwrapped to keep it fresh. Arrange berries and spoon glaze over the top layer. Wrap it too (toothpicks will hold the wrap away from the glazed berries). It can stand in the kitchen for several hours. When the big moment arrives, duck into the kitchen, do a quick assembly and make a grand entrance.

STRAWBERRY ICE CREAM CAKE

CAKE:

- 6 tablespoons (1/4 stick) butter
- 3/4 cup sugar
- 1 egg
- 1/2 teaspoon vanilla
- 1 1/2 cups sifted cake flour
- 1 1/2 teaspoons baking powder
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 3/4 cup milk

GLAZE:

- 1 cup fresh strawberries
- 3/4 cup sugar
- 1/4 cup water
- 1 1/2 tablespoons cornstarch
- Dash of salt
- 1 teaspoon butter
- Red food color
- Sliced strawberries
- Sweetened whipped cream

Line bottom and sides of one 9-inch round cake pan with aluminum foil, pack ice cream evenly in pan. Freeze. To prepare cake: Butter and flour 9-inch round cake pan. Set aside. In a mixing bowl cream butter. Gradually add sugar and beat until light and fluffy. Beat in egg and vanilla. Sift together flour, baking powder and salt; add to creamed mixture alternately with milk, beginning and ending with dry ingredients. Turn into prepared pan. Bake 35-40 minutes in preheated 350-degree oven. Cool on wire rack for 5 minutes. Turn out onto rack to cool completely. To prepare glaze: Crush 1 cup strawberries. In a small saucepan combine crushed strawberries, sugar, water, cornstarch and salt. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly until thickened. Cook 2 additional minutes. Stir in butter and food color to tint desired shade. Put through strainer, cool and chill glaze. Split cake layer horizontally. Wrap bottom slice to keep fresh. Place top slice on cookie sheet or flat surface from which it will be easy to slide off. Arrange sliced strawberries on top of cake. Spoon glaze over berries. This will hold several hours at room temperature until ready to assemble. To assemble cake: Place bottom slice on serving plate. Turn ice cream on top of cake, remove foil. With two large spatulas lift the glazed cake slice on top of ice cream. Garnish with whipped cream and whole strawberries if desired. 8-10 serving.

Conquer The 'Hamburger Doldrums'

If your family is suffering from the hamburger doldrums it's time to add new flavor to the old favorite. Balboa Party Burgers is a great choice for putting ground beef back into family favor.

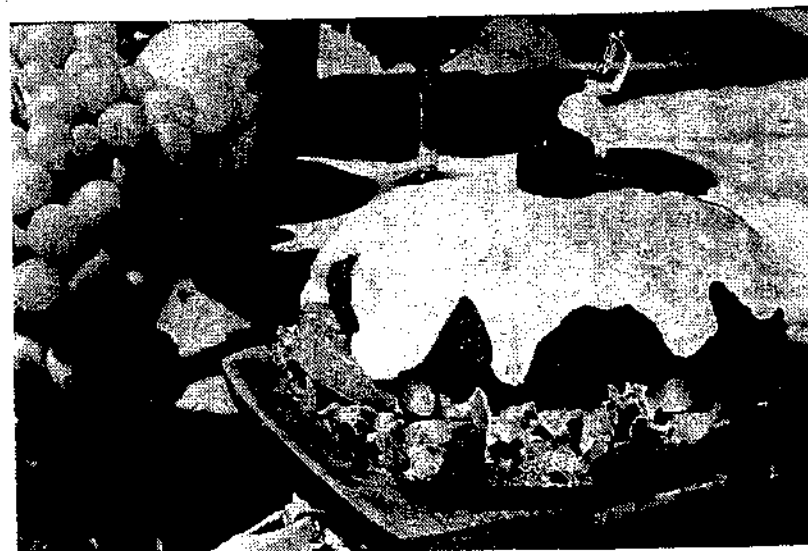

Broiled beef patties are topped with a sour cream sauce and cheese. Lettuce, tomato and dark rye add further flavor. Olives and onions complete the open-faced burger.

Complete the menu with a tangy cole slaw, beverage and a light summer dessert.

BALBOA PARTY BURGERS

- 1 package sour cream sauce mix
- 1/2 cup finely chopped onion
- 2 tablespoons chopped parsley
- 2 pounds ground beef
- Salt and pepper
- 1 cup (4 ounces) shredded natural cheddar cheese
- 6 slices dark rye bread, toasted
- Margarine
- Lettuce
- 2 large tomatoes, sliced
- 6 pitted ripe olives

- 6 cocktail onions
- Prepare sauce mix as directed on package; stir in onion and parsley.
- Shape meat in 6 oval patties; broil on both sides to desired doneness. Season with salt and pepper. Top each meat patty with sourcream sauce and cheese; broil until cheese melts. For each burger, spread a slice of toast with margarine; top with lettuce, tomato slice and meat patty. Garnish with olives and onions on picks. Makes 6 servings.
- Variation: Serve on toasted English Muffins.

She Adds Individuality To Old Italian Recipes

by LOIS SEILER

Italian recipes are Mrs. Richard L. Ringelstein's specialties, and some have been in her family for years.

Indeed, they are not the common lasagna and spaghetti recipes, but are a bit unusual. One is stuffed manicotti made with a pancake batter rather than manicotti shells. Another is a fried pastry called Honey Bows; still another is for almond cookies — baked in the shape of a loaf.

Donna Ringelstein stressed that the almond slices must be made with margarine, as they do not turn out as well with butter. And well this is, too, since the recipe calls for a whole pound in addition to ten eggs.

"This recipe makes tons of cookies, yet it is quick to whip together," Donna remarked.

The batter is flavored with almond and vanilla extracts, and if you like the flavor of anise, that, too, may be added. The soft cookie dough is baked in the shape of loaves, then frosted with a thin confectioner's sugar icing and cut in slices. These unique cookies are yellowish and have an appealing cake-like texture.

"You can freeze whole loaves," Donna explained. "They are handy to have on hand for unexpected guests, as you can cut them into slices and they will defrost quickly."

No need to worry if you don't have a freezer. These soft-textured cookies will keep well if stored in a covered tin.

ON THE OTHER hand, the Honey Bows will stay crisp, even with a coating of honey, if kept out and covered lightly with waxed paper.

Eggs are also essential to this recipe — 12 yolks are used. In addition, the batter calls for whiskey and cream, along with the usual ingredients.

Small amounts of the dough are rolled out, cut in strips and formed into bows. Donna fries these in deep fat. She sprinkles half of the bows with powdered sugar, the other half is dipped in honey.

"The recipe makes a large quantity — about two platters piled eight inches high," Donna said. "They are so light, you can eat several at a time."

The honey bows are a traditional Italian holiday dessert — ideal to serve following a heavy meal. Donna also recommends them for a ladies' coffee or for taking to pot lucks.

"You can be sure they won't be duplicated!" she smiled.

Donna's stuffed manicotti, which she learned to make from her mother, can be prepared quickly if you have spaghetti sauce on hand. And most Italian cooks keep a supply readily available in the freezer.

Small pancakes are made first, then filled with a cheese mixture. They are rolled up and baked in the spaghetti sauce. Light in texture, they are delicious served with Italian sausage or meat balls and a tossed salad.

"The stuffed manicotti can easily be made in quantity for a large group," Donna said.

Donna's husband, Richard, is of German descent, yet he enjoys Italian cooking. He is also a caterer, but doesn't do any cooking at home. The Ringelsteins live in Wheeling and have two young sons: Danny, 5, and Todd, 3.

In addition to cooking, Donna likes to garden and sew. She bowls with a league from St. Joseph's Catholic Church and plays golf. A registered nurse, she also works part time at Golf Mill Nursing Home.

ALMOND SLICES

- 1 pound margarine, softened
- 1 1/4 cups granulated sugar
- 2 teaspoons vanilla
- 2 teaspoons almond extract
- 2 teaspoons anise extract (optional)
- 10 eggs
- 3 rounded teaspoons baking powder
- 8 ounces chopped almonds
- Approximately 6 cups sifted all-purpose flour
- Cream margarine (do not use butter). Beat in sugar with mixer on high speed. Add extracts and blend well. Add eggs two at a time, beating thoroughly after each addition. Add baking powder and nuts and blend well.

Add flour, one cup at a time, using mixer for the first three additions. Mix in remainder of flour with a wooden spoon, adding enough to make the consistency of a soft cookie dough. (Batter is sticky.)

Shape into six loaves on two very lightly-greased cookie sheets. Bake at 350 degrees for 20 to 30 minutes. Test for doneness with a toothpick. Cool slightly.

Make a thin icing of confectioner's sugar and milk. Brush over top of loaves with a pastry brush. When cool, slice into cookies about one-inch thick. Store in covered tin. Yield: approximately 60 large cookies.

HONEY BOWS

- 12 egg yolks
- 3/4 cup cream
- 1/3 cup whiskey
- 1/4 cup granulated sugar
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 2 cups (or more) sifted all-purpose flour
- Confectioner's sugar
- 1 large jar honey
- Combine egg yolks, cream, whiskey, granulated sugar, salt and vanilla. Mix well with electric mixer on low speed.

By hand, using a wooden spoon, beat in enough flour to make a light, dry dough.

Using a small amount of dough at a time, roll out very thin on a lightly-floured board. Using a pastry cutter, cut into strips 5 inches long and one-inch wide. With a knife, make a one-inch slit in the middle of each strip. Slip the ends through the slit in the middle to form a bow.

Have about two inches of oil in electric skillet. Deep fry bows at medium heat until light brown, just a few minutes. Drain on brown paper bags or paper towels. After the bows are cool, sprinkle half of them with confectioner's sugar.

Pour the honey into a saucepan and warm over low heat. When warm, dip the remaining half of the bows gently into the honey, one at a time. Let honey drip off and place on serving platter. Keep out, covered lightly with waxed paper. Serves 8 amply for dessert.

STUFFED MANICOTTI

- Batter:
- 3 eggs
- 1 cup warm water
- 1 cup pre-sifted all-purpose flour
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- Mix ingredients together with an electric mixer. Make as you would pancakes — drop one tablespoon batter per pancake into lightly-greased skillet and brown on each side. Place on platter and let cool.

Filling:

- 3/4 pound Ricotta cheese, well-drained
- 1/4 cup grated Romano cheese
- 1 egg
- 1 teaspoon sugar
- Dash of salt and pepper
- 3 teaspoons dried chopped parsley
- Mix ingredients together with a spoon. Place one tablespoon filling on each pancake and roll up.
- Drizzle olive oil and a thin layer of spaghetti sauce or your favorite tomato sauce in the bottom of a large, shallow baking pan. Arrange stuffed manicotti in pan and drizzle more spaghetti sauce over the top. Sprinkle grated Romano or parmesan cheese over all. Sliced Scamorza cheese may be sliced very thin over the top, if desired.

Cover pan with foil and poke holes in the foil. Bake at 350 degrees for 30 minutes. Remove cover and bake an additional ten minutes. Serves 4. Serve with Italian sausage or meat balls. Additional spaghetti sauce and grated cheese may be served with the manicotti at the table.

Mostly For Men

by Charles Flynn

A baked soufflé is excellent fare as the main course for a summer buffet or patio party. This particular version which may be made either with cooked chicken or turkey, serves 10 to 12, and is fine for a light supper with tossed salad and dessert.

Curt crusts from 9 slices of white bread. Butter a large pan or casserole and line with the bread slices. Dice 4 1/2 cups of cooked chicken or turkey.

Place meat atop the bread slices. Drain a No. 2 can of sliced mushrooms and layer over the chicken or turkey, then top with an 8 ounce can of water chestnuts, drained and sliced.

Dot with mayonnaise, 1/2 cup in all and cover with 9 slices of sharp cheddar cheese. Beat 4 eggs well, then combine with 2 cups milk and 1 teaspoon salt. Pour over the layers in the casserole.

Mix 1 can undiluted mushroom soup, 1 can undiluted celery soup, a 2-ounce jar of pimiento, drained and cut. Pour over the casserole. All this may be done in advance. Cover with foil and refrigerate, even overnight.

When ready to cook, preheat oven to 350 and bake the casserole covered for 1 1/2 hours. Meantime sauté 2 cups bread crumbs in 1/4 cup butter. When baking time is completed uncover casserole and top with the sautéed bread crumbs. Brown uncovered for 30 minutes longer.

COLD DISHES also are welcome when the weather doesn't suggest much time over a fire. Try this hearty salad for 4.

Drain a No. 303 can of tiny green peas. Put them in a bowl and combine with 1 cup chopped sweet pickles, 1/2 cup chopped celery, 2 chopped hard-cooked eggs, 1 cup cubed cheddar cheese, and blend in 1/2 cup mayonnaise.

Season to taste with salt and freshly ground or coarse black pepper. Chill, then serve in a bowl or make individual servings on crisp lettuce or endive. Sprinkle with paprika for added color.

Do you have a favorite soufflé dish, or a question about food? Write Chuck Flynn, care of Paddock Publications, Box 280, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60006. For personal reply, please enclose self-addressed, stamped envelope.

'The Camper's Cookbook'

On The Road To Casual Meals

by FRAN HECKART

"The Camper's Cookbook" is just exactly what the title says it is. The MacFadden-Bartlett paperback by Shirlee Sieveke is designed to turn camp food problems into "delightful, carefree meals."

The single most important thing to take along on a camping trip, according to Mrs. Sieveke, is a casual attitude. The camper must leave home realizing that while on the road or at the site, cooking techniques will not be the same as at home. Fancy cooking is out as one-pot cooking is the way to go.

Checklists, which run the gamut of salt and pepper to barbecue forks, are included in the book. However, the camper should not attempt to include everything listed.

For example, the equipment list includes corn popper, pressure cooker and Dutch oven. All quite large and heavy items. A single saucepan can do the work of all three for the cook who prefers to travel light. The list is simply a guide which should be tailored to individual needs.

RECIPES for one-pot meals with pre-cooked meats are excellent, just as one-potters with fresh meats.

In the first category, Mrs. Sieveke combines cans and imagination and ends up with flavorful, imaginative stews, croquettes, minestrone chowder and skillet dinners. Also included with the pre-cooked meats are a Camper's dinner in Gourmet Sauce, Pepperoni Macaroni, Smokie Skillet and Camper's Paella among the numerous offerings.

Ground beef, chicken and pork chops can be incorporated into the fresh meat division. All of Mrs. Sieveke's recipes are simple and use lots of canned goods and prepackaged mixes for convenience.

Her one-pot meals with pre-cooked meats, fresh meats and meatless (to serve with grilled meat and sandwiches) are planned for the cook stove, but any source of sustained heat will serve — cook fires, charcoal grills, etc. The "pot" is a two-quart saucepan, a large skillet or a cast-iron Dutch oven.

CAMPFIRE cooking is the fun of cooking in camp, says the author. Literally anything can be cooked with a campfire, but Mrs. Sieveke suggests concentrating on the easiest, work-saving kinds of campfire cookery — grilling, cooking in foil, heating in a can and Dutch oven stews.

Spam Kabobs, Liver Kabobs, Bacon Dogs and Mexican Cheeseburgers are a few of her recipe offerings.

Instructions for cleaning, dressing and cooking fish are included in a chapter, "When the Fish Are Biting." Recipes for cooking the catch include Grilled Smelt, Trout Dinner, Barbecued Salmon and Fish in a Bag (fish are wrapped in waxed paper, then in several thicknesses of brown paper bags or newspapers, soaked in water and buried in the coals to cook).

IF YOUR campsite is on the seashore, the author eases the way of the inland dweller with instructions for preparing and cooking fresh shrimp, lobster, crawfish, clams and oysters.

"The Camper's Cookbook" also includes helpful information and recipes in the following chapters: Salads and Dressings, Camper's Lunch (soups and sandwiches), Outdoor Breakfasts, Breads and Beverages (purifying water; hot and cold drinks).

Mrs. Sieveke notes that although "The Camper's Cookbook" is written for the broad spectrum camper, the back packer will find many cooking ideas to fit his specialized needs where weight limitation is always the overriding factor.

Wheat products will be the feature of the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Plentiful Foods List for August.

Other plentiful at attractive prices will be nectarines, fresh vegetables, peanuts and peanut products, broiler-fryers, turkeys and eggs.

The wheat carryover this year of approximately one billion bushels is expected to be the largest in nine years. This will assure quantities of grain and of bread, spaghetti, macaroni, noodles and other wheat products, according to USDA reports.

Total supplies of fresh summer vegetables will be seasonally large next month, particularly because of the combination of shipped-in locally grown produce. All indications are that the principal vegetables — sweet corn, cucumbers, lettuce, and tomatoes — will be available in generally ample supply.

WATERMELONS are still being shipped from the south but excellent ones can be found at roadside stands and in supermarket produce sections.

Many people thump watermelons; farmers "plug" them, but there are no totally reliable guides for making a satisfactory selection.

A few appearance factors may be helpful. The surface should be relatively smooth and the rind should have a slight dullness — neither shiny nor dull. The ends of the melon should be filled out and rounded; the underside or "belly of the melon" should have a creamy color.

Judging the quality of cut watermelon poses no problems. Look for firm, juicy flesh with good red color, free from white streaks. Seeds should be dark brown or black.

Avoid melons with pale-colored flesh and white streaks and whitish seeds as they indicate immaturity. Dry, mealy flesh or watery, stringy flesh are signs of overmaturity or aging after harvest.

SELECTING A quality cantaloupe can be just as challenging as watermelons. There is no absolute formula but there are three major signs of full maturity.

The stem should be gone, leaving a smooth, symmetrical, shallow basin. If all or part of the stem remains or if the stem scar is jagged or torn, the melon is probably not fully matured.

The netting, or veining, should be thick, coarse and corky, standing out in bold relief over some part of the surface.

The skin color or ground color between the netting should have changed from green to a yellowish-buff, yellowish-gray or pale yellow.

A ripe cantaloupe will have a pleasant cantaloupe odor and will yield slightly to light thumb pressure on the blossom end.

Most cantaloupes are quite firm when freshly displayed in retail stores. Although some may be ripe, most have not yet reached their best eating stage. Hold them for two to four days at room temperature to allow completion of ripening.

Avoid overripeness, shown by a pronounced yellow rind color or a softening over the entire rind. Mold growth, particularly in the stem scar, is a sign of decay.

Franfare

by Fran Heckart

1 envelope (1 1/8-oz.) Hollandaise sauce mix

1/4 cup drained pickle relish

1/2 teaspoon dill seed, if desired

Remove ends from beans; cut in half, if desired. Cook in small amount of salted boiling water about 20 minutes, or until tender; drain. Prepare sauce mix as directed on label, stirring relish and dill seed in with the water. Serve over cooked beans. 4 to 5 servings.

FRESH PEAS IN VELVET SAUCE

2 pounds fresh peas

1 envelope (1 1/4-oz.) chicken gravy mix

1 cup water

1 tablespoon brown sugar

1 tablespoon prepared yellow mustard

Shell peas. Cook, covered, in small amount of salted water about 10 minutes, until tender; drain. Stir in contents of envelope of gravy mix, 1 cup water, brown sugar, and mustard. Cook over medium heat, stirring occasionally, until sauce comes to a boil. 4 to 5 servings.

Quick-Fix Hobo Stew Is Camper's Dream Of A Dish

The most satisfying campsite meal, for both cook and hungry campers, is a hearty, well-seasoned all-in-one dish that can be put together in record time. This recipe for Hobo Stew — a tasty, robust meal-and-vegetable concoction that takes but 15 minutes to fix — from start to finish — meets all of the requirements. A combination of two all-time favorites, ground beef and frankfurters, the stew is zestily flavored with an envelope of onion gravy mix. A big boon in camp cooking, the small foil-wrapped packages of pre-blended sauce and gravy mixes can make simple meat, fish and poultry dishes into something savory and special.

In the same simple, speedy, all-in-one pot category is the Hearty Beef Chowder. Filling and nutritious, with ground beef and corn, the milk based soup is thickened and enriched with instant mashed potato granules.

peas and carrots
1 cup water
Salt to taste
Brown beef in large skillet or saucepan. Stir in remaining ingredients. Heat until hot and bubbly. 6 to 8 servings.

'Sweet, Gentle' Sleep? Not If You're An Insomniac

(This column is presented by Forest Hospital in Des Plaines, a fully-accredited 135-bed psychiatric hospital, widely known for its intensive programs in psychiatric treatment, research, education and community service.)

In literature sleep has been described as the all-perfect retreat from the day's burdens — it is called sweet sleep and gentle sleep and happy sleep.

Scientists, and today more specifically psychiatrists, know that to many people sleep is more hell than heaven and in clinical sleep laboratories they are studying this mundane yet complicated phenomenon.

Dr. Robert Williams is one of these "sleep" psychiatrists. "Insomnia is the very commonest sleep disorder," the chairman of Baylor College of Medicine explained. "In the past 10 years prescriptions for nighttime sleeping medicine has increased 535 per cent while the prescription of other drugs in this country has increased 10 per cent. We think the problem is becoming more persistent and people are turning to drugs for help."

ACCORDING TO Dr. Williams, there are various types of sleep problems. "There are people who typically have a problem of getting to sleep but once they do they sleep well. Others get to sleep but once they do they awaken in the early morning and can't get back to sleep. There also are people who sleep literally all night but complain they haven't rested. These subjective complaints represent all kinds of physiological disturbances in sleep."

"Sleep," Dr. Williams said, "is not a single state but takes on five different patterns as reflected by the electroencephalogram (EEG) or brain wave machine. We know that people can suffer from a deficiency of one of these stages and suffer consequences."

"There are stages one to four with one being the lightest and the fourth is the deepest. Then there is the REM or rapid eye movement stage during which the EEG takes on a certain pattern and the eyes move rapidly. It has been found that if the eyes move in this particular fashion the person is dreaming."

"Some years ago," he continued, "it was found that if people are deprived of this dreaming sleep they become anxious and irritable and tend to make this sleep up when given the chance."

"The other stage of interest is stage four or deep sleep. If a person is deprived of this stage he becomes depressed and irritable. The person will also make this sleep up if given the chance. We have concluded both these types of sleep are essential for the human organism."

THERE ARE TWO periods of life where sleep disorders are prevalent. There are a surprising number of teenagers who have sleep disturbances as measured by the standards for their age group. There also is a much larger group of middle-aged and older people who have sleep disturbances.

Dr. Williams said teenagers spend a large amount of their sleep in stage four. "As they grow older this stage time drops off considerably. The same thing happens when a person is in his 40s or 50s. The sleeping pattern becomes more erratic. People often get disturbed about this but they can be reassured that this will settle down and level off."

There also are long and short sleepers, according to Dr. Williams, because people require different amounts of sleep. A number of people regularly get along with four or five hours of sleep while others require 10 or 11 hours. "But the percentages of each type of sleep is about the same. People are not necessarily more or less efficient in their sleep."

What about the much discussed dream or REM state? "The REM state is very active for a person physiologically. His respiration is up, his heart rate is up and the consumption of oxygen by his brain is also up. As far as dreams are concerned, we're not sure that the psychological experience itself serves a purpose or whether it — along with the physiological responses is a total function that's required by the human."

"We believe the psychological experience of dreams," Dr. Williams added, "is a consequence of the electrical discharge which originates deep within the brain and brain stem and we think that electrical activity serves some physiological function. It may be to restore certain physical-chemical processes or it may have something to do with memory — restoring memory circuits or solidifying circuits. This hasn't been proven but we do know that dreaming is one phenomenon of the REM stage."

Computer— Can It Play Psychiatrist?

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UPI) — Persons with emotional and behavioral problems may be taking their difficulties to a computer some day rather than to the psychiatrist's couch.

A recent experiment by scientists at Harvard and the University of Alabama in Birmingham indicates computers can be programmed to "perform" functions similar to those of human psychologists and psychiatrists.

A small computer was programmed to replace several "listening" functions usually performed by human interviewers in the experiment by Dr. Charles Slack, a consultant at UBA Medical Center, and his brother Dr. Warner Slack, an assistant at UBA Medical Center, and his brother, Dr. Warner Slack, an assistant professor of medicine at Harvard.

In the experiment, young persons were hired to tell their troubles to both human and electronic listeners.

THE SLACKS SAY their study shows that for at least some, talking to a computer can be helpful. For others, they say the machine was actually preferable to a human therapist.

However, the idea is not to replace humans in psychotherapy but to give them a new tool and meet some of the problems caused by a shortage of professionals in the field. In many cases, the brothers believe the cost of therapy could be reduced.

The Slack had anticipated that some psychiatrists would feel their relationships with patients could be endangered by the intrusion of a computer. But the brothers say the experiments drew more praise than criticism after they were reported in a June issue of the New England Journal of Medicine.

"The best psychiatrists and psychologists know that the time they spend with each patient is limited," said Dr. Charles Slack. "The waiting lists for psychotherapy are miles long."

"If a computer can be of help, most professionals are all for it."

THE COMPUTER asks questions and talks to the patient by presenting words on a video screen. The patient responds by pressing keys on a typewriter-like keyboard and by speaking directly into a microphone.

"The computer first asks a series of psychiatric questions in an attempt to tap emotional and behavioral problems such as depression, sex difficulties, insomnia, etc.," a UBA spokesman said. "The computer stores the patient's answers to the history questionnaire and 'remembers' them for later use."

Although the computer "understands" the answers the patient feeds it through the keyboard, it does not understand the spoken word. But it can tell whether or not the patient is talking, and given a long pause, says something like "Are you having trouble?"

Given a "yes" answer, it might then say, "Well, just try saying the first thing that comes into your mind."

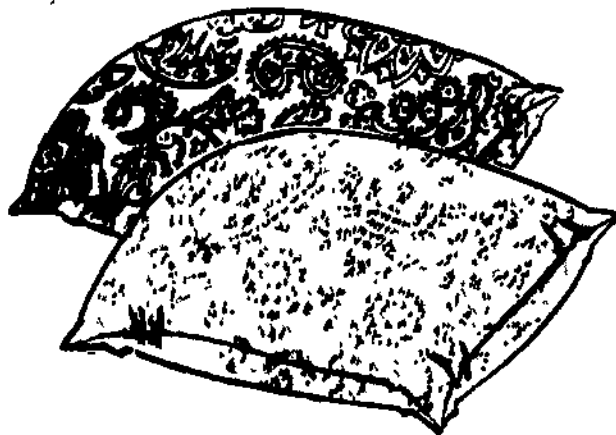

"Talking alone to a computer or being recorded for a later listener may be of some help to some patients," the Slack brothers say. "In these cases the computer can be programmed and will cost much less in terms of time than a human."

"The computer cost is less than $4 or $5 an hour and perhaps much less, while the human cost would be more than $20 an hour, perhaps much more," they said.

Village Can Start Using Lake's Water By 1975

Elk Grove Village can start using water from Lake Michigan in 1975 under an allocation from the State of Illinois. Village Mgr. Charles Willis told the village board of trustees Tuesday.

Willis said the village received an allotment of 7.4 cubic feet per second in 1975. This would jump to 11.8 cubic feet per second by 1980. However, he said the amount was less than the allocation requested and the village would appeal for a larger grant.

The village had requested 27.7 cubic feet of water per second in 1975 and 37.4 cubic feet per second by 1980, he said.

Willis said his staff has been studying the question of long-term water resources for the community, but did not have a recommendation for bringing the water from the lake to the village.

"There are many alternatives for bringing the water here, including joining up with other groups," he said.

In other water allocations by the state to area agencies, the DAMP Water Commission received 34.8 cubic feet per second of the lake's water in 1975 and 42.5 cubic feet per second by 1980. The Tree Towns Commission was given 56 cubic feet per second of water by 1975 and 70.8 cubic feet per second by 1980.

DAMP ORIGINALLY had asked for 37.5 cubic feet of water per second, and Tree Towns wanted 53 cubic feet.

The DAMP commission, representing Des Plaines, Arlington Heights, Mount Prospect and Palatine, is more than a year behind in planning to bring water to the area, a state official said last week.

However, the Tree Towns Commission, serving Elmhurst, Villa Park and Lombard, is ready to start immediately, according to John Guillou, director of the state division of water resource management.

Tree Towns officials have said the commission would sell a portion of the water it pipes in from the lake to three neighboring communities, including nearly two billion gallons of water a year to Elk Grove Village.

Tree Towns is considering building an intake system near Glencoe on the North Shore and estimates the cost of the pipeline at $60 million.

There also has been some discussion that Tree Towns and DAMP cooperate to establish a common water transmission line from Lake Michigan.

According to a 1967 U.S. Supreme Court decision, Illinois is allowed to divert 3,200 cubic feet of water a second from the lake. The state held hearings on the requests for water allocations two years ago but delayed the announcement of the amounts until last week.

Northwest Tollway Work May Be Completed Friday

Construction along the Northwest Tollway may be completed in time for weekend traffic.

Boys' Football Signup Is Saturday

Coaches of Elk Grove Boys' Football, Inc. will register boys for the coming season from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m., Saturday at the Lions Park Community Center, 180 Kennedy Boulevard.

Boys who preregistered earlier, but have not completed final registration, are asked to do so at this time. Boys not preregistered may still register for this season.

Elk Grove Boys' Football Inc. will participate in the Fox Valley Traveling League.

Coaches for the traveling teams include Ron Bernadini, Frank Ciangi, Bill Batzkall, Larry Loder and Tom Bessey.

Saturday morning and afternoon community teams will be coached by Chuck Peterson, Bob Whitesell, Jim Heferan, Brad Hoover, Tom Bartlett, Stan Piegza, Art Schmaltz, John Yohe, John Schwartz, Al Crivellaro, Dick Hamilton and Don Shadley.

Further information may be obtained by calling 439-9764.

Barring rain, which would delay the drawing of lane markers, the three eastbound lanes between Meacham Road and the Kennedy Expressway may be open for traffic Friday night, she said.

But until completion of the work, eastbound traffic will be limited to one lane.

The three westbound lanes were opened last Wednesday night, nearly two weeks ahead of schedule.

Work also was completed last week on the Tri-State Tollway, which underwent 11 miles of resurfacing immediately south of the Northwest Tollway interchange.

SHOULDER WORK, lane markings and the removal of barricades are all that remain to be done on the eastbound Northwest Tollway, according to Mrs. O'Connor.

If the three lanes are not open Friday night, she said they probably would be opened sometime over the weekend or "definitely" by Tuesday, the deadline for completion of the project.

Total cost of both projects was $5.6 million.

Additional work may be scheduled for next summer, according to Mrs. O'Connor. Formal approval is expected for the addition of a third lane between Harlem Avenue and U.S. Rte. 66-Interstate 55 on the Tri-State Tollway.

Consideration also is being given to expanding the Northwest Tollway from four to six lanes west of Meacham Road, and the Tri-State Tollway from four to six lanes north of Rte. 137.

LORI STONE, 4, front, and Jennifer Rogers, 4, try to duplicate the position demonstrated by their instructor, Carol Smitherman, in a modern dance class sponsored by the Elk Grove Park District.

Attitude Survey Set By ZPG

Members of the local Zero Population Growth (ZPG) group have put together a 10-question survey to be conducted in the Northwest suburbs.

The survey is designed to measure attitudes and information about population growth.

ZPG members will go door-to-door during the last two weeks of August to carry out the survey. They plan to visit 200 homes each in Arlington Heights, Mount Prospect and Elk Grove Village.

ZPG has already received permission from these communities to go door-to-door.

Results of the survey will be presented at the group's public program to be held Nov. 2 at Harper College in Palatine.

Housing Project Developers To Meet Officials

Developers of the Devon-53 housing project will meet with representatives of local government tonight in the village hall.

The developers will answer representatives' questions on the impact of the project on their districts. Among those planning to attend are members of the Elk Grove Village Board of Trustees; the administrative librarian of the Elk Grove Public Library; members of the Dist. 59 School Board; members of the Elk Grove Park District; and Jordan Rosen, director of Community Service.

Devon-53 is a 267-acre complex of more than 6,400 apartment units and 91 single-family homes. The project is planned as a 10-year development and will bring an additional 13,000 people into Elk Grove Village if approval for annexation is given.

Public hearings on the project will be scheduled later.

Wage Dispute Under Study

The High School Dist. 214 board of education and teachers association each told its side of the story Monday in a meeting held before a fact-finding board called in to help resolve their dispute on the 1972-73 teachers salary contract.

The board bargaining team and the Dist. 214 Education Association met most of the day with the fact-finding board, made up of one representative from each side and a professional arbitrator selected through the American Arbitration Association.

Following the session, the arbitrator told both sides he will prepare a report on the dispute to be submitted for their consideration, according to a district spokesman. However, the arbitrator said he would not be able to have the report within the next 21 days, as required by the district's bargaining procedures.

Under the negotiating rules agreed to by the board and association, if agreement is not reached on the contract after the arbitrator submits his report, the report will be made public.

THE TWO sides agreed to call in the fact-finding team in May, after teachers voted down a proposal submitted by a mediator.

The mediator's proposal called for a $300 reduction in pay for teachers with teachers now in the district of $100 plus the four per cent increment called for in the present contract for an additional year of experience.

Negotiations between the association and board began in January. Dist. 214 schools are scheduled to open after Labor Day this year and last year's teachers' contract may be extended if no agreement is reached by that time.

This Morning In Brief

The World

A British court ordered the immediate release of five imprisoned longshoremen, apparently averting a proposed one-day national strike called for Monday by the 10-million member British Trade Union Congress.

A day of mourning was called by Protestant groups for victims of the Irish Republican Army's "Bloody Friday." It came as military sources said a British army assault on IRA strongholds in Londonderry may be imminent.

U.S. grand master Bobby Fischer, who was convinced he would win the seventh game of the world championship chess match, had to settle for a draw against titleholder Boris Spassky of the Soviet Union. After the game, the unpredictable Fischer surprised Icelandic organizers of the $250,000, 24-game match by promising to reconsider his demand to bar television cameras from the Icelandic Chess Hall and summoned the producer for the American Broadcasting Co. ABC which owns the rights to film the games.

The Nation

Democratic Party reaction to Sen. Thomas Eagleton, after his disclosure of his past psychiatric treatment, was generally favorable. Chicago Mayor Richard Daley called Eagleton "honest and straightforward" and "a great American."

President Nixon, hoping to turn election-year spending increases into a political liability for the Democratic Congress, vowed to veto any bills that threaten his budget. He said he was determined to avoid higher taxes and increased inflation.

Gov. George Wallace said he would not attend the American Independent Party's convention in Louisville, Ky., next week, but withheld comment on whether he would accept the party's nomination for President.

The State

Two more Chicago policemen were indicted by a special federal grand jury investigating extortion by policemen. Thirteen policemen now have been charged with shakedowns of businessmen.

Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie and Sen. Charles H. Percy said they are urging the federal government to return 170 acres of Fort Sheridan along Lake Michigan to public use.

The Consumer —A New Weekly Column Starts Today

The Market

Stock prices stumbled lower on profit taking and lack of interest in dull trading on the New York Stock Exchange Wednesday as traders rested on recent large gains. The Dow Jones average lost 1.83 to 932.57. It had gained more than 30 points recently. Declines outnumbered advances, 804 to 626, among the 1,744 issues crossing the tape. Turnover dwindled to 14,130,000 shares from the 17,180,000 traded Tuesday. Prices were lower in moderate trading on the American Stock Exchange. Turnover totaled 3,380,000 shares, compared with 3,630,600 traded Tuesday.

Hoffman High School Job 3 Weeks Behind Schedule

Construction on Hoffman Estates High School, Dist. 211's fifth school, is running three to five weeks behind schedule, but the school's architect says the delay is not yet causing major concern.

Wayne Fritch, a representative of Ke-Entred and Associates, the building's architect, told the school board Tuesday the work fell behind schedule because of strikes by several trades unions.

"Our project was not actually shut down, but the contractor didn't have any of the striking trades on the site and they could only go so far without them," Fritch said.

He said that in the last six weeks almost no concrete has been poured for the building, now under construction at Higgins and Glen Lake roads in Hoffman Estates.

However, he said work has now resumed and added that he hopes the contractors will be able to catch up by late August.

In addition, Fritch told the board, the architects have decided to increase the size of the retention basin planned for the north end of the school site because of the recent heavy rains.

"WE HAVE HAD real run off problems into the houses north and east of the site," Fritch said. "We are the high ground and now that the site is bare, there is nothing to slow the water down."

The board approved an additional payment of $11,118 to increase the size of the retention basin.

Also, the board agreed to petition the Hoffman Estates Village Board to annex a small, triangular piece of the 42-acre school site that is not now in the village. Fritch said that Metropolitan Sanitary District attorneys discovered that part of the site had not been annexed while investigating the application for sewer permits for the school.

Fritch said the sanitary district insists that the whole site be in a village as a condition for granting the sewer permit.

North Western Rates Go Up 5 Pct. Tuesday

The Illinois Commerce Commission yesterday granted the Chicago and North Western Ry. Co. a 5 1/2 per cent hike in commuter fares.

The company had asked for a 7 per cent increase, but the commission said that figure was "excessive and not in the public interest."

The company said its suburban operations net income decreased 9.3 per cent from 1970 to 1971 while expenses increased. They said the loss stemmed from a decrease in passengers and increased labor costs.

Company attorneys said the increase would allow the railway to buy new equipment, to meet increasing labor costs and to provide a fair return on net operating costs.

The increase, providing an additional $2.9 million in suburban income, will go into effect Aug. 1.

Tennis Signup For Park Tournament

Residents can now register for the annual tennis tournament sponsored by the Mount Prospect Park District.

The five-day competition begins at 9 a.m. Aug. 21 and includes divisions for boys, girls, doubles, men and women. New divisions added this year are events for men 25 years and under, men 25 years and older and mixed doubles. Trophies will be awarded to the first and second place winners in each division.

Boy and girl competition which will begin at 9 a.m. each day, will be held on the tennis courts at Prospect High School, 801 W. Kensington Rd. Competition for adults, which starts at 8:30 p.m., will be held on the courts at Lions Park Recreation Center, 411 S. Maple St.

Dale Johnson, recreation supervisor, said he expects about 100 people to participate in the tournament this year because of the three new divisions. Last year's participants totalled 90, he said.

No fee is charged for the tournament. Entrants who must live in the park district, must register by 4 p.m. Aug. 16 at the park district office, 411 S. Maple St.

17 Firemen Pass Preliminary Training Exams

Seventeen firefighters from Schaumburg and Hoffman Estates were among those who have qualified for advanced training in the emergency medical training program being conducted by a number of area fire departments and Northwest Community Hospital.

The program will lead to the initiation of a highly sophisticated program for treating emergency situations through a communications system connecting fire departments with the hospital.

Schaumburg firemen who completed the 90-plus hours of training and several examinations include Martin Coniglio, Donald Kopeky, Art Stojke, James Shafar, James Naartz, Rollin Fitch, and John Dixon.

Terry O'Callahan, Dave Baird, Joe Nikrant, John Criel, Richard Knapik, Tom Ryan, Dick Weyler, Joe Miniciani, and Gary Miller were the firefighters from Hoffman Estates who also passed the requirements.

Dr. Stanley Zydo, program director, said the actual use of the emergency medical facilities will not get under way until October. He said a review program will continue at the hospital to allow the men to learn new techniques and refresh their skills.

Program Affects P.E., Driver Education

Teaching Loads Lightened

Physical education and driver education teachers in High School Dist. 211 will find themselves with lighter teaching loads next year as a result of action Tuesday night by the district's board of education.

The board adopted recommendations from a faculty-administration committee calling for a reduction, over a two-year period, of teaching loads for P.E. and driver education to five class assignment periods. Other teachers in the district now are generally assigned five class periods and homeroom.

In the past, P.E. and driver education teachers have had five classes and one period of supervision of study hall for a total of six assignments. Next year they will have 5 1/2 assignments and the following year five assignments.

ALSO, THE BOARD adopted the committee's recommendation to create an administrative division to handle P.E., athletics and driver training at Schaumburg and Hoffman Estates high schools. The division head, who will be named later, will supervise the programs at both schools.

If the new system of supervision is successful, board Pres. Robert Creek said, it will be expanded to include the other three schools in the district.

Creek added that the committee's recommendation proved the board right in its stand in present negotiations with its teachers. "The board believes people should be able to sit down and solve their problems," he said.

Teachers have been pressing in negotiations for the addition of specific working conditions to the contract and for guarantees of teacher participation on policy making committees.

Village Lions Club Announces Officers

New officers of the Elk Grove Village Lions Club were recently announced. They will hold office for the coming year.

Taking office July 1 were: Bob Moore, president; Tom Wienkowski, first vice-president; Ron Foster, second vice-president; Irv Svoboda, third vice-president; Walter Haas, Secretary; Ted Czarnecki, treasurer; Bruce Swanson, "tail twister"; Gene Hermansen, "lion tamer"; John Hermansen, director; Rick Groch, director; Bud Pruy, director; Ernie Michaels, director; Don Walker, life director; Charlie Eining, past president.

'Monster Mash' At Teen Center

"Monster Mash" will be this Saturday's special program at the Cedar House, Lions Park Community Center, 180 Kennedy Boulevard.

Free monster movies will be shown. Music will be supplied by a monster band, and surprises are in store for everyone.

The center will be open from 8:30 to 11:30 p.m. Activities will be supervised by adult volunteers from the various civic organizations that sponsor the teen center.

Pupil 'Excluded' From Conant By School Bd.

A student who was caught last spring calling in bomb threats to Conant High School was permanently excluded from regular classes in High School Dist. 211 by the board of education Tuesday night.

The student, who needs only two more credits to graduate, will be allowed to attend summer school to obtain the two credits under the terms of the board's action.

According to a report submitted to the board, the student called several bomb threats in to the school shortly before school let out for the year.

The board took the action without the closed session customary in student discipline cases because neither the student nor his parents appeared to appeal the ruling.

Driveway Work Stopped After Residents Complain

Repair of deteriorating driveway aprons and sidewalks in the southwest section of Elk Grove Village was halted by the board of trustees at its meeting Tuesday after homeowners in the area protested the resurfacing detracted from the appearance of the neighborhood.

Village Pres. Charles Zettek said the board had been talking with the developer, Centex Corp., about the flaking of the driveways in the area of Yarmouth and Exmoor roads for two years. He said the village had refused to accept the section for public maintenance until the problem was corrected and blacktopping was offered as the solution.

Several of the homeowners said they did not want the resurfacing on the aprons and sidewalks in front of their homes. However, the village board told the residents that portion of the driveway was village property and the village had the responsibility to maintain it.

Zettek said something might be worked out to allow the homeowners who objected to the resurfacing to pay the added cost of replacing the concrete. He said residents would be informed of the board's plans before any action was taken.

Capitol Flag Flies Here

The large flag flying over the Elk Grove Township Hall has flown over the Capitol in Washington.

The flag was presented to the township by Rep. Philip M. Crane, R-13th. Richard M. Hall, township auditor, said the flag will fly 24 hours a day. At night it will be illuminated by two spotlights.

Motorcycle Stolen

An orange motorcycle, worth $1,901, was stolen Monday from in front of a building at 208 Washington Sq., according to Elk Grove Village Police. Authorities said the bike was owned by Larry Skarda, 20, of 341 Kingsbridge Rd., Elk Grove Village.

Tree Pickup To End

The Elk Grove Village streets department will pick up broken trees in areas hit by the July 14 storm until Friday at noon, Jack Andrews, department director, said yesterday.

Persons who want broken tree limbs picked up may call the village hall at 439-3900, he said.

Set Willow Road Paving Through Hillcrest Slough

The stretch of Willow Road through the Hillcrest slough in Prospect Heights will be paved in about two weeks, according to Tom McHugh, a Cook County Highway Department official.

The paving is part of a larger project involving similar work on some 24 miles of road in various parts of the county. Included will be widening and paving of the one-half mile section of Willow Road between Elmhurst and Wheeling roads near where the slough is located.

The road is to be widened to a 26-foot base and paving will provide for two 12 foot wide lanes.

"The entire project," McHugh said, "is to improve the roads involved to meet county standards."

HOWEVER, Bob Braude a member of the "Save the Slough Committee," a group of citizens organized to preserve the Hillcrest wetland areas said the project could deal a serious blow to the organization's efforts.

Removal of the road across the slough has been proposed by the group as a possible solution to saving the environmentally troubled area.

Without the road, members contend, a natural flow between the polluted north half and the relatively clean south half would be restored and the area would cleanse itself within a few years.

"It looks as though the road has been paved for good and it doesn't seem like it will ever be taken out," Braude said.

He added that the committee has also been pushing for replacement of the conduit pipe under the road through which water flows from the north to south half.

"NOT NEARLY enough water flows through the pipe for any cleansing action to take place and we wanted it replaced," he continued. "But once the road is paved, the conduit will be extremely hard to take out."

Braude said he and fellow committee member Dolores Haugh had been in touch with county highway officials who told them the road would be paved only in spots temporarily to fill the holes in it. "They didn't tell us that it was going to be paved two lanes wide though," he said, adding the group will probably meet soon to discuss the project's effects on their group's efforts.

Police Will Seek To End Minibike Riding In Parks

In an effort to keep minibike racers out of Heritage Park, the Wheeling Park District will soon be authorizing police officers to patrol park property.

Because the park district is an independent taxing body, it has the power to run its own police force. At present, Wheeling police do not have any authority on park district property. In the absence of police patrols, minibike riders have been using the toboggan hill in Heritage Park as a race track.

"They almost ran over a man and his child the other day," said Mrs. Lorraine Lark, president of the park board.

Park commissioners, who currently are the only park police, have been trying to patrol the area to keep minibikes, motorcycles and dune buggies out of the parks. They have posted signs at Heritage Park stating that all motor vehicles are prohibited. However, because they must chase the illegal riders on foot, they have had little success in apprehending the minibike riders.

ALL THIS will hopefully end when the park district issues special cards to the Wheeling policemen, authorizing them to act as part of the park commission. The police will then be able to make the parks a regular part of their patrols.

Three commissioners of the park board introduced the program at a village board police and five committee meeting Monday night. Members of the committee approved the program and asked that the police make an all-out patrol of the area during the first two weeks.

"We want to work together because duplication of services is a little ridiculous," said Trustee Ronald Bruhn. He asked the park commissioners to tell the police where the problem areas are so there will be an effective patrol.

Trustee Michael Valenza asked the committee to consider setting aside a special place for the minibikers to race. "We'll just be moving the problem from here to there, if you know what I mean," he said.

"THEY'LL HIT the industrial park next," said Roger Stricker, director of public safety.

The idea was abandoned because minibikes are illegal on all public property. "They're only allowed on private property if they have the permission of the property owner," Mrs. Lark said.

Mrs. Lark suggested that the village might find an enterprising farmer who would be willing to let the riders use his land. She added, however, that unless all riders were insured, the property owner would be liable for any accident that took place on his property.

State Approves Sidewalk, Street Repair Program

The state has approved Wheeling's $53,536 sidewalk-and-street repair and maintenance program. Bids for the project are being accepted and will be opened Aug. 7.

The repair and maintenance project is being financed with state Motor Fuel Tax funds which are returned to municipalities on the basis of population. The state must approve any project financed with these funds.

The first phase of the project is estimated at $31,000, and will include 23,000 square feet of sidewalks. Sidewalks scheduled for repair this summer in the Meadowbrook West area include: W. Jeffrey, Sunset, W. Manchester, Nancy, Leslie, Anne, Melvin, Jeanne, Jeffrey Avenue, Meadowbrook, Oak, and Wolf Road adjacent to Meadowbrook.

Other areas include Deborah Lane and First Street off Dundee Road; Holland's subdivision, which includes Sixth and Seventh streets, and Glendale; and Hollywood Ridge unit two south of Dundee Road, which includes Birch, Palm, Laurel, Redwood and Willow.

Scheduled for improvement in Dunhurst unit four, west of Rte. 83 are: west Norman, north Norman, east Norman, south Fletcher, Sarah, King, Jenkins, Albert, Maureen and Marvin.

The street program, estimated at $22,436, will provide patching and seal-coating in five street areas: Holland's subdivision; Twelfth Street north of Dundee Road; Babiarz subdivision; Hollywood Ridge unit two; and a portion of Wheeling's industrial center.

The sidewalk repair program this summer is part of a long-term plan which Village Trustee Edward Berger said should be completed by 1974. He said that by that time major repairs should be completed and the village would be able to go on a maintenance program.

HEAVY ROAD equipment is the only traffic on Arlington Heights Road north of Dundee Road as reconstruction of the two-lane thoroughfare continues. The rebuilding, financed jointly by Buffalo Grove, Arlington Heights, Wheeling Township and Cook County, is scheduled for completion in August.

Construction Ahead Of Schedule

Tollway May Open Friday

Construction along the Northwest Tollway may be completed in time for weekend traffic.

Work on the 11-mile project is proceeding ahead of schedule, according to Fran O'Connor, a spokesman for the Illinois State Toll Highway Authority.

Barring rain, which would delay the drawing of lane markers, the three eastbound lanes between Meacham Road and the Kennedy Expressway may be open for traffic Friday night, she said.

But until completion of the work, eastbound traffic will be limited to one lane.

The three westbound lanes were opened last Wednesday night, nearly two weeks ahead of schedule.

Work also was completed last week on the Tri-State Tollway, which underwent 11 miles of resurfacing immediately south of the Northwest Tollway interchange.

SHOULDER WORK, lane markings and the removal of barricades are all that remain to be done on the eastbound Northwest Tollway, according to Mrs. O'Connor.

If the three lanes are not open Friday night, the said they probably would be opened sometime over the weekend or "definitely" by Tuesday, the deadline for completion of the project.

Total cost of both projects was $5.6 million.

Additional work may be scheduled for next summer, according to Mrs. O'Connor. Formal approval is expected for the addition of a third lane between Harlem Avenue and U.S. Rte. 66-Interstate 55 on the Tri-State Tollway.

Consideration also is being given to expanding the Northwest Tollway from four to six lanes west of Meacham Road, and the Tri-State Tollway from four to six lanes north of Rte. 137.

'Sabotage' At Heritage Park

Wheeling's flood control program in the Heritage Park area is being sabotaged by an active bunch of juvenile engineers, says Wheeling resident William Rogers.

"The sabotage takes the form of dam construction in the Heritage Park area," Rogers wrote in a letter to the village board. "The dams are not being constructed by beavers or other animals, but by a small band of energetic, potential engineers — our kids."

Rogers said the dams are being constructed from broken paving banks designed to prevent erosion along the creek bed. He said the water behind the dams is six to eight inches higher than normal.

Offering to help remove the dams, Rogers added, "May I suggest the removal be done under the cover of darkness, or when the engineers and the happy band of dam builders are in school?"

ggers added, "May I suggest the removal be done under the cover of darkness, or when the engineers and the happy band of dam builders are in school?"

3-Car Accident

One car was heavily damaged in a three car pile-up Tuesday morning at the intersection of Hintz and Elmhurst Roads, Wheeling.

A Lake Villa woman's car had $900 damage after a rear-end collision with a car driven by Andrew Bellavia of 387 S. Jeffrey Ln., Wheeling. The third car was driven by a Louisiana resident. No one was injured in the accident.

The World

A British court ordered the immediate release of five imprisoned longshoremen, apparently averting a proposed one-day national strike called for Monday by the 10-million member British Trade Union Congress.

A day of mourning was called by Protestant groups for victims of the Irish Republican Army's "Bloody Friday." It came as military sources said a British army assault on IRA strongholds in Londonderry may be imminent.

U.S. grand master Bobby Fischer, who was convinced he would win the seventh game of the world championship chess match, had to settle for a draw against titleholder Boris Spassky of the Soviet Union. After the game, the unpredictable Fischer surprised Icelandic organizers of the $250,000, 24-game match by promising to reconsider his demand to bar television cameras from the Icelandic Chess Hall and summoned the producer for the American Broadcasting Co. ABC which owns the rights to film the games.

The Nation

Democratic Party reaction to Sen. Thomas Eagleton, after his disclosure of his past psychiatric treatment, was generally favorable. Chicago Mayor Richard Daley called Eagleton "honest and straightforward" and "a great American."

President Nixon, hoping to turn election-year spending increases into a political liability for the Democratic Congress, vowed to veto any bills that threaten his budget. He said he was determined to avoid higher taxes and increased inflation.

Gov. George Wallace said he would not attend the American Independent Party's convention in Louisville, Ky., next week, but withheld comment on whether he would accept the party's nomination for President.

The State

Two more Chicago policemen were indicted by a special federal grand jury investigating extortion by policemen. Thirteen policemen now have been charged with shakedowns of businessmen.

Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie and Sen. Charles H. Percy said they are urging the federal government to return 170 acres of Fort Sheridan along Lake Michigan to public use.

State Sen. Bernard Neistein's attorneys filed a motion admitting he was not duly elected committee member from Chicago's 29th Ward. The suit challenging his election was dropped.

The War

Rte. 53 Extension

Road Gets Mixed Reaction

by JEAN CAFARELLA
The new extension planned for Rte. 53 north of Dundee Road is creating mixed emotions among residents of the Palatine and Long Grove areas. Rte. 53, when completed, will extend from Interstate 80 to Wisconsin, skirting just west of Buffalo Grove.

Several small roads between Dundee Road and Long Grove Road will be cut off by the new extension and will not have interchanges, which will cause some residents to travel farther to get onto Rte. 53. Dorothy Lane, Hicks Road and Nichols Road will be closed where they will intersect.

Some residents are happy about it, thinking it will make their area more private. "I'm glad," said Mrs. Janis Fadzak of Box 163A Hicks Road, Palatine. "Because 53 will block off this road and we won't have as much traffic from the people who use Hicks as a short cut. We'll just have local traffic on it. People go like crazy on this road, and we have small children to watch."

Ray Fassbender of Box 160, Rte. 1, Palatine, is not against the Rte. 53 extension, but "not for it, either." The possible increase in traffic in his neighborhood doesn't bother him, since "as it is, people race up and down Hicks like crazy."

There is the possible problem of the new road bringing more traffic, more industry, and more metropolitan problems.

Though Fassbender doesn't think the traffic will eventually make the area more metropolitan, Mrs. Patricia Apostolakis does. She lives at Coach and Hicks Road, and said she would rather have Rte. 53 about five miles away.

"IT'LL CAUSE pollution and noise, and I'm not happy about it at all. There are some lovely homes around here, and if it's going to be a big highway some of them may have to be ripped up," she said.

Greg Armstrong, who resides on Rte. 1 at Pussy Willow Farm, Palatine, feels that closing off the smaller roads will be inconvenient. He will have to go to Dundee Road to get on the new extension.

"For those interested in the country, it'll cause problems," he predicted. "They're zoning for apartments at Hicks and Nichols roads, and they're trying to buy the farm across the street for apartments." He said there are quadromiums going up in the vicinity already.

"I don't like expressways — at least not where I want to live. If I can't see it or hear it, okay, but if it brings industry in and the area is rezoned, I'm not going to like it if it starts to resemble Rolling Meadows or Elk Grove Village," said Armstrong.

Park Plan To Be Shown Soon

Prospect Heights Dist. 23 school board officials are expected to present their proposal for a new school-park agreement to Prospect Heights Park District commissioners at a school board meeting next Wednesday.

The old agreement, terminated by the school board, expired July 15. It allowed the parks to use John Muir school facilities for their summer programs along with Eisenhower school grounds for recreation.

Since the pact expired, however, the park district has had to pay rent charges of $5 a day for gymnasiums, $3 a day for classrooms and $6 per hour for custodial care.

Details of the new proposal were not available, but John Stull, a Dist. 23 school official described it as a combination of the old agreement and the current Dist. 23 10-year pact with the Arlington Heights Park District.

"We'd like to work the new agreement on a rental basis," said Stull. "State legislation won't allow us to offer a longer term lease than 10 years and this way there would not have to be any question over how responsibility for wear and tear on the 8 facilities should be handled."

AT A PARK BOARD meeting attended by Stull and fellow school board members Mel Lacey and Ron Sowatzke, park commissioner Bill Kuhns told school officials the rental policy would not allow the park district to develop school land for recreation. He said a longer term lease would provide more time for construction of tracks and baseball diamonds.

Another park commissioner, Max Lyle, said the park district would like a 10-year lease with a 10-year renewal option which could make the district eligible for federal funding for development projects.

"It's not definite that we'd get federal money with a longer lease but we'd be a lot closer to getting it that way than we would on a year-to-year rental basis."

RTE 53 PRESENTLY comes to an abrupt halt in the middle of a field north of Dundee Road. New state plans to carry the route west of Long

Grove up to Rte. 22 have been approved but construction contracts haven't been awarded.

Teaching Loads Are Lightened

Physical education and driver education teachers in High School Dist. 211 will find themselves with lighter teaching loads next year as a result of action Tuesday night by the district's board of education.

The board adopted recommendations from a faculty-administration committee calling for a reduction, over a two-year period, of teaching loads for P.E. and driver education to five class assignment periods. Other teachers in the district now are generally assigned five class periods and homeroom.

In the past, P.E. and driver education teachers have had five classes and one period of supervision of study hall for a total of six assignments. Next year they will have 5½ assignments and the following year five assignments.

ALSO, THE BOARD adopted the committee's recommendation to create an administrative division to handle P.E., athletics and driver training at Schaumburg and Hoffman Estates high schools. The division head, who will be named later, will supervise the programs at both schools.

If the new system of supervision is successful, board Pres. Robert Creek said, it will be expanded to include the other three schools in the district.

Creek added that the committee's recommendation proved the board right in its stand in present negotiations with its teachers. "The board believes people should be able to sit down and solve their problems," he said.

Teachers have been pressing in negotiations for the addition of specific working conditions to the contract and for guarantees of teacher participation on policy making committees.

NEGOTIATIONS ARE presently bogged down, with no firm agreements on any matter in the 1972-73 teachers contract.

ICC Grants 5¼% Increase

The Illinois Commerce Commission yesterday granted the Chicago and North Western Ry. Co. a 5¼ per cent hike in commuter fares.

The company had asked for a 7 per cent increase, but the commission said that figure was "excessive and not in the public interest."

The company said its suburban operations net income decreased 9.3 per cent from 1970 to 1971 while expenses increased. They said the loss stemmed from a decrease in passengers and increased labor costs.

Company attorneys said the increase would allow the railway to buy new equipment, to meet increasing labor costs and to provide a fair return for net operating costs.

The increase, providing an additional $2.9 million in suburban income, will go into effect Aug. 1.

Park shade offers relief from the summer heat.

Chain-Reaction Crash Hurts 2

A three-car chain-reaction accident on the narrow two-lane road fronting Buffalo Grove at the intersection of Dundee Road and Golfview Terrace Monday morning resulted in injuries to two people and damage in excess of $1,000.

The accident, which occurred about 10:30 a.m., was caused when a car driven by Lawrence Kirchner, 480 Creekwood Dr., Palatine, crashed into the rear of a car driven by Caroline Kaas, 4 Beechwood Ct. East. Mrs. Kaas had stopped behind a car driven by Jean Brennan of Hot Springs Ark., who was waiting for a car ahead of him to make a left-hand turn onto Golf View Terrace.

Buffalo Grove police were on the scene when the fire department rescue squad arrived. Kirchner was treated for a cut on the forehead and a gash on his forehead. Mrs. Kaas complained of knee and chest pains. Both victims were taken to Northwest Community Hospital, where they were treated and released.

Damage to the Kirchner car and the Kaas vehicle was estimated by state police at $500 each. Damage to the Brennan automobile was estimated at $350.

Set Willow Road Paving Through Hillcrest Slough

The stretch of Willow Road through the Hillcrest slough in Prospect Heights will be paved in about two weeks, according to Tom McHugh, a Cook County Highway Department official.

The paving is part of a larger project involving similar work on some 24 miles of road in various parts of the county. Included will be widening and paving of the one-half mile section of Willow Road between Elmhurst and Wheeling roads near where the slough is located.

The road is to be widened to a 28-foot base and paving will provide for two 12 foot wide lanes.

"The entire project," McHugh said, "is to improve the roads involved to meet county standards."

HOWEVER, Bob Braude a member of the "Save the Slough Committee," a group of citizens organized to preserve the Hillcrest wetland areas said the project could deal a serious blow to the organization's efforts.

Removal of the road across the slough

has been proposed by the group as a possible solution to saving the environmentally troubled area.

Without the road, members contend, a natural flow between the polluted north half and the relatively clean south half would be restored and the area would cleanse itself within a few years.

"It looks as though the road has been paved for good and it doesn't seem like it will ever be taken out," Braude said.

He added that the committee has also been pushing for replacement of the conduit pipe under the road through which water flows from the north to south half.

"NOT NEARLY enough water flows through the pipe for any cleansing action to take place and we wanted it replaced," he continued. "But once the road is paved, the conduit will be extremely hard to take out."

Braude said he and fellow committee member Dolores Haugh had been in touch with county highway officials who told them the road would be paved only in spots temporarily to fill the holes in it. "They didn't tell us that it was going to be paved two lanes wide though," he said, adding the group will probably meet soon to discuss the project's effects on their group's efforts.

Agencies To See Village's Master Plan Tonight

Representatives from municipal agencies in Buffalo Grove will review the nearly completed master plan of the village at a special meeting at 8 o'clock tonight in the village hall.

Compiled by village plan consultant Bob Grossman of Associated Planners, Inc., the master plan includes studies of current conditions in Buffalo Grove and several alternative predictions for future growth patterns of the village.

Grossman said he plans to complete the notebook of data and charts he has been compiling for the past year sometime next week. He will then begin discussions with the Buffalo Grove plan commission on the alternative land-use patterns he has developed, he said.

THE PLAN COMMISSION was scheduled to review the master plan last night at its meeting. Chairman Carl Genrich said the members of the commission will use the information Grossman has compiled in planning land use.

"The master plan is a blueprint for development just as a budget is a guideline for spending," Genrich said. "The plan commission will use certain formal and informal tools — such as the zoning ordinance — to effectuate the plan adopted by the village."

Grossman said the final master plan will be ready for adoption sometime in September. At that time, the plan commission will choose a land-use pattern from the alternatives offered by Grossman and make a recommendation to the village board. Following a public hearing, the plan commission will make its final recommendation to the trustees.

When the final version of the master plan is adopted by the village board, it will become a legally binding map of future land use, Grossman said. For example, if a developer wants to build a subdivision in an area where the master plan indicates a major thoroughfare or school will be needed, the contractor must include them in his plans, he said.

GROSSMAN SAID when the adoption of the master plan reaches the final stages, he will probably review the current zoning and subdivision ordinances to update them and make recommendations to the plan commission and village board that they be revised in order to more effectively implement the master plan.

Included in the new information that Grossman will present at the meeting tonight are maps showing the village's flood plain, general land use, traffic volume, parks and recreation areas, major streets, water system, sanitary sewer system, storm drainage system, a neighborhood analysis and the limits to future development of the village.

Next Wednesday, Grossman said he plans to meet with the plan commission to discuss tax rates in the village.

Currently, Buffalo Grove is divided into eight taxing districts and Grossman said he has come up with some interesting findings on the difference in tax rates that village residents in different areas pay for the same services.

Miss Buffalo Grove Retains Happy Memories

Cora Rita Jones, Miss Buffalo Grove, came home from the Miss Illinois Pageant in Aurora last Sunday with a $50 scholarship and lots of happy memories.

Cora Rita won the cash award for her entry in the talent competition, a humorous dramatic skit entitled, "My Get Up And Go Got Up And Went." In the act she portrayed an old woman reminiscing about her life.

Last week was a busy one for Cora Rita, with rehearsals every morning beginning at 7 a.m. and competition Wednesday, Thursday and Friday nights.

The blisters on her feet from the hours of rehearsal in spike-heeled shoes are beginning to heal now, she says, and she has caught up on most of the sleep she lost during the pageant.

PATTY GASS, who served as Cora Rita's chaperone, is recuperating this week, too. She was required to accompany Cora Rita everywhere during the entire pageant.

"I had a busy week, but she had to take care of two people," Cora Rita said. "It's a good thing she's going on vacation in the next couple of weeks," she added.

Unlike practically everyone who over-packs for a trip, Cora Rita says she wore everything she took to Aurora.

"We were on display all the time," she said. "Even when we were riding in a car, people on the street would see the 'Miss Illinois Pageant' sign on the side and their eyes would get four times the normal size. We really had to watch our appearance."

Cora Rita said she was pleased with the support she got from Buffalo Grove during the pageant. She received flowers from Village Pres. Gary Armstrong and the Buffalo Grove Jaycees among others, and several telegrams and cards wishing her luck.

"It was really great to know that people at home were thinking of me during the pageant," Cora Rita said. "The flowers and cards just kept pouring in all the time."

HEAVY ROAD equipment is the only traffic on Arlington Heights Road north of Dundee Road as reconstruction of the two-lane thoroughfare continues. The re-

Tollway May Open Friday

Construction along the Northwest Tollway may be completed in time for weekend traffic.

Work on the 11-mile project is proceeding ahead of schedule, according to Fran O'Connor, a spokesman for the Illinois State Toll Highway Authority.

Barring rain, which would delay the drawing of lane markers, the three eastbound lanes between Meacham Road and the Kennedy Expressway may be open for traffic Friday night, she said.

But until completion of the work, eastbound traffic will be limited to one lane.

The three westbound lanes were opened last Wednesday night, nearly two weeks ahead of schedule.

Work also was completed last week on the Tri-State Tollway, which underwent 11 miles of resurfacing immediately south of the Northwest Tollway interchange.

SHOULDER WORK, lane markings and the removal of barricades are all that remain to be done on the eastbound Northwest Tollway, according to Mrs. O'Connor.

If the three lanes are not open Friday night, the said they probably would be opened sometime over the weekend or "definitely" by Tuesday, the deadline for completion of the project.

Total cost of both projects was $5.6 million.

Additional work may be scheduled for next summer, according to Mrs. O'Connor. Formal approval is expected for the addition of a third lane between Harlem Avenue and U.S. Rte. 66-Interstate 55 on the Tri-State Tollway.

Consideration also is being given to expanding the Northwest Tollway from four to six lanes west of Meacham Road, and the Tri-State Tollway from four to six lanes north of Rte. 137.

Kilmer Pacts To Be Awarded

The Buffalo Grove Park Board tonight will reopen bids and award contracts for seeding and electrical work at Joyce Kilmer School.

The bids were opened two weeks ago but the awarding of contracts was postponed. Bids for the seeding were over the amount allotted for the work and no bids were received for the lighting of the proposed tennis courts and playground areas.

Other items on the agenda include review of plans for park and recreation areas to be included in the 128-acre multi-family development proposed by Otis Associates of Northbrook.

The commissioners are scheduled to decide on a name for the park soon to be completed near Farrington Drive and Springside Lane. The public park will include an outdoor swimming pool, lighted tennis courts and play areas.

THE BOARD also is scheduled to officially return the lease to property around White Pine Ditch that was deeded to them last winter for ice skating.

The progress of two teen groups now being organized under the direction of Mrs. Harriet Blakeway, teen employment director, also is scheduled for discussion.

The groups, a "Tween Club" for junior high school students and "Teen Club" for high school students, plan to organize activities and a meeting place for others in their age group. Both clubs now are establishing planning committees.

Mediator To Meet Board, Faculty Unit

Federal mediator Ed Wise will have his first meeting with the Elementary School Dist. 21 Board of Education and the Wheeling Faculty Council (WFC) at 10 a.m. today.

Wise has been assigned to attempt to settle the contract negotiations which went into impasse in Dist. 21 last month. The mediator is from the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service.

The session will be the first time the board and the council have met since June 8, when the council called for impasse procedures to begin.

After several verbal attacks from the spokesmen of both groups, who disagreed on the impasse decision, the board agreed to accept impasse on June 22.

The two negotiations teams are deadlocked over the entire financial package of the contract and three items in the procedural package.

ITEMS DISPUTED in the financial package include salary increases and benefits. The major item disputed in the procedural package is a strike clause, if the contract is signed on a multi-year basis.

Procedures also being argued are the scope of the contract, and whether or not fact-finding should be included in the impasse procedures.

All Dist. 21 negotiations sessions have been open to the public this year. It is the first year a school district has elected to have open sessions. The open sessions were approved by both sides, partially because it would eliminate the need for press releases from each team following a meeting.

It is doubtful the mediator will work in open session. John Barger, chairman of the board team, and Larry Halter, spokesman for the WFC, said they both believe the talks will continue behind closed doors because they say mediators always work that way.

Halter has been through mediation before in other negotiations, and said it would be almost impossible to open up the talks.

He said the mediator usually separates the teams and goes back and forth between them, trying to settle differences so agreement can be reached in the problem areas.

BARGER, WHO has not been involved in mediation, said he didn't see how the talks could be open.

The team spokesmen do not know if Wise will get to the work of mediation today. He is expected to define the open issues and set up some type of ground rules as to how he will operate.

According to the 1971-72 contract, the mediator has 20 days from the time the two teams agree to use him in which to settle the dispute. If he does not settle in that time, the talks will go to fact-finding, and a fact-finder will be brought into the negotiations.

Today's meeting will be in the Dist. 21 administration building, 999 W. Dundee Rd., Wheeling. Results of the mediation will be reported at the school board meeting tonight.

This Morning In Brief

The World

A British court ordered the immediate release of five imprisoned longshoremen, apparently averting a proposed one-day national strike called for Monday by the 10-million member British Trade Union Congress.

A day of mourning was called by Protestant groups for victims of the Irish Republican Army's "Bloody Friday." It came as military sources said a British army assault on IRA strongholds in Londonderry may be imminent.

U.S. grand master Bobby Fischer, who was convinced he would win the seventh game of the world championship chess match, had to settle for a draw against titleholder Boris Spassky of the Soviet Union. After the game, the unpredictable Fischer surprised Icelandic organizers of the $250,000, 24-game match by promising to reconsider his demand to bar television cameras from the Icelandic Chess Hall and summoned the producer for the American Broadcasting Co. ABC which owns the rights to film the games.

The Nation

Democratic Party reaction to Sen. Thomas Eagleton, after his disclosure of his past psychiatric treatment, was generally favorable. Chicago Mayor Richard Daley called Eagleton "honest and straightforward" and "a great American."

President Nixon, hoping to turn election-year spending increases into a political liability for the Democratic Congress, vowed to veto any bills that threaten his budget. He said he was determined to avoid higher taxes and increased inflation.

Gov. George Wallace said he would not attend the American Independent Party's convention in Louisville, Ky., next week, but withheld comment on whether he would accept the party's nomination for President.

The State

Two more Chicago policemen were indicted by a special federal grand jury investigating extortion by policemen. Thirteen policemen now have been charged with shakedowns of businessmen.

Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie and Sen. Charles H. Percy said they are urging the federal government to return 170 acres of Fort Sheridan along Lake Michigan to public use.

State Sen. Bernard Neistein's attorneys filed a motion admitting he was not duly elected committee member from Chicago's 29th Ward. The suit challenging his election was dropped.

The War

Commuter Fare To Go Up 5 Pct. Starting Aug. 1

Commuter fares for riders on the Chicago and North Western Ry. will be going up 5 1/4 per cent Aug. 1 in the wake of a decision yesterday by the Illinois Commerce Commission.

The railway company had requested a 7 per cent fare increase but the commission said that figure was "excessive and not in the public interest."

Chicago and North Western officials said the company's suburban operations had a net income decrease of 9.3 per cent from 1970 to 1971 while expenses increased. They said the loss stemmed from a drop in passengers and increased labor costs.

Company attorneys told the commission that the increased fare would allow the railway to buy new equipment, to meet rising labor costs and to provide a fair return for net operating costs.

The fare increase is expected to bring an additional $2.8 million to the railroad.

Rate schedules from the Northwest suburbs one-way to Chicago are: Palatine, $1.40 old, $1.50 new; Arlington Heights, $1.35 old, $1.40 new; Mount Prospect, $1.25 old, $1.30 new; and Des Plaines, $1.15 old and $1.20 new.

Monthly commuter rates are: Palatine, $37.05 old, $39.00 new; Arlington Heights, $34.40 old, $36.20 new; Mount Prospect, $33.05 old, $34.80 new; and Des Plaines, $30.10 old, $31.70 new.

Northwest Tollway Work May Be Finished Friday

A backyard carnival to raise funds for muscular dystrophy research will be held next week in Palatine.

The carnival is scheduled for 1 to 5 p.m. Saturday, Aug. 5 at the home of David Rzewnicki, 28 Garden Ave., Palatine Township.

Games and refreshments will be available.

Assisting David in planning the carnival are his sister, Ramona, and brother, John; Teresa and Beth Recar, Bob Byrnes, Barb Gill and Mike Lecher.

Anglers, explorers and wanderers spend a leisurely afternoon at the Deer Grove Forest Preserve.

Palatine Women Victimized: Scott

Suit Filed In $10,000 Pool Swindle

Illinois Atty. Gen. William Scott has filed suit in Circuit Court on behalf of a Palatine woman he said was defrauded of nearly $10,000 by a swimming pool contractor.

According to the suit, Mrs. Opal Hominick, 51 S. Belle, last fall paid $9,554 — her life savings — to have a swimming pool installed in her back yard. The hole was dug and nothing more has been done since. The pool was supposed to have been completed in October, according to Mrs. Hominick.

The suit names as defendants John Andre, 330 Mark Ln., Streamwood, owner of the American Pool Construction Co. of the same address; and Joe Turos, 5441 N. East River Rd., Chicago.

The American Pool Co., the suit contends, is not registered to do business in Illinois. It asks the court to stop the defendants from doing business in Illinois or reorganizing under any other name, and to order that any out-of-pocket losses of others dealing with the company be recovered.

MRS. HOMINICK told The Herald that she had been introduced to Turos last September and that he had represented himself as the vice president of a Niles construction company for which he had been a salesman from February to May of last year.

She wanted a pool for her children and grandchildren to use, and Turos said he could put one in for $6,500, she said. Then the price went up to $7,500, and finally to almost $10,000, Mrs. Hominick said. She was told by the contractors that this was a "low" price, but according to the attorney general's suit, it actually is high.

Mrs. Hominick gave Turos and Andre $9,554, which was the price stipulated in the "contract" she signed. But the "contract," which was represented as being with the Niles company, was actually a contract with the American Pool Co., she said.

Mrs. Hominick said the contractors dug the hole, piling dirt against her house and tearing down a fence, and then they virtually disappeared. She fears the dirt has by now damaged the house, and she also has had to pump rain water out of the hole periodically, which costs her $20 each time.

SHE SAID THE contractors were "impossible to reach." She repeatedly tried to call them to demand either the completion of the pool or a refund, but their telephone numbers were changed, or they were reported to be "out."

Mrs. Hominick said she contacted several attorneys, and appealed to State's Atty. Edward Hanrahan, the Chicago Tribune and a swimming pool contractor association — all to no avail. She then told her story to the Consumer Fraud Division of the Attorney General's office and WLS-TV, and both parties "jumped right on it," she said.

Now that legal remedy is being sought, there are several alternatives that could come about, according to Peter Kilchenmann of the Consumer Fraud Division.

Depending on further findings and the arguments presented by the defendants, Mrs. Hominick's pool could be completed or her money refunded voluntarily by Andre and Turos, or the court could compel them to do either, or their assets could be seized for compensation, or Mrs. Hominick "could end up with nothing," Kilchenmann said.

The American Pool Co. does not have a telephone listing, and neither Andre nor Turos could be reached for comment.

Bridge To Hold Sidewalk Sale

The Bridge, Palatine Township's youth services bureau, will hold a sidewalk sale Sunday afternoon.

Furniture, clothing, records, books and other items will be available.

The sale is scheduled to begin at noon outside The Bridge, 434 1/2 E. Northwest Hwy., Palatine. Proceeds will go toward Bridge projects.

53 Extension Gets Varied Reaction

by JEAN CAFARELLA

The new extension planned for Rte. 53 north of Dundee Road is creating mixed emotions among residents of the Palatine and Long Grove areas. Rte. 53, when completed, will extend from Interstate 80 to Wisconsin, skirting just west of Buffalo Grove.

Several small roads between Dundee Road and Long Grove Road will be cut off by the new extension and will not have interchanges, which will cause some residents to travel farther to get onto Rte. 53. Dorothy Lane, Hicks Road and Nichols Road will be closed where they will intersect.

Some residents are happy about it, thinking it will make their area more private. "I'm glad," said Mrs. Janis Faddzak of Box 163A Hicks Road, Palatine. "Because 53 will block off this road and we won't have as much traffic from the people who use Hicks as a short cut. We'll just have local traffic on it. People go like crazy on this road, and we have small children to watch."

Ray Fassbender of Box 160, Rte. 1, Palatine, is not against the Rte. 53 extension, but "not for it, either." The possible increase in traffic in his neighborhood doesn't bother him, since "as it is, people race up and down Hicks like crazy."

There is the possible problem of the new road bringing more traffic, more industry, and more metropolitan problems. Though Fassbender doesn't think the traffic will eventually make the area more metropolitan, Mrs. Patricia Apostolakis does. She lives at Coach and Hicks Road, and said she would rather have Rte. 53 about five miles away.

"IT'LL CAUSE pollution and noise, and I'm not happy about it at all. There are some lovely homes around here, and if it's going to be a big highway some of them may have to be ripped up," she said.

Greg Armstrong, who resides on Rte. 1 at Pussy Willow Farm, Palatine, feels that closing off the smaller roads will be inconvenient. He will have to go to Dundee Road to get on the new extension.

"For those interested in the country, it'll cause problems," he predicted. "They're zoning for apartments at Hicks and Nichols roads, and they're trying to buy the farm across the street for apartments." He said there are quadrants going up in the vicinity already.

"I don't like expressways — at least not where I want to live. If I can't see it or hear it, okay, but if it brings industry in and the area is rezoned, I'm not going to like it if it starts to resemble Rolling Meadows or Elk Grove Village," said Armstrong.

RTE 53 PRESENTLY comes to an abrupt halt in the middle of a field north of Dundee Road. New state plans to carry the route west of Long

Bill Miller — 27 Years On Tour

by DOUG RAY

Bill Miller's weathered face, lined with wrinkles, tells the story of a man who has spent a lifetime battling the summer wind, rain and sun.

For 27 years, Miller has worked as a golf course greenskeeper, whose job it is to keep the grass green and manicured regardless of weather conditions.

He's a doctor of sorts, a fairway practitioner, and his diagnosis may mean the life or death of a golf course for a summer.

"You've got to watch them close," he said, pointing to a green outside the clubhouse at the Palatine Hills Golf Course, where he has been greenskeeper for five seasons.

"These greens were developed at the University of Pennsylvania," he said, "and they need special care that some others don't. They are late starters and have a deceptive grey color in the spring because it's cold in the Chicago area."

MILLER, 61, and a crew of seven are on the job before daylight preparing the course for subsequent golfers. They mow the grass every day, haul sand to fill sandtraps and clear debris from the grounds.

But it's the excessive rain that hampers the Palatine Golf Course more than the summer's torrid heat.

"We have a water system here and you have to watch and not water too much," he said. "The greens become rotten, and fungus sets in. You have both preventative maintenance and if that doesn't work then try to cure the problem."

His knowledge of the game of golf began early, when he was hardly large enough to carry a golf bag. In those days he was a caddy at the Glenview Country Club, two miles from his home.

"We would walk there every day," he recalls. "Then walk the course and home again. It was a way to earn some money back then."

During the summer of 1926 he took a job as golf course laborer and later became a professional, when he shared time between playing the game and cleaning the grounds.

"It took both the jobs to make a living," he said. "Being a professional wasn't a money making proposition. There used to be only about 20 guys who could make a living on the professional tour."

While a professional, Miller worked at a golf course in Iowa and later designed and built his own course near Carbondale, Ill.

HE STILL CARRIES the professional golfer's card, but it expired in 1957. And Miller hasn't lifted a golf club in several years.

"I stopped playing regularly when I went to work for Robert Bruce Harris" (a former wealthy golf course owner in the Chicago area). He told me not to play golf but to make the course right for other people."

Physicians Group Plans Hospital In Hoffman Estates

by NANCY COWGER
In the wake of announced plans for a hospital in Schaumburg, details have been released by a group of more than 20 physicians who developed plans during 1½ years for a hospital in Hoffman Estates.

Richard Regan, Hoffman Estates Plan Commission chairman, presented the village board with copies of a letter from Dr. Sanford L. Block to the North Suburban Association for Health Resources (NSAHR).

The association is cooperating with a consulting firm hired to study feasibility of constructing a hospital in the Hoffman Estates-Schaumburg area. The letter emphasized the group's willingness to await the results of the study before proceeding with plans.

The doctors' group has a commitment for financing up to $35 million to construct a hospital on a 35-acre parcel on Barrington and Bode roads, bordering Schaumburg and Hanover Park, said Block. It would serve Hoffman Estates, Schaumburg, Streamwood, Bartlett, Hanover Park, Barrington, Palatine, Bloomingdale and Wayne, he said.

BLOCK SAID HE worked with officials in both Schaumburg and Hoffman Estates to find a site with ideal roads and traffic patterns for accessibility to those communities. He noted particularly Regan, Michael Redmond and Robert Rew, all of Hoffman Estates, as helpful in initiating and coordinating the project.

Noting the feasibility study, Block said his group has "been waiting anxiously for the outcome." Block said the doctors "know the need (for a hospital) is there, and it will become infinitely greater by 1980."

Block also noted "opposition of other hospitals in the surrounding areas to our project," and the desire for another hospital location which he said fostered the study.

"Politically expedient methods of trying to establish a health care facility with no thought of its effects on the surrounding area will in no way benefit the community," said Block, adding the hope "selection will be judged upon the objective factors that make a hospital successfully functional, and not politically expedient."

Block said yesterday he had not referred to Schaumburg Mayor Robert O. Atcher's announced plans for a Schaumburg Road hospital in writing the letter, but to "anybody in general to go ahead for the benefit of any one group, to please any one political group."

BUT "IT IN A WAY now refers to Mayor Atcher also," said Block. He also criticized Presbyterian-St. Luke's Medical Center in Chicago for its plans to expand in three locations, saying, "If they spread themselves too thin it will not be in the best interests of the community."

Block's group includes Mike Seldess, financial coordinator, who obtained the commitment for $35 million, and Dr. Michael White, who would be medical coordinator and responsible for staffing. Also included are an architectural group, which Block declined to name, and two unofficial advisers from the American Hospital Association.

Since the state requires partial community funding, the hospital construction could not begin until local financing levels are determined, said Block.

With the local commitment met, construction could be completed in 1½ to two years, Block said.

The physicians already hold an option to the land, and are ready to renew it, said Block, but it has been waiting a year for the completion of the study.

"When the feasibility is ready, we would go along with the community on need and location and the group" to build the facility, he said.

The site is ideal in terms of accessibility and central location to surrounding hospitals, said Block, being about seven miles from each. In comparison, he said, the Schaumburg Road site is too close to Alexian Brothers Medical Center, it is in a residential area, it is on a boggy marsh and the immediately neighboring residents are opposed to it, said Block. His group has dealt with Mayor Atcher early in its planning, and even found him also dissatisfied with the Schaumburg Road site, Block claimed.

THE INITIAL HOSPITAL would have 150 beds, subject to need found in the study, but would expand to meet growing needs, said Block. It would provide all the basic units of any hospital, and perhaps others, without overlapping services offered by surrounding hospitals, he said.

"If we go ahead and get that hospital, we'll definitely get an educational group out there, a medical school," said Block. But since the initial hospital would be comparatively small, the educational offerings would be phased in gradually. The plan already has been discussed with a number of interested Chicago medical schools, he said.

Dr. Sheldon Waldstein, executive director of NSAHR, said the letter was the first indication he received of any specific plans by the doctor's group. He interpreted it as a commitment to wait for the completion of the feasibility study, he said.

William L. Morris, 926 Braeburn Rd., Inverness, has been selected associate general co-chairman of merchandising for the 1972 United Settlement Appeal.

Morris is national merchandising manager of hardware and electrical hardware for Montgomery Ward & Co., Chicago.

The appeal has a 1972 goal of $450,000 to support the work of 58 inner-city agencies, members of the Chicago Federation of Settlements and Neighborhood Centers. Over 1,000 volunteer business, professional and labor leaders will assist in the fundraising.

Morris was a major in the Army Air Corps during World War II and is a graduate of Michigan State University. He and his wife, Barbara, have two sons, Steve and Dick.

Teaching Loads Are Lightened

Physical education and driver education teachers in High School Dist. 211 will find themselves with lighter teaching loads next year as a result of action Tuesday night by the district's board of education.

The board adopted recommendations from a faculty-administration committee calling for a reduction, over a two-year period, of teaching loads for P.E. and driver education to five class assignment periods. Other teachers in the district now are generally assigned five class periods and homeroom.

In the past, P.E. and driver education teachers have had five classes and one period of supervision of study hall for a total of six assignments. Next year they will have 5½ assignments and the following year five assignments.

ALSO, THE BOARD adopted the committee's recommendation to create an administrative division to handle P.E., athletics and driver training at Schaumburg and Hoffman Estates high schools. The division head, who will be named later, will supervise the programs at both schools.

If the new system of supervision is successful, board Pres. Robert Creek said, it will be expanded to include the other three schools in the district.

Creek added that the committee's recommendation proved the board right in its stand in present negotiations with its teachers. "The board believes people should be able to sit down and solve their problems," he said.

Teachers have been pressing in negotiations for the addition of specific working conditions to the contract and for guarantees of teacher participation on policy making committees.

NEGOTIATIONS ARE presently bogged down, with no firm agreements on any matter in the 1972-73 teachers contract.

The board also approved a 1972-73 contract with Local 11 of the Service Employees Union, which represents the district's custodians. The new contract calls for an average wage increase of 5.5 per cent.

In other action, the board:

—Approved by a six to one vote a merit salary increase of $4,700 for "outstanding performance" to Supt. Richard Kolze. The increase will make his annual salary $34,700 on Sept. 1. Board member Alex Langsdorf voted against the raise, saying, "I don't disagree with the spirit of the raise, just with the exact amount."

—Approved student fees for the coming school year in the amount of $17 per student. The fees include an optional fee of $2 for gym towels and $2.50 for student newspaper subscription.

Commuter Fare To Go Up 5 Pct. Starting Aug. 1

Commuter fares for riders on the Chicago and North Western Ry. will be going up 5 1/2 per cent Aug. 1 in the wake of a decision yesterday by the Illinois Commerce Commission.

The railway company had requested a 7 per cent fare increase but the commission said that figure was "excessive and not in the public interest."

Chicago and North Western officials said the company's suburban operations had a net income decrease of 9.3 per cent from 1970 to 1971 while expenses increased. They said the loss stemmed from a drop in passengers and increased labor costs.

Company attorneys told the commission that the increased fare would allow the railway to buy new equipment, to meet rising labor costs and to provide a fair return for net operating costs.

The fare increase is expected to bring an additional $2.8 million to the railroad.

Rate schedules from the Northwest suburbs one-way to Chicago are: Palatine, $1.40 old, $1.50 new; Arlington Heights, $1.35 old, $1.40 new; Mount Prospect, $1.25 old, $1.30 new; and Des Plaines, $1.15 old and $1.20 new.

Monthly commuter rates are: Palatine, $37.05 old, $39.00 new; Arlington Heights, $34.40 old, $36.20 new; Mount Prospect, $33.05 old, $34.80 new; and Des Plaines, $30.10 old, $31.70 new.

Irregularities Delay Big Beery Development

A plan to build apartments and a shopping area near Harper College has been set back, possibly months, because of irregularities in the petition seeking annexation of the land to Rolling Meadows.

This recent development in the story of the controversial "Beery property," named for one of the principals in the proposed 49-acre development, Gene Beery of Palatine, means that the developers will have to re-petition the city for annexation and again go through several hearings before city commissions, if they intend to pursue their original course.

Mayor Roland Meyer said yesterday that Beery already has indicated that he will start the entire process all over. Meyer Tuesday night appointed a special zoning commission to hear the proposal based on a new petition seeking annexation and rezoning of the property.

Beery could not be reached yesterday for comment.

THE ORIGINAL petition on the property, which is located south of Euclid-Lake Avenue and between Harper College and Quentin Road in unincorporated Palatine Township, contained an incomplete legal description of the property in question, according to Meyer.

That automatically invalidates the petition and strikes down any subsequent action on the part of the city.

The Beery property already had been taken through a special city zoning commission, the plan commission and a public hearing before the city council. The council was supposed to rule on the annexation request Tuesday night, but could not because of the new developments.

Meyer said that the developers made another error, this one in their plans for the apartment complex.

He explained that their proposal sought a land-use density of 22-apartment units per acre of land, based on an obsolete city zoning ordinance.

That ordinance was amended in 1968 or 1969, according to Meyer, to limit density to 14 units per acre.

Meyer said the developers and their attorneys apparently neglected to read the amendment to the city zoning code in their copy of the zoning ordinances.

THE DENSITY irregularity actually was first caught last month at the public hearing before the city council by Ald. Thomas Waldron. Meyer said the faulty legal description, which excluded a portion of property that is also to be annexed, was discovered by the city attorney.

Beery and his partners had planned to build a 984-unit apartment development, called Aspen Apartments, on 44 acres of the land, and a small shopping complex on another five acres.

The apartments would have been in seven buildings, including two 13-story and five three-story buildings.

Part of Beery's property will be taken by the Metropolitan Sanitary District and U.S. Department of Conservation for a flood-control project on Salt Creek.

The development plans have met opposition from Palatine homeowners from the Hunting Ridge subdivision who have questioned its effects on local school districts, traffic and their water supply.

Anglers, explorers and wanderers spend a leisurely afternoon at the Deer Grove Forest Preserve.

Northwest Tollway May Open Friday

Construction along the Northwest Tollway may be completed in time for weekend traffic.

Work on the 11-mile project is proceeding ahead of schedule, according to Fran O'Connor, a spokesman for the Illinois State Toll Highway Authority.

Barring rain, which would delay the drawing of lane markers, the three east-bound lanes between Meacham Road and the Kennedy Expressway may be open for traffic Friday night, she said.

But until completion of the work, east-bound traffic will be limited to one lane. The three westbound lanes were opened last Wednesday night, nearly two weeks ahead of schedule.

Work also was completed last week on the Tri-State Tollway, which underwent 11 miles of resurfacing immediately south of the Northwest Tollway interchange.

SHOULDER WORK, lane markings and the removal of barricades are all that remain to be done on the eastbound Northwest Tollway, according to Mrs. O'Connor.

If the three lanes are not open Friday night, the said they probably would be opened sometime over the weekend or "definitely" by Tuesday, the deadline for completion of the project.

In 'Oedipus Rex'

A Palatine resident recently performed in "Oedipus Rex," the commencement play at Illinois College, Jacksonville.

Jeff Kriebel, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Kriebel, 240 Pleasant Hill Blvd., played the role of a shepherd. He is a graduate of Fremd High School.

LWV Asks City Council To Back Township Plan

Rolling Meadows Mayor Roland Meyer has reported receiving a letter from the Palatine Township League of Women Voters (LWV) asking the city council to endorse the League's proposed referendum on the question of maintaining township governing bodies.

Meyer said no action has been taken by the council as yet, but he has asked the aldermen to consider taking a position on the referendum.

He expects some city council action, possibly next month.

According to Meyer, the city council should take a position on the issue of the possible dissolution of township government. He said he feels people in the city will be looking for guidance from the elected officials if the referendum appears on the November general election ballot as the LWV hopes.

"This is an important issue," he said, "and people have already been calling me asking what I think of it."

If the LWV can get a spot on the November ballot, they will ask voters in the township to indicate whether they feel township government should be retained.

The LWV is circulating 80 petitions throughout the township, trying to get 1,710 signatures necessary to get the township board of auditors to put the referendum on the November ballot.

They reportedly do not have all the signatures they need. The league is expected to report Aug. 3 on the success of their signature-gathering campaign.

Total cost of both projects was $5.6 million.

Additional work may be scheduled for next summer, according to Mrs. O'Connor. Formal approval is expected for the addition of a third lane between Harlem Avenue and U.S. Rte. 66-Interstate 55 on the Tri-State Tollway.

Consideration also is being given to expanding the Northwest Tollway from four to six lanes west of Meacham Road, and the Tri-State Tollway from four to six lanes north of Rte. 137.

The World

A British court ordered the immediate release of five imprisoned longshoremen, apparently averting a proposed one-day national strike called for Monday by the 10-million member British Trade Union Congress.

A day of mourning was called by Protestant groups for victims of the Irish Republican Army's "Bloody Friday." It came as military sources said a British army assault on IRA strongholds in Londonderry may be imminent.

U.S. grand master Bobby Fischer, who was convinced he would win the seventh game of the world championship chess match, had to settle for a draw against titleholder Boris Spassky of the Soviet Union. After the game, the unpredictable Fischer surprised Icelandic organizers of the $250,000, 24-game match by promising to reconsider his demand to bar television cameras from the Icelandic Chess Hall and summoned the producer for the American Broadcasting Co. ABC which owns the rights to film the games.

The Nation

Democratic Party reaction to Sen. Thomas Eagleton, after his disclosure of his past psychiatric treatment, was generally favorable. Chicago Mayor Richard Daley called Eagleton "honest and straightforward" and "a great American."

President Nixon, hoping to turn election-year spending increases into a political liability for the Democratic Congress, vowed to veto any bills that threaten his budget. He said he was determined to avoid higher taxes and increased inflation.

Gov. George Wallace said he would not attend the American Independent Party's convention in Louisville, Ky., next week, but withheld comment on whether he would accept the party's nomination for President.

The State

Two more Chicago policemen were indicted by a special federal grand jury investigating extortion by policemen. Thirteen policemen now have been charged with shakedowns of businessmen.

Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie and Sen. Charles H. Percy said they are urging the federal government to return 170 acres of Fort Sheridan along Lake Michigan to public use.

The War

State Sen. Bernard Neistein's attorneys filed a motion admitting he was not duly elected committeeman from Chicago's 29th Ward. The suit challenging his election was dropped.

53 Extension Gets Varied Reaction

by JEAN CAFARELLA

The new extension planned for Rte. 53 north of Dundee Road is creating mixed emotions among residents of the Palatine and Long Grove areas. Rte. 53, when completed, will extend from Interstate 80 to Wisconsin, skirting just west of Buffalo Grove.

Several small roads between Dundee Road and Long Grove Road will be cut off by the new extension and will not have interchanges, which will cause some residents to travel farther to get onto Rte. 53. Dorothy Lane, Hicks Road and Nichols Road will be closed where they will intersect.

Some residents are happy about it, thinking it will make their area more private. "I'm glad," said Mrs. Janis Fadzak of Box 163A Hicks Road, Palatine. "Because 53 will block off this road and we won't have as much traffic from the people who use Hicks as a short cut. We'll just have local traffic on it. People go like crazy on this road, and we have small children to watch."

Ray Fassbender of Box 160, Rte. 1, Palatine, is not against the Rte. 53 extension, but "not for it, either." The possible increase in traffic in his neighborhood doesn't bother him, since "as it is, people race up and down Hicks like crazy."

There is the possible problem of the new road bringing more traffic, more industry, and more metropolitan problems. Though Fassbender doesn't think the traffic will eventually make the area more metropolitan, Mrs. Patricia Apostolakis does. She lives at Coach and Hicks Road, and said she would rather have Rte. 53 about five miles away.

"IT'LL CAUSE pollution and noise, and I'm not happy about it at all. There are some lovely homes around here, and if it's going to be a big highway some of them may have to be ripped up," she said.

Greg Armstrong, who resides on Rte. 1 at Pussy Willow Farm, Palatine, feels that closing off the smaller roads will be inconvenient. He will have to go to Dundee Road to get on the new extension.

"For those interested in the country, it'll cause problems," he predicted. "They're zoning for apartments at Hicks and Nichols roads, and they're trying to buy the farm across the street for apartments." He said there are quadrumiums going up in the vicinity already.

"I don't like expressways — at least not where I want to live. If I can't see it or hear it, okay, but if it brings industry in and the area is rezoned, I'm not going to like it if it starts to resemble Rolling Meadows or Elk Grove Village," said Armstrong.

Softball Game To Begin Teen Week

Teen Week in Rolling Meadows will begin Aug. 13 with a softball game between the city fathers and teen officials at Kimball Hill Park.

A picnic from 12 to 2 p.m. will precede the game which is scheduled to start at 2 p.m. The public is invited to the picnic and game.

An engraved plaque goes to the winner of the softball game, an annual event the teens have yet to win.

The Miss Rolling Meadows contest will be held the following day at Trinity Lutheran Church at 7 p.m. The relatives of the girls who are competing are the only persons eligible to attend. Four contestants have registered to date. Persons interested in competing should contact Mrs. Jack Reif at 259-2978.

MISS ROLLING Meadows will be crowned by Diane Henaughan, this year's Miss Rolling Meadows, on Tuesday, Aug. 15 at a bonfire in the council ring of Kimball Hill Park. The two runnersup also will be announced at this time.

"The Crucibles" will play at the bonfire and there also will be an opportunity for teens running for office to campaign.

On Wednesday, Aug. 16, the teens will have their annual Youth Week Parade. Participating in the parade will be several youth organizations, the park district spinners and candidates for teen government.

Balloting for teen officials will take place the following night from 8 to 10 p.m. at the Rolling Meadows Sports Complex. Eight teen officers will be elected. These include a mayor, city manager, city clerk, deputy city clerk, treasurer, police chief, fire chief, and park district president.

A splash party will follow the balloting on Aug. 17 from 9 to 11 p.m. at the Rolling Meadows Park District pool. No admission will be charged. For teens not interested in swimming, the gym will be opened for volleyball and basketball.

On Friday, Aug. 18 the inaugural dance will be held in the south parking lot of the sports complex from 8 to 11 p.m. Liquid Sun will play for the dance and Mayor Roland Meyer will announce the election winners. The ice arena will be opened up to teens following the dance from 11:15 p.m. to 12:30 a.m. The only fee will be to those teens who need to rent skates.

Teen Week will end with a hayride Saturday from 8 to 9 p.m. followed by a bonfire and party. A bus will leave the sports complex at 7 p.m. to take teens to the B Bar J Ranch in Lake Zurich for the hayride. The cost for the hayride is $2.75 per person.

ICC Grants North Western 5 1/4% Increase

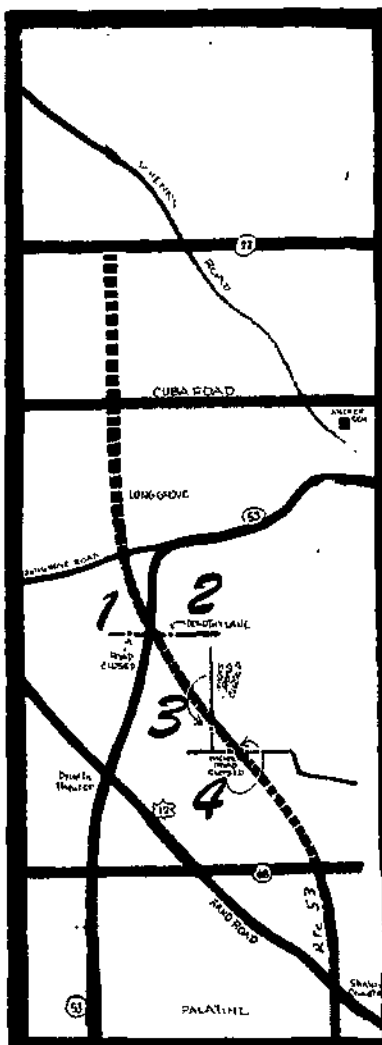

The Illinois Commerce Commission yesterday granted the Chicago and North Western Ry. Co. a 5 1/4 per cent hike in commuter fares.

The company had asked for a 7 per cent increase, but the commission said that figure was "excessive and not in the public interest."

The company said its suburban operations net income decreased 9.3 per cent from 1970 to 1971 while expenses increased. They said the loss stemmed from a decrease in passengers and increased labor costs.

Company attorneys said the increase would allow the railway to buy new equipment, to meet increasing labor costs and to provide a fair return for net operating costs.

The increase, providing an additional $2.9 million in suburban income, will go into effect Aug. 1.

MAP SHOWS OFFICIAL path for the extension of Rte. 53 as approved by the state highway department. There will be a diamond interchange at Rte. 22 and overpasses at Cuba Road, Long Grove Road and old Rte. 53. Roads that will be closed off are (1 and 2) Dorothy Lane, (3) Hicks Road and (4) Nichols Road.

RTE 53 PRESENTLY comes to an abrupt halt in the middle of a field north of Dundee Road. New state plans to carry the route west of Long Grove up to Rte. 22 have been approved but construction contracts haven't been awarded.

Hoffman High School Job 3 Weeks Behind Schedule

Construction on Hoffman Estates High School, Dist. 211's fifth school, is running three to five weeks behind schedule, but the school's architect says the delay is not yet causing major concern.

Wayne Fritch, a representative of Ke-Unted and Associates, the building's architect, told the school board Tuesday the work fell behind schedule because of strikes by several trades unions.

"Our project was not actually shut down, but the contractor didn't have any of the striking trades on the site and they could only go so far without them," Fritch said.

He said that in the last six weeks almost no concrete has been poured for the building, now under construction at Higgins and Glen Lake roads in Hoffman Estates.

However, he said work has now resumed and added that he hopes the contractors will be able to catch up by late August.

In addition, Fritch told the board, the architects have decided to increase the size of the retention basin planned for the north end of the school site because of the recent heavy rains.

"WE HAVE HAD real run off problems into the houses north and east of the site," Fritch said. "We are the high ground and now that the site is bare, there is nothing to slow the water down."

The board approved an additional payment of $11,118 to increase the size of the retention basin.

Also, the board agreed to petition the Hoffman Estates Village Board to annex a small, triangular piece of the 42-acre school site that is not now in the village.

Fritch said that Metropolitan Sanitary District attorneys discovered that part of the site had not been annexed while investigating the application for sewer permits for the school.

Aerobatic Pilots At Air Show Aug. 20

The International Aerobatic Pilots Association will be featured in a public air show Aug. 20 at the Campbell Airport near Round Lake. Proceeds from the event will be for the Countryside Center for the Handicapped.

The air show from 10:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. as well as an exhibition of antique aircraft is being provided by the pilots to assist the school, located north of Palatine, in adding facilities for the severely handicapped children and adults enrolled there.

Admission is $2 for adults and $1 for children but advanced tickets are available at a reduced rate by calling 438-8835.

Teachers' Wage Dispute Is Now Under Study

The High School Dist. 214 board of education and teachers association each told its side of the story Monday in a meeting held before a fact-finding board called in to help resolve their dispute on the 1972-73 teachers salary contract.

The board bargaining team and the Dist. 214 Education Association met most of the day with the fact-finding board, made up of one representative from each side and a professional arbitrator selected through the American Arbitration Association.

Following the session, the arbitrator told both sides he will prepare a report on the dispute to be submitted for their consideration, according to a district spokesman. However, the arbitrator said he would not be able to have the report within the next 21 days, as required by the district's bargaining procedures.

Under the negotiating rules agreed to by the board and association, if agreement is not reached on the contract after the arbitrator submits his report, the report will be made public.

THE TWO sides agreed to call in the fact-finding team in May, after teachers voted down a proposal submitted by a mediator.

The mediator's proposal called for a $300 reduction in pay for teachers with teachers now in the district of $100 plus the four per cent increment called for in the present contract for an additional year of experience.

Negotiations between the association and board began in January. Dist. 214 schools are scheduled to open after Labor Day this year and last year's teachers' contract may be extended if no agreement is reached by that time.

Construction On NW Tollway May End Friday

Construction along the Northwest Tollway may be completed in time for weekend traffic.

Work on the 11-mile project is proceeding ahead of schedule, according to Fran O'Connor, a spokesman for the Illinois State Toll Highway Authority.

Barring rain, which would delay the drawing of lane markers, the three eastbound lanes between Meacham Road and the Kennedy Expressway may be open for traffic Friday night, she said.

But until completion of the work, eastbound traffic will be limited to one lane.

The three westbound lanes were opened last Wednesday night, nearly two weeks ahead of schedule.

Work also was completed last week on the Tri-State Tollway, which underwent 11 miles of resurfacing immediately south of the Northwest Tollway interchange.

SHOULDER WORK, lane markings and the removal of barricades are all that remain to be done on the eastbound Northwest Tollway, according to Mrs. O'Connor.

If the three lanes are not open Friday night, she said they probably would be opened sometime over the weekend or "definitely" by Tuesday, the deadline for completion of the project.

Total cost of both projects was $5.6 million.

Additional work may be scheduled for next summer, according to Mrs. O'Connor. Formal approval is expected for the addition of a third lane between Harlem Avenue and U.S. Rte. 66-Interstate 55 on the Tri-State Tollway.

Consideration also is being given to expanding the Northwest Tollway from four to six lanes west of Meacham Road, and the Tri-State Tollway from four to six lanes north of Rte. 137.

Teichert Writes Letters To Senators

Mount Prospect Mayor Robert D. Teichert has written letters to Senators Adlai E. Stevenson and Charles H. Percy, asking their support for the general revenue sharing bill now before the Congress.

The bill has passed the House of Representatives and now awaits Senate action. Under the bill, Mount Prospect would receive $529,655 this year.

A resolution passed by the village instructed Teichert to write the letters, which were mailed Friday.

THE FIRST-PLACE tie in the Monday night division of the Mount Prospect Men's Softball League came to an end this week when Jake's Pizza beat the House of Lords, 8-5. Twenty-four teams are competing in league action this summer. The final double elimination tournament begins Aug. 24.

Commuter Fare Hike Approved

Commuter fares for riders on the Chicago and North Western Ry. will be going up 5 1/4 per cent Aug. 1 in the wake of a decision yesterday by the Illinois Commerce Commission.

The railway company had requested a 7 per cent fare increase but the commission said that figure was "excessive and not in the public interest."

Chicago and North Western officials said the company's suburban operations had a net income decrease of 9.3 per cent from 1970 to 1971 while expenses increased. They said the loss stemmed from a drop in passengers and increased labor costs.

Company attorneys told the commission that the increased fare would allow the railway to buy new equipment, to meet rising labor costs and to provide a fair return for net operating costs.

The fare increase is expected to bring an additional $2.8 million to the railroad. Rate schedules from the Northwest suburbs one-way to Chicago are: Palatine, $1.40 old, $1.50 new; Arlington Heights, $1.35 old, $1.40 new; Mount Prospect, $1.25 old, $1.30 new; and Des Plaines, $1.15 old and $1.20 new.

Monthly commuter rates are: Palatine, $37.05 old, $39.00 new; Arlington Heights, $34.40 old, $36.20 new; Mount Prospect, $33.05 old, $34.80 new; and Des Plaines, $30.10 old, $31.70 new.

Moose Looking For Lodge

The Mount Prospect Moose Club is looking for a new home.

A request for a variation to allow a Moose Club Lodge in the Tech-Syn Corp. building, 225 E. Prospect Ave., will be heard tonight at the Mount Prospect Board of Appeals meeting.

Currently, the Moose Club, No. 660, leases space at the VFW Hall, 601 N. Main St., each first and third Wednesday of the month.

The Tech-Syn property is zoned industrial, thus requesting the variation for lodge use. Fred G. Bumann, Tech-Syn controller, said his firm has about 3,000 square feet of unoccupied space in the rear of its building.

Edward A. Wood, vice president of F.J.W. Industries at 215 E. Prospect Ave., has informed the Moose people that they may use the parking facilities behind F.J.W. for parking, should the variation for the lodge be granted.

Two other cases are before the appeals board tonight. In the first, Robert Novak, 700 S. Can-Dota Ave., is seeking a variation for a two-bedroom addition. In the second, Enno Toomsalu, 1370 Aztec Ln., wants a variation for a five-foot wood fence.

The meeting is at 8 p.m. in the Municipal Building, 112 E. Northwest Hwy.

Library Welcomes 30,000th Borrower

Mrs. Edward Labuz, 1215 Glenna Ln., became the 30,000th book borrower at the Mount Prospect Public Library since its opening as a tax supported facility in 1943.

According to Mary Hutchings, librarian, the recently annexed northeast portion of the town added 1,689 new borrowers. The annexation was instrumental in reaching the 30,000 borrower mark.

She expressed pleasure that 30,000 people in a town of 45,000 people have borrowed books.

The largest number of borrowers came between 1960 and 1970 as an estimated 10,000 people used the library in that time period. The library has some 60,000 volumes.

The Consumer —A New Weekly Column Starts Today

Legislation that would require builders of large housing developments to donate land or money to school districts is being urged by the River Trails Dist. 26 school board.

The board plans to contact Mount Prospect, Cook County and state officials to ask them to consider legislation that would require a donation. Both village and county officials are being contacted since parts of the district are unincorporated, according to Board Pres. Lloyd Demel.

"We're not attempting to coerce developers but want to make sure they pay their fair share in educating the children they bring in," said Demel.

Asked whether a $20 million condominium development proposed for a site within the district prompted the board's action, Demel said, "It's what got us talking about it." The development, which would be located on what is now part of the Rob Roy Driving Range in Prospect Heights and would be developed by Kenroy Inc., would include 544 units with one, two and three bedrooms.

DIST 26 Supt. Thomas Warden said he felt it would be difficult to get such legislation. "I think history is against us on that one," he said, referring to an Illinois Supreme Court decision in 1962.

The court then decided in favor of builder Salvatore DiMucci, ruling that he was not obligated by a Mount Prospect ordinance to donate land to Elk Grove Township School Dist. 59. The court ruled that builders did not have to give land to a school district without just compensation.

"Besides, all evidence has said that developments produce more revenue per child than it costs the district to educate them," Warden said. "School districts and other taxing bodies usually tend to profit."

Demel pointed out, however, that a district does not receive tax funds from the development until at least one year after the development has been opened to residents. He said developers should help pay for the one year of expenses.

MOUNT PROSPECT Mayor Robert Teichert said he is doubtful that such legislation would stand testing in court. He said, however, that there are other means to induce builders to donate land, including preannexation agreements. The Kenroy property is currently under consideration for annexation to Mount Prospect.

Village Atty. John Zimmermann said he had no opinion on the issue. However, he pointed out that some municipalities have passed such an ordinance, based on the home-rule provision of the new Illinois Constitution.

Naperville officials a year ago passed such an ordinance, which has not yet been challenged in the courts, according to Marvin Glink, Naperville city attorney. Glink said the ordinance, passed before the home-rule provision went into effect, requires a developer to contribute land or money for school and park sites.

The amount of land or money for schools is based on the number of the children who lived in the development and are educated in the district. The amount for parks, he said, is based on the number of residents in the development since they automatically become park district residents.

Glink said he believes the Naperville ordinance would hold up in court. "It's got standards built into it that the Mount Prospect ordinance didn't have," he said. "We're just asking developers to pay their fair share."

Set Willow Road Paving Through Hillcrest Slough

The stretch of Willow Road through the Hillcrest slough in Prospect Heights will be paved in about two weeks, according to Tom McHugh, a Cook County Highway Department official.

The paving is part of a larger project involving similar work on some 24 miles of road in various parts of the county. Included will be widening and paving of the one-half mile section of Willow Road between Elmhurst and Wheeling roads near where the slough is located.

The road is to be widened to a 26-foot base and paving will provide for two 12 foot wide lanes.

"The entire project," McHugh said, "is to improve the roads involved to meet county standards."

HOWEVER, Bob Braude a member of the "Save the Slough Committee," a group of citizens organized to preserve the Hillcrest wetland areas said the project could deal a serious blow to the organization's efforts.

Removal of the road across the slough has been proposed by the group as a possible solution to saving the environmentally troubled area.

Without the road, members contend, a natural flow between the polluted north half and the relatively clean south half would be restored and the area would cleanse itself within a few years.

"It looks as though the road has been paved for good and it doesn't seem like it will ever be taken out," Braude said.

He added that the committee has also been pushing for replacement of the conduit pipe under the road through which water flows from the north to south half.

"NOT NEARLY enough water flows through the pipe for any cleansing action to take place and we wanted it replaced," he continued. "But once the road is paved, the conduit will be extremely hard to take out."

Braude said he and fellow committee member Dolores Haugh had been in touch with county highway officials who told them the road would be paved only in spots temporarily to fill the holes in it.

"They didn't tell us that it was going to be paved two lanes wide though," he said, adding the group will probably meet soon to discuss the project's effects on their group's efforts.

This Morning In Brief

The World

A British court ordered the immediate release of five imprisoned longshoremen, apparently averting a proposed one-day national strike called for Monday by the 10-million member British Trade Union Congress.

A day of mourning was called by Protestant groups for victims of the Irish Republican Army's "Bloody Friday." It came as military sources said a British army assault on IRA strongholds in Londonderry may be imminent.

U.S. grand master Bobby Fischer, who was convinced he would win the seventh game of the world championship chess match, had to settle for a draw against titleholder Boris Spassky of the Soviet Union. After the game, the unpredictable Fischer surprised Icelandic organizers of the $250,000, 24-game match by promising to reconsider his demand to bar television cameras from the Icelandic Chess Hall and summoned the producer for the American Broadcasting Co. ABC which owns the rights to film the games.

The Nation

Democratic Party reaction to Sen. Thomas Eagleton, after his disclosure of his past psychiatric treatment, was generally favorable. Chicago Mayor Richard Daley called Eagleton "honest and straightforward" and "a great American."

President Nixon, hoping to turn election-year spending increases into a political liability for the Democratic Congress, vowed to veto any bills that threaten his budget. He said he was determined to avoid higher taxes and increased inflation.

Gov. George Wallace said he would not attend the American Independent Party's convention in Louisville, Ky., next week, but withheld comment on whether he would accept the party's nomination for President.

The State

Two more Chicago policemen were indicted by a special federal grand jury investigating extortion by policemen. Thirteen policemen now have been charged with shakedowns of businessmen.

Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie and Sen. Charles H. Percy said they are urging the federal government to return 170 acres of Fort Sheridan along Lake Michigan to public use.

State Sen. Bernard Neistein's attorneys filed a motion admitting he was not duly elected committeeman from Chicago's 29th Ward. The suit challenging his election was dropped.

The War

The Weather

The Market

Stock prices stumbled lower on profit taking and lack of interest in dull trading on the New York Stock Exchange Wednesday as traders rested on recent large gains. The Dow Jones average lost 1.88 to 932.57. It had gained more than 30 points recently. Declines outnumbered advances, 804 to 626, among the 1,744 issues crossing the tape. Turnover dwindled to 14,130,000 shares from the 17,180,000 traded Tuesday. Prices were lower in moderate trading on the American Stock Exchange. Turnover totaled 3,380,000 shares, compared with 3,630,000 traded Tuesday.

From The Library

by LAURIE ROSSI

Probably all junior high and high school students are aware of the young adult section at the Mount Prospect library, across from the firehouse. These books are geared especially to the interest and reading level of the young adult. Many of these books would make excellent summer reading, especially for students wanting something new to take up over the summer.

"How to Form a Rock Group" is a book for musicians between 8 and 18. It tells the detailed story of how the success formula in this book helped an unknown rock group, the Forum Quorum, achieve stardom. This illustrated book discusses instruments, rehearsals, showmanship and how to get and hold jobs. Initial expenses are also discussed. The author estimates them to be between $5-7,000. An interesting section is "18 Who Beat the Odds," where 18 successful rock groups are analyzed and a capsule summary of each is given. Among these are the Beatles, Spooky and our Gang, Jefferson Airplane, Rolling Stones, and the Cowbells.

Antique collecting is an unusual hobby for a high school student or junior high school student, but a great one to start early. Family vacations particularly can afford opportunities for buying unusual things in out of the way places. "Old Things for Young People" covers the subject of antiques with the young collector in mind. The history of antiques, how to read marks, and a complete glossary of terms and bibliography are included. A beginning collector of pewter can find out about touchmarks, for example, and how marked pieces can help identify many unmarked pieces.

More than 120 photographs and line drawings illustrate the book "Baton Twirling," an introduction for those new at the pastime. The author, a baton teacher himself for 15 years, talks about baton twirling, organizing a twirling group, exercises for getting in shape, what to wear, basic twirls, the strut, leg work, group work, special effects like fire batons, Samoan swords, fire knives, competitions, conventions, showmanship, sportsmanship, and anything else the beginner needs or wants to know. Suggestions to teachers, organizers and leaders are also included.

Finally, and most interesting I think, is summer travel. "The Seventeen Guide to Travel" covers the subject of travel from visiting a boyfriend to international camping, with visiting colleges, taking class trips, family vacations, and other independent traveling.

Police Sergeants Going Back To School In Fall

Two Mount Prospect police sergeants will be going back to school this fall.

Sgt. Joseph I. Bopp has been accepted at the Northwestern University Traffic Police Administration Training Program and Sgt. Gerald A. Glasecock has been accepted at Southern Police Institute at the University of Louisville.

Bopp will be enrolled in a nine-month program which will stress management aspects of police work, such as budgeting, allocating manpower, analyzing data and making administrative decisions. Classes will run from Sept. 14 to June 16.

Glasecock will start his training Aug. 28. It will end Nov. 17 after he has had instruction in administration, personnel management, constitutional law, and social and behavioral sciences.

The total tuition costs for the two programs will be $3,450, some of which will be reimbursed through Illinois Law Enforcement Commission grants. Both men will receive their full salaries while in training.

Police Chief Bert Giddens said that both men took examinations and passed oral interviews before being selected. He added that the training of the two men is just part of his first-year emphasis on stepped-up training for his force. Giddens became chief last January.

Attitude Survey Set By ZPG

Members of the local Zero Population Growth (ZPG) group have put together a 10-question survey to be conducted in the Northwest suburbs.

The survey is designed to measure attitudes and information about population growth.

ZPG members will go door-to-door during the last two weeks of August to carry out the survey. They plan to visit 200 homes each in Arlington Heights, Mount Prospect and Elk Grove Village.

ZPG has already received permission from these communities to go door-to-door.

Results of the survey will be presented at the group's public program to be held Nov. 2 at Harper College in Palatine.

ICC Grants North Western 5 1/4% Increase

The Illinois Commerce Commission yesterday granted the Chicago and North Western Ry. Co. a 5 1/4 per cent hike in commuter fares.

The company had asked for a 7 per cent increase, but the commission said that figure was "excessive and not in the public interest."

The company said its suburban operations net income decreased 9.3 per cent from 1970 to 1971 while expenses increased. They said the loss stemmed from a decrease in passengers and increased labor costs.

Company attorneys said the increase would allow the railway to buy new equipment, to meet increasing labor costs and to provide a fair return for net operating costs.

The increase, providing an additional $2.9 million in suburban income, will go into effect Aug. 1.

River Trails Swimmers Win

The River Trails Park District swim team topped a team from the Elk Grove Park District in competition last weekend by a score of 307-202.

The team is now practicing for a meet against an Oak Park team next Wednesday. "We're trying to shake off the first couple of losses as inexperience and work hard so we can peak at the conference meet to be held Aug. 1 at Arlington," said coach John Beaton.

In competition July 5, the River Trails team lost to Butterfield Park District 338-217. The River Trails team suffered another loss June 28 when an Arlington Heights team beat them 165 to 155. The outcome of the meet was undecided until the final event when Arlington's 15-and-over boys relay team overtook River Trails.

Teachers' Wage Dispute Is Now Under Study

The High School Dist. 214 board of education and teachers association each told its side of the story Monday in a meeting held before a fact-finding board called in to help resolve their dispute on the 1972-73 teachers salary contract.

The board bargaining team and the Dist. 214 Education Association met most of the day with the fact-finding board, made up of one representative from each side and a professional arbitrator selected through the American Arbitration Association.

Following the session, the arbitrator told both sides he will prepare a report on the dispute to be submitted for their consideration, according to a district spokesman. However, the arbitrator said he would not be able to have the report within the next 21 days, as required by the district's bargaining procedures.

Under the negotiating rules agreed to by the board and association, if agreement is not reached on the contract after the arbitrator submits his report, the report will be made public.

THE TWO sides agreed to call in the fact-finding team in May, after teachers voted down a proposal submitted by a mediator.

The mediator's proposal called for a $300 reduction in pay for teachers with teachers now in the district of $100 plus the four per cent increment called for in the present contract for an additional year of experience.

A New Color Code

Village work crews last summer repainted most fire hydrants with a special color code indicating the amount of water available from each hydrant.

However, early Sunday morning someone decided their own color code was better and they repainted the hydrant in front of 611 S. Louis St. purple with white stripes.

Commuter Fare To Go Up 5 Pct. Starting Aug. 1

Commuter fares for riders on the Chicago and North Western Ry. will be going up 5 1/2 per cent Aug. 1 in the wake of a decision yesterday by the Illinois Commerce Commission.

The railway company had requested a 7 per cent fare increase but the commission said that figure was "excessive and not in the public interest."

Chicago and North Western officials said the company's suburban operations had a net income decrease of 9.3 per cent from 1970 to 1971 while expenses increased. They said the loss stemmed from a drop in passengers and increased labor costs.

Company attorneys told the commission that the increased fare would allow the railway to buy new equipment, to meet rising labor costs and to provide a fair return for net operating costs.

The fare increase is expected to bring an additional $2.8 million to the railroad.

Rate schedules from the Northwest suburbs one-way to Chicago are: Palatine, $1.40 old, $1.50 new; Arlington Heights, $1.35 old, $1.40 new; Mount Prospect, $1.25 old, $1.30 new; and Des Plaines, $1.15 old and $1.20 new.

School District Reorganizes Administration

The 1972-73 school year will include a parade of changing faces at the administrative level in Arlington Heights School Dist. 25.

The major change in administrative reorganization is reinstatement of the position of director of administration and planning. The position was left vacant because of budget cuts last year after the former director resigned.

To offset the added position, another as yet unnamed position in the administration probably will be phased out, according to school officials.

"The net effect of the changes will not mean an increase in the number of administrators," said Donald V. Strong, superintendent of the district.

TAKING OVER THE duties of director of administration and planning will be Donald S. Monroe, currently director of personnel. Monroe started in the district in 1969. Prior to 1969, he was a consultant in the education placement office at the University of Illinois. He also has taught English classes in Wheaton and Chicago.

The new director of personnel will be James E. Riebeck, presently principal of the Rand-Berkley campus. Riebeck joined the district three years ago, after working in Bensenville as the director of curriculum and instruction at Fenton High School. He has also taught math in Deerfield and Zion.

Earnest DeLaBruere, currently principal of Windsor School, will be the new principal of the Rand-Berkley Campus. DeLaBruere has been with Dist. 25 for 12 years. Besides his current position, he has served as a mathematics teacher and learning specialist at Thomas Junior crews have the street torn up between Euclid Avenue and Oakton Street to replace broken sewer pipes. Work on the street was held up for several weeks during the strike by cement finishers. The complete project will cost an estimated $250,000.

Construction Ahead Of Schedule

Northwest Tollway May Open Friday

Construction along the Northwest Tollway may be completed in time for weekend traffic.

Work on the 11-mile project is proceeding ahead of schedule, according to Fran O'Connor, a spokesman for the Illinois State Toll Highway Authority.

Barring rain, which would delay the drawing of lane markers, the three east-bound lanes between Meacham Road and the Kennedy Expressway may be open for traffic Friday night, she said.

But until completion of the work, east-bound traffic will be limited to one lane. The three westbound lanes were opened last Wednesday night, nearly two weeks ahead of schedule.

Work also was completed last week on the Tri-State Tollway, which underwent 11 miles of resurfacing immediately south of the Northwest Tollway interchange.

SHOULDER WORK, lane markings and the removal of barricades are all that remain to be done on the eastbound

Northwest Tollway, according to Mrs. O'Connor.

If the three lanes are not open Friday night, the said they probably would be opened sometime over the weekend or "definitely" by Tuesday, the deadline for completion of the project.

Total cost of both projects was $5.6 million.

Additional work may be scheduled for next summer, according to Mrs. O'Connor. Formal approval is expected for the addition of a third lane between Harlem Avenue and U.S. Rte. 66-Interstate 55 on the Tri-State Tollway.

Consideration also is being given to expanding the Northwest Tollway from four to six lanes west of Meacham Road, and the Tri-State Tollway from four to six lanes north of Rte. 137.

Recreation Park Swim Team Champ

Recreation Park swim team is the village champ for the second year in a row.

After completing the Arlington Heights Park District annual swim meet Monday, Recreation Park emerged with 1,441 points. Other finishers were Heritage Park with 956 points, Camelot Park with 690 points, Pioneer Park with 674 points and Frontier Park with 610 points.

Cheryl Takata of Frontier Park was the only double winner of the day, winning blue ribbons in the backstroke and breaststroke.

Backstroke winners were Chris Prinslow and Sue Dragoon of Recreation Park, and Charlie Dunn of Frontier Park.

Breaststroke winners were Joni Jacobsen, Garin Kroll and Barb Volden of Recreation Park; Mike Polacek, Nora Polacek and Jeff Young of Pioneer Park; Anne Rusche and Mark Rusche of Camelot Park and Tim Pleune of Frontier Park.

A NOVICE championship meet will be held Monday at Pioneer Park. All swimmers who are not members of the Arlington teams in the Northern Illinois Swimming Conference are eligible to compete.

"The meet is aimed toward youngsters who have not formerly won places in swim meets," said Don Andersen, meet director.

The meet will feature freestyle and butterfly events in age groups from eight and under to 14 years old.

Area Man In Bridge Tourney In Denver

An Arlington Heights man was half of a winning pair of bridge players who recently topped their section and finished second over-all in a national bridge tournament.

The 44th summer national tournament of the American Contract Bridge League was held recently in Denver, Colo., drawing more than 4,000 bridge aficionados from across the country.

Daniel Hyland, 607 Burning Tree Ln., in Arlington Heights teamed up with Steve Ching of Chicago to take top honors in the "Boulder Pairs," a one-day session.

The two men finished second over-all in the 10-day tournament.

The American Contract Bridge League has some 180,000 members and conducts bridge tournaments across North America. The summer national tournament is the largest of three national bridge championships sponsored by the league.

The World

A British court ordered the immediate release of five imprisoned longshoremen, apparently averting a proposed one-day national strike called for Monday by the 10-million member British Trade Union Congress.

A day of mourning was called by Protestant groups for victims of the Irish Republican Army's "Bloody Friday." It came as military sources said a British army assault on IRA strongholds in Londonderry may be imminent.

U.S. grand master Bobby Fischer, who was convinced he would win the seventh game of the world championship chess match, had to settle for a draw against titleholder Boris Spassky of the Soviet Union. After the game, the unpredictable Fischer surprised Icelandic organizers of the $250,000, 24-game match by promising to reconsider his demand to bar television cameras from the Icelandic Chess Hall and summoned the producer for the American Broadcasting Co. ABC which owns the rights to film the games.

The Nation

Democratic Party reaction to Sen. Thomas Eagleton, after his disclosure of his past psychiatric treatment, was generally favorable. Chicago Mayor Richard Daley called Eagleton "honest and straightforward" and "a great American."

President Nixon, hoping to turn election-year spending increases into a political liability for the Democratic Congress, vowed to veto any bills that threaten his budget. He said he was determined to avoid higher taxes and increased inflation.

Gov. George Wallace said he would not attend the American Independent Party's convention in Louisville, Ky., next week, but withheld comment on whether he would accept the party's nomination for President.

The State

Two more Chicago policemen were indicted by a special federal grand jury investigating extortion by policemen. Thirteen policemen now have been charged with shakedowns of businessmen.

Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie and Sen. Charles H. Percy said they are urging the federal government to return 170 acres of Fort Sheridan along Lake Michigan to public use.

The War

53 Extension Gets Varied Reaction

by JEAN CAFARELLA

The new extension planned for Rte. 53 north of Dundee Road is creating mixed emotions among residents of the Palatine and Long Grove areas. Rte. 53, when completed, will extend from Interstate 80 to Wisconsin, skirting just west of Buffalo Grove.

Several small roads between Dundee Road and Long Grove Road will be cut off by the new extension and will not have interchanges, which will cause some residents to travel farther to get onto Rte. 53. Dorothy Lane, Hicks Road and Nichols Road will be closed where they will intersect.

Some residents are happy about it, thinking it will make their area more private. "I'm glad," said Mrs. Janis Fadzak of Box 163A Hicks Road, Palatine. "Because 53 will block off this road and we won't have as much traffic from the

Ray Fassbender of Box 160, Rte. 1, Palatine, is not against the Rte. 53 extension, but "not for it, either." The possible increase in traffic in his neighborhood doesn't bother him, since "as it is, people race up and down Hicks like crazy."

There is the possible problem of the new road bringing more traffic, more industry, and more metropolitan problems. Though Fassbender doesn't think the traffic will eventually make the area more metropolitan, Mrs. Patricia Apostolakis does. She lives at Coach and Hicks Road, and said she would rather have Rte. 53 about five miles away.

"IT'LL CAUSE pollution and noise, and I'm not happy about it at all. There are some lovely homes around here, and if it's going to be a big highway some of them may have to be ripped up," she said.

Greg Armstrong, who resides on Rte. 1 at Pussy Willow Farm, Palatine, feels that closing off the smaller roads will be inconvenient. He will have to go to Dundee Road to get on the new extension.

"For those interested in the country, it'll cause problems," he predicted. "They're zoning for apartments at Hicks and Nichols roads, and they're trying to buy the farm across the street for apartments." He said there are quadromiums going up in the vicinity already.

"I don't like expressways — at least not where I want to live. If I can't see it or hear it, okay, but if it brings industry in and the area is rezoned, I'm not going to like it if it starts to resemble Rolling Meadows or Elk Grove Village," said Armstrong.

Two Join Sorority

Two Arlington Heights coeds were recently initiated into the Alpha Sigma Alpha sorority at Eastern Illinois University, Charleston.

Mary Beth Dority, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James L. Dority, 1014 W. Grove, and Kay Hankins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn A. Hankins, were both initiated into the sorority.

grade teacher at Kensington School.

Windsor School's new principal will be William A. Roy, who has been a placement consultant at the University of Illinois in Urbana for the past two years. Roy has been teaching in Villa Park and Hoffman Estates, as well as a principal in Forest Park.

OTHER ADDITIONS to the district administration will be Kenneth Swanson as principal of Patton School, and Mrs. Bernice Gliedge as part-time building principal at Berkley School and part-time math consultant to the district.

Swanson, 29, has been a principal in Parkview, Ill., for the past three years.

Mrs. Gliedge, an Arlington Heights resident, was a member of the Dist. 214 Math Department at Prospect High School last year. She worked in various math departments in Dist. 25 from 1964 to 1971.

The only new position at the building administration level will be that of Mrs. Gliedge. According to Strong, the position of Berkley School building principal has been part of the long-range plan of the district.

Everybody in Arlington Heights is invited over to our place this weekend.

This weekend, we're inviting you and your family, your friends and neighbors, in fact your whole community, to come out to Lake Carroll and have an old-fashioned good time. And as far as we're concerned, that means plenty of fun and games and plenty of good food.

A Day in the Country— Here's what the menu looks like for both Saturday and Sunday: Hot barbeque chicken, baked beans, creamy cole slaw, rolls, and gallons of tangy iced tea. And it will all be served outdoors, picnic-style, on tables, or blankets spread on the ground, whichever you prefer. You can eat as soon as you arrive, if you want to, (the fun begins at 11 a.m. both days and continues until dark) but we suggest that you wait a while because you'll have lots of opportunity to build up a real

Mid-western appetite during the day.

Remember Your Sneakers— In addition to taking a tour of the Lake Carroll property and seeing what a magnificent year-round recreational development this is going to be, you'll also be able to compete for fun and prizes at volleyball, basketball, softball, badminton, and horse shoes. And by way of letting you catch your breath, we'll have wagons and mountains of nice soft hay for hay rides. The kids will love the wagon rides and they'll also love our Animal Farm, a special area set aside for watching live chickens, ducks, sheep and other animals native to this part of Carroll County.

Everything Is Free— Everything that you eat or do at Lake Carroll this weekend will be absolutely free. All we ask is that sometime during the day, you allow us to show you the property and tell you about our plans for making Lake Carroll into the most exciting recreational spot in the Mid-west.

Remember, the Day in the Country is this coming weekend, Saturday and Sunday. The fun starts at 11 a.m. both days and continues right up until dark, so you can come anytime. Come early or late, whichever suits you best, but be sure to come. We guarantee it's going to be a picnic for everyone.

Strange Things Are Happening

by CINDY TEW

Anyone who thinks Arlington Heights is a sleepy bedroom community devoid of mystery and intrigue should have been with me Tuesday morning.

It all started when I tried to sneak past the telephone operators and receptionist on my way into the Herald office. They had a lookout posted for me.

"Cindy, come here," our receptionist, Helen, said anxiously. I thought it was just to hand me the usual bunch of messages.

She connected two calls to the proper extensions, then rolled her eyes around the room before starting to speak.

"I received a strange call for you this morning," she began in a voice just above a whisper. "It was a man who refused to identify himself. He said if you were still interested in the Fender case, go to 465 S. Bell St. (fictitious), and pick up a brown envelope."

(The Fender case involves John D. Fender, a former teacher at Miner Junior High School, who was charged with battery June 9 by the parents of one of his students and fired by the school board on June 29. He recently filed suit against the district for deprivation of his civil rights in connection with his release.)

NATURALLY I WANTED to know whose house, and if there was anything in the brown envelope that was worth my time to fetch. Helen said she couldn't find out — the man refused to say anything else.

Helen suggested I bring an escort if I decided to pick up the envelope. Maybe it was new evidence in the case — maybe it was a time bomb.

My imagination went wild with the possibilities. All those Nancy Drew mystery stories of my childhood passed before me. I couldn't write another story until I found out what, if anything, was in that brown envelope.

I told my staff that if I wasn't back shortly to send someone after me. (The last time I did that, the entire staff vacated the office before I returned — I knew I was on my own.)

I drove by the house a few times — it wasn't easy to find since it was one of those corner houses which could have been on either of two streets.

Through the door I saw a small grey-haired lady at the kitchen sink. There was nothing sinister about her. For sure, I thought, I'm either at the wrong house, or the whole thing is a hoax. But I knocked anyway.

"Hi, I'm Cindy Tew from Paddock, and I understand there's a brown envelope here for me," I said with some hesitancy.

The lady opened the door, let me in, and gave me a close inspection. "How do I know who you are?"

I CONVINCED HER that I was really me, and she went into the hall to bring out a thick brown envelope. With no further ceremony, she handed it to me. Would it self-destruct in 30 seconds? Was it emitting a toxic, but odorless gas?

Also, who was this elderly lady? I asked, and after some hesitation she answered.

"I'm Mrs. Jackson," she started. "I'm Edward Jackson's mother."

Edward Jackson is Fender's lawyer. And the mystery was solved — anticlimactically.

The envelope contained the recently filed law suit charging that the board of education had violated the civil rights of John Fender.

One question remains. Why didn't Jackson send or hand the formerly mysterious envelope to me himself instead of sending me to his mother? The suit was filed in a public court. If he wanted me to know about it immediately, what would be wrong with handling the matter straight-forwardly?

Maybe it's a Perry Mason syndrome — lawyers like intrigue. Later that day Jackson told me over the phone in a low voice "just remember, you don't know where you got that."

How could I forget? Thanks Edward Jackson, for spicing up my life.

Cindy Tew

Construction Site Owners Reject Federal Offer

Owners of a Lee Street and Ashland Avenue site, proposed for construction of a $2.5 million Des Plaines senior citizen apartment building, have apparently rejected a federal offer for sale of the site, and are seeking more money.

According to Des Plaines Mayor Herbert Behrel, the site owners have hired their own appraisers to refute the federal land-cost appraisal for the 1.2 acre near-downtown site.

Negotiations have reportedly been underway since late May, when the Cook County Housing Authority (CCHA) received notice from the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) that the site had passed a federal land acquisition cost test.

CCHA Director Victor Walchick, who was not available for comment yesterday, has said in past statements that the "fair market" appraised land cost for a senior citizen apartment site cannot exceed $1,000 for each planned apartment unit.

Because the senior citizen apartment building being planned for the site would have 128 units, the land could not cost more than $128,000.

CCHA architects have been working since mid-June to draw final building plans. These will be presented to HUD within the next six months, Walchick has indicated, and, if they are approved — and condemnation proceedings are not necessary — construction could begin during the first half of 1973.

The Lee-Ashland site is now occupied by several residences, a gasoline station and the Borkenhagen Refrigeration building. The land will have to be purchased from several owners, including the Mandas family, before the buildings could be torn down, according to Behrel.

The city of Des Plaines has not been involved in negotiations, because the CCHA is acting as the city's agent in developing the senior citizens building, according to a contract signed by the city in 1970.

The CCHA is planning to create a nine-story, two-wing building, which will "last 40 years," according to Walchick. According to preliminary plans, approved in early April, the building will be "V" shaped, with an entrance facing Ashland.

The yard surrounding the building will be landscaped with a 45-space parking lot and an entrance roadway.

The building will contain 128 one-bedroom apartment units. The preliminary plan approval was based on a HUD analysis of civil rights guarantees, and building finances, and by the North-eastern Illinois Planning Commission's studies of the proposed projects' environmental impact and consistency with regional plans.

North Western Rates Go Up 5 Pct. Tuesday

Commuter fares for riders on the Chicago and North Western Ry. will be going up 5 1/2 per cent Aug. 1 in the wake of a decision yesterday by the Illinois Commerce Commission.

The railway company had requested a 7 per cent fare increase but the commission said that figure was "excessive and not in the public interest."

Chicago and North Western officials said the company's suburban operations had a net income decrease of 9.3 per cent from 1970 to 1971 while expenses increased. They said the loss stemmed from a drop in passengers and increased labor costs.

Company attorneys told the commission that the increased fare would allow the railway to buy new equipment, to meet rising labor costs and to provide a fair return for net operating costs.

The fare increase is expected to bring an additional $2.8 million to the railroad.

Rate schedules from the Northwest suburbs one-way to Chicago are: Palatine, $1.40 old, $1.50 new; Arlington Heights, $1.35 old, $1.40 new; Mount Prospect, $1.25 old, $1.30 new; and Des Plaines, $1.15 old, $1.20 new.

Lawn Mower Theft

Thieves stole a lawn mower valued at $75 from the back yard of a west side Des Plaines home sometime Tuesday night.

Norman Eckert, 1236 Doreen Ln., told police he last saw his lawn mower in his backyard at 8 p.m. Tuesday.

6-District Cooperative

Data Setup To Save Schools $94,000

Officials at Maine Township High School Dist. 207 expect to save about $94,000 next year after joining a cooperative data processing operation with five other school districts.

The cooperative, which includes elementary and high school districts in Hinsdale and Downers Grove and an elementary district in Elmhurst, will cut the cost of data processing from $20 to $12 for each of Dist. 207's 11,650 students, officials say.

Next year, after initial expenses of installing equipment have been paid, the cost per student will go down to $10 a year and could be reduced even further if other school systems join the cooperative, according to Harold Markworth, Dist. 207 business manager.

THE INSTITUTE for Educational Research of Downers Grove, developers of the computer project, are seeking other school districts that are interested in joining the cooperative.

The computers and other data processing have been installed in the Dist. 207 administration office, 1131 S. Dee Rd., Park Ridge. The cooperative is paying $17,500 a year in rent to use the space. For Dist. 207, the new system replaces an older data processing system that was more costly and had a limited capacity.

In addition to the decreased cost, the new system will provide many more instructional, office, filing and information storage services, according to Thomas Kriewall, research analyst for Institute for Educational Research.

The new system computes enrollment figures, grade reports, classroom, course schedules, attendance and mailing lists;

Housing Commission To Meet Next Week

The new Des Plaines special housing commission will hold its first meeting at 8 p.m. Tuesday in city hall, 1412 Miner St., according to Des Plaines Mayor Herbert Behrel.

Ralph Martin, newly-appointed commission chairman, has told the Herald that the seven-member panel will meet to determine which city housing problems should be studied, to examine the responsibilities it has been given by the city council, and to establish its study procedures.

The commission may also decide whether it will study low and moderate-income housing, Martin indicated.

Commission members were appointed July 17. According to city council orders, the commission will conduct a year-long study, submitting quarterly reports plus a final year-end report.

scores standardized tests; manages the payroll; aids in school accounting; and draws up reports for school administrators and board members.

Students in business education will have access to the computers through terminal consoles located in each school building. The computers will be used in math and science courses and at the high school level they will be used to simulate social and business situations. At the elementary school level the system will be used to show primary students how computers work and will help intermediate students learn mathematics.

As interest in individual instruction increases the computers will be used to monitor each student's progress and reduce his competition with other students. In addition the computers will take over some of the teachers' many clerical duties and free them to work more closely with students.

THE COMPUTER SYSTEM has a huge data storage program containing information about students, their grades, activities and achievement. A security system is built into the information retrieval portion of the computers, which prevents unauthorized access to their information. Each staff member is given a number key and he must use it for identification when he seeks information about students, said Kriewall. Some staff members have almost complete access while others are restricted in varying degrees.

The cooperative is now using two computers, both housed in the Dist. 207 administration office.

The data processing center also will use tape recorded memory units for permanent data which can be printed out at a rate of 11,000 lines a minute, said Kriewall.

Richard Short, Dist. 207 superintendent, said locating the computers in the district's administration building will be to the school's advantage.

"It will speed up services, reduce courier costs, and offer many conveniences to the Maine high schools. In addition, by having the computers in the immediate vicinity, the district will save about $1,000 each year in telephone costs," he said.

Motorcycle Stolen

A motorcycle valued at $150 was stolen from the garage of a west side Des Plaines home, it was reported Tuesday.

Ronald Guthrie, 170 E. Thacker St. told police the motorcycle was taken from his unlocked garage sometime between last Thursday and this Tuesday.

This Morning In Brief

The World

A British court ordered the immediate release of five imprisoned longshoremen, apparently averting a proposed one-day national strike called for Monday by the 10-million member British Trade Union Congress.

A day of mourning was called by Protestant groups for victims of the Irish Republican Army's "Bloody Friday." It came as military sources said a British army assault on IRA strongholds in Londonderry may be imminent.

U.S. grand master Bobby Fischer, who was convinced he would win the seventh game of the world championship chess match, had to settle for a draw against titleholder Boris Spassky of the Soviet Union. After the game, the unpredictable Fischer surprised Icelandic organizers of the $250,000, 24-game match by promising to reconsider his demand to bar television cameras from the Icelandic Chess Hall and summoned the producer for the American Broadcasting Co. ABC which owns the rights to film the games.

The Nation

Democratic Party reaction to Sen. Thomas Eagleton, after his disclosure of his past psychiatric treatment, was generally favorable. Chicago Mayor Richard Daley called Eagleton "honest and straightforward" and "a great American."

President Nixon, hoping to turn election-year spending increases into a political liability for the Democratic Congress, vowed to veto any bills that threaten his budget. He said he was determined to avoid higher taxes and increased inflation.

Gov. George Wallace said he would not attend the American Independent Party's convention in Louisville, Ky., next week, but withheld comment on whether he would accept the party's nomination for President.

The State

Two more Chicago policemen were indicted by a special federal grand jury investigating extortion by policemen. Thirteen policemen now have been charged with shakedowns of businessmen.

Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie and Sen. Charles H. Percy said they are urging the federal government to return 170 acres of Fort Sheridan along Lake Michigan to public use.

State Sen. Bernard Neustein's attorneys filed a motion admitting he was not duly elected committee member from Chicago's 29th Ward. The suit challenging his election was dropped.

The War

The Market

Stock prices stumbled lower on profit taking and lack of interest in dull trading on the New York Stock Exchange Wednesday as traders rested on recent large gains. The Dow Jones average lost 1.88 to 932.57. It had gained more than 30 points recently. Declines outnumbered advances, 804 to 626, among the 1,744 issues crossing the tape. Turnover dwindled to 14,130,000 shares from the 17,180,000 traded Tuesday. Prices were lower in moderate trading on the American Stock Exchange. Turnover totaled 3,380,000 shares, compared with 3,630,000 traded Tuesday.

Dorothy Oliver

It is truly difficult to give up something you've been attached to for years — regardless of its incurable faults. More than once I felt like jumping out of the comfortable swivel chair as a beautician snipped away at the split ended, thin, and straggly heap on my head.

The era of long hair has passed.

The first time I had long hair was when I was 11. Those were the days of pony tails and everyone — but everyone — had their hair pulled tight around their heads and fastened to the point of pain with big, fat rubber bands. The higher the pony tail was on your head the better. Mine was so high it kept flopping over in my eyes.

I loved my pony tail. I loved to feel it swish back and forth and bob up and down when I walked. Then a rumor spread that by pulling your hair back tightly you were shutting off the circulation in your scalp and all your hair would fall out. When my mom heard that the pony tail came down and the hair got whacked off.

WEARING ONE'S hair long and straight was practically unheard of then. Hair was either naturally curly long or curly short or worn in a pixie. Since my hair would only hold a curl for 38 seconds and mom wanted me to follow in the feminine footsteps of my older sister (rather than plodding along in my tomboyish way) the pixie was out and the artificial curls were in.

Her decision for curls brought my first glibbie trip to the beauty shop for a "soft" permanent. "It's just for body... something to hold the natural curl," assured my mother. I walked through the door with limp, straight, dingy blond hair and walked out an hour later with friz that would have made a wire-haired terrier jealous.

Until I entered high school I alternated between growing out friz on top of my head or fresh, newly frizzed friz. I was still at an age where mother's say so was rule, not to be argued with and only to be complained about under the covers in the middle of the night.

Freshman year I found my voice. I begged, pleaded with and cajoled poor mom into letting me miss my semi-yearly permanent. I promised again and again that I'd set my hair every night (and during the day if necessary) to keep my hair looking nice.

THAT BEGAN A whole new era of my life: the time of the hair roller. Every night I sat in front of the mirror accompanied by setting gels, rollers, pins, clips, nets and sprays torturing my head and my hair. I hated and despised every female who had naturally curly hair and looked the same when they woke up in the morning as they did when they went to bed at night.

My hair — then at medium length — went through all the fads: the bubble, the page boy, the flip, the twist, and the beehive. Every morning I combed out and teased and styled and sprayed. No matter which style I wore by the end of the school day my hair was about a quarter twist from being absolutely straight.

Junior year posed an additional problem — swimming class first period of the school day. Getting gym first period was bad enough but swimming first thing in the morning was disastrous. For six weeks I did my best to keep my head out of the water. I nearly failed the class and generally saturated my head anyway.

I CONTINUED THE hair setting ritual for years. Mom would make periodic verbal attacks on the state of my tresses and then subtly slip in a pitch for "just a body permanent... something to give your hair a little life."

She got me one time after an hour spiel about how permanents have changed in the years since I last had one and how so-and-so and so-and-so had one and you'd never even know. I even went so far as to let her give it to me and we still argue to this day about whether I looked absolutely adorable or like a dishwasher scumming pad.

After the friz was again cut off I decided to let my hair grow. Everyone else in the world seemed to be letting their hair grow and I couldn't stand sitting there with rollers in my hair watching them prance by with their thick, carefree manes.

It took more than two years before my hair got to the length when rollers were no longer necessary. I felt released from a bondage only a woman could know.

For the longest time I managed to ignore the fact that I just didn't have the type of hair suited for length. My mop is thin — in both width and quantity — which suits it for nothing but being stuffed under a wig.

THIS SUMMER THE situation was undeniable. The heat and humidity made it get dirty fast, stringy almost immediately, and matted it to my head to the point where I looked like I was wearing a fringed skull cap.

I made my decision and my appointment at the beauty shop all in the same hour. Within three days I was sitting in the chair looking at the beautician and saying, "Do anything you want with it — just cut it so I look gorgeous and will never have to set it." Then I closed my eyes, not wanting to see three years' work hit the floor.

I wound up with something that's a cross between a "Jane Fonda" and a long shag. Every time I look in the mirror I stare and try to get to know myself again.

I knew mother would be happy so I called her as soon as I got home. There was a short pause after I finished telling her the news and then the almost expected reply...

"Why that's wonderful dear. Now all you need is a little body permanent... something to give that style a little life. Permanents aren't at all what they used to be. They've improved them so much..."

River Trails Urges 'Must' Land Donation Legislation

Legislation that would require builders of large housing developments to donate land or money to school districts is being urged by the River Trails Dist. 26 school board.

The board plans to contact Mount Prospect, Cook County and state officials to ask them to consider legislation that would require a donation. Both village and county officials are being contacted since parts of the district are unincorporated, according to Board Pres. Lloyd Demel.

"We're not attempting to coerce developers but want to make sure they pay their fair share in educating the children they bring in," said Demel.

Asked whether a $20 million condominium development proposed for a site within the district prompted the board's action, Demel said, "It's what got us talking about it." The development, which would be located on what is now part of the Rob Roy Driving Range in Prospect Heights and would be developed by Kenroy Inc., would include 544 units with one, two and three bedrooms.

DIST 26 Supt. Thomas Warden said he felt it would be difficult to get such legislation. "I think history is against us on that one," he said, referring to an Illinois Supreme Court decision in 1932.

The court then decided in favor of builder Salvatore DiMucci, ruling that he was not obligated by a Mount Prospect ordinance to donate land to Elk Grove Township School Dist. 59. The court ruled that builders did not have to give land to a school district without just compensation.

"Besides, all evidence has said that developments produce more revenue per child than it costs the district to educate them," Warden said. "School districts and other taxing bodies usually tend to profit."

Demel pointed out, however, that a district does not receive tax funds from the development until at least one year after the development has been opened to residents. He said developers should help pay for the one year of expenses.

MOUNT PROSPECT Mayor Robert Teichert said he is doubtful that such legislation would stand testing in court. He said, however, that there are other means to induce builders to donate land, including preannexation agreements. The Kenroy property is currently under consideration for annexation to Mount Prospect.

Village Atty. John Zimmermann said he had no opinion on the issue. However, he pointed out that some municipalities have passed such an ordinance, based on the home-rule provision of the new Illinois Constitution.

Naperville officials a year ago passed such an ordinance, which has not yet been challenged in the courts, according to Marvin Glink, Naperville city attorney. Glink said the ordinance, passed before the home-rule provision went into effect, requires a developer to contribute land or money for school and park sites.

The amount of land or money for schools is based on the number of the children who lived in the development and are educated in the district. The amount for parks, he said, is based on the number of residents in the development since they automatically become park district residents.

Glink said he believes the Naperville ordinance would hold up in court. "It's got standards built into it that the Mount Prospect ordinance didn't have," he said. "We're just asking developers to pay their fair share."

Wage Dispute Under Study

The High School Dist. 214 board of education and teachers association each told its side of the story Monday in a meeting held before a fact-finding board called in to help resolve their dispute on the 1972-73 teachers salary contract.

The board bargaining team and the Dist. 214 Education Association met most of the day with the fact-finding board, made up of one representative from each side and a professional arbitrator selected through the American Arbitration Association.

Following the session, the arbitrator told both sides he will prepare a report on the dispute to be submitted for their consideration, according to a district spokesman. However, the arbitrator said he would not be able to have the report within the next 21 days, as required by the district's bargaining procedures.

Ogilvie To Speak At Groundbreaking

Illinois Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie will speak at groundbreaking ceremonies for a $9 million expansion program of Alexian Brothers Medical Center at 11 a.m. Aug. 6 at the hospital on Blisterfield Road in Elk Grove Village.

The expansion includes a two-story community health building and a five-story ambulatory care center which would be connected with the existing main building.

More than $1 million has already been raised in gifts and pledges which will allow construction to begin, according to hospital officials.

BROTHER FERDINAND Leyva, hospital administrator, said the new facilities were designed to provide 17 times the existing space for out-patient, ambulatory and preventive care programs and five times the current facilities for emergency aid.

"We are moving ahead before our building fund goal is reached because the need is now and because we know the communities we serve will continue to support our efforts to become a total health care resource," Brother Ferdinand said.

The planned emergency center will be located in the Pavilion for Community Health which also will house the out-patient department.

In the first phase of construction, a two-story building was completed and is now in operation, housing programs in psychiatric care and rehabilitation medicine.

ARCHITECTS for the project are E. Todd Wheeler and the Perkins & Will Partnership. The general contractor is D. J. Velo Construction Co. of Chicago.

The new construction is scheduled for completion in late 1974.

Marcella Lettis Niehoff, campaign chairman and chairman of the board of the C. E. Niehoff auto parts manufacturing firm has said more than 300 donors, including major national and area corporations, have contributed to the hospital building fund.

Astronaut Neil Armstrong spoke at an annual spring benefit dinner of the Alexian Associates for Community Health in May honoring the contributors.

The original building of the medical center was built in 1966.

Mrs. Nicklas Keeps ICCTA Post

Jessalyn Nicklas, chairman of the Harper College board of trustees, has been reelected secretary of the Illinois Community College Trustees' Association.

Mrs. Nicklas was first elected to the office when the ICCTA was formed in 1970.

The trustees are represented by the ICCTA at the Board of Higher Education, the Illinois Junior College Board and other state agencies. The association also works closely with the Illinois Council of Public Community College Presidents.

Work on educational and other programs for the benefit of community college trustees is another part of the ICCTA operation, according to Mrs. Nicklas. She cited, as one example, a recent workshop which covered the legal and philosophical aspects of the trustees' position.

According to the ICCTA past president John M. Lewis of Carl Sandburg Community College in Galesburg, "Mrs. Nicklas is one of the most dedicated and hard working trustees in the state of Illinois. She has done an outstanding job in the work of the association."

Mental Health Center Views August Opening

A new mental health center to serve Elk Grove and Schaumburg townships may be in operation in August, Jordan Rosen, director of Elk Grove Village Community Service, said this week.

Community Service received a $52,000 grant earlier this month from the state to establish a mental health center to serve the two townships. Rosen said the new center would operate out of the present Community Service offices on Blisterfield Road in Elk Grove Village and possibly from space in the Schaumburg Township hall.

Rosen said his organization actually won't be recognized as a mental health center until a psychiatrist can be hired. "State funding will begin when the psychiatrist joins the staff, which hopefully will be in August," he said.

Rosen said he also has been interviewing prospective staff members, including two full-time social workers, a full-time outreach worker and a full-time secretary. The psychiatrist would be part-time, he said.

ELK GROVE and Schaumburg townships, along with Wheeling and Palatine townships, have been served by the Northwest Mental Health Clinic in Arlington Heights.

Rosen said he met with Dr. Eugene Trager, director of Northwest, and Bob Geigner, of the state mental health department, Friday to discuss the transition to the new mental health center.

"We (Community Service staff) also have been meeting with various groups in Schaumburg Township, including schools and churches, to tell them about the new mental health agency that will serve the area," Rosen said.

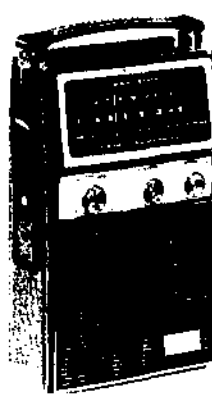

Community Service applied for a grant from the Illinois Department of Mental Health in January, but funds for the state agency were not approved by the Illinois Legislature until June. The Elk Grove Village office was notified of the grant by the governor's office this month.

DR. TRAGER had opposed the formation of the Community Service mental health center saying the move was "premature."

Rosen earlier said Community Service applied for a grant separate from the Northwest Mental Health Association because it was felt that it would be difficult for one agency to serve the four-township area adequately considering the expected population growth.

The Gospel According To Anderson

by TOM WELLMAN

The Ralph Nader of journalism stood up in front of 200 persons at Harper College Tuesday night and sharply attacked government secrecy.

"There's not one particle of difference between censorship in the Soviet Union and classification of documents in the United States," Jack Anderson told his audience.

Anderson is an expert on government classification, as his columns revealing the contents of secret documents during the India-Pakistan War won him a Pulitzer Prize earlier this year.

"Government . . . is your servant but it would like to be your master," Anderson told his audience. "Government is very subtly and quietly trying to control the flow of information."

GOVERNMENTS STAY in power by controlling the flow of information, or they get voted out of office, Anderson said. He reminded his audience that other governments besides the Nixon administration have managed news.

At the beginning of his speech, Anderson called both Richard Nixon and George McGovern "competent, honorable, basically decent, dedicated and devoted men."

Nixon, he said, is a "private and introverted man who lives in a shell. He's the most political President we've ever had."

"There are few men more competent at understanding the paperwork of the Presidency," But Nixon "avoids the clash, the spark of controversy" and "doesn't understand the human undercurrents and doesn't understand people — their passions, their feelings, their moods," he said.

While Nixon doesn't understand people, McGovern "has a compassion for them." But McGovern "is vague about problems" and solutions, said Anderson.

IN THE question-and-answer session after the speech, Anderson blasted the present Justice Department for "getting into politics" and prosecuting far more Democrats than Republicans.

Terming it an alarming development, Anderson said Nixon's campaign supporters were given "favors" by the Justice Department.

If Anderson has learned anything in "23 years at ringside in Washington, it's that no issue has a simple solution." And he listed three problems which, to him, had no such easy solutions:

—Crime: If you want to get rid of crime, you have to pay more, explained Anderson. Slogans, the peace sign or a "25-cent bumper sticker" won't end crime in this country.

—Poverty and hunger: Anderson directed his wrath at "23,000 oil millionaires who have collected more billions from taxpayers than all 23 million hungry Americans (have received)."

He said millionaires J. Paul Getty and H. L. Hunt have not paid more than $1,500 in federal income tax in the last few years. "I'm helping to drape their women in mink and sable," snapped Anderson.

He said one dependent child in Mississippi receives an average of $9.80 a month in welfare — while Miss. Sen. James Eastland, a Democrat, received $213,000 last year for not growing cotton on his farm.

"I didn't grow any cotton that year either," said Anderson.

—Vietnam: "I'm gonna tear your solutions to pieces," Anderson told his audience. "If you think you know the answer, then you're wrong."

The U.S. wasn't justified in being there in the first place, and should get out as soon as possible, he said. But North Vietnam has been just as aggressive as the U.S. government has been, and there is simply no easy way to end our involvement there, Anderson said.

BEFORE HIS SPEECH, Anderson said government secrecy has increased since the publication of the Pentagon Papers. "Our government simply doesn't want us to know the arguments against their policy . . . they hide errors, cover blunders and classify mistakes," he said.

And, at the end of his speech, before his audience gave him loud applause, Anderson stressed that, as an American, there were certain values which were especially important to him.

What To Do In Emergency Situations

More than 100 million Americans will take to the highways this year in pursuit of vacation pleasure. Chances are that many of them will be confronted with an emergency driving situation that allows little or no time for decision making — and many will make the wrong response.

The Chicago Motor Club offers these tips on what to do in emergency situations:

—BRAKE FAILURE. If your brakes fail, pump the pedal to build up enough pressure to restore some braking action. If this fails, apply steady pressure to the parking brake. Caution is necessary because the parking brake controls the rear wheels and you must be prepared to release the brake if the rear wheels lock. If your car has a manual transmission, downshifting also will serve as a braking force. Watch for an escape route, a safe exit from the highway and alert others to your difficulty by sounding your horn and flashing your lights. In extreme cases you may have to stop your car by other means, such as running along an embankment, driving into bushes or hedges or against a curb.

—TIRE BLOWOUT. The first thing to do if a tire blows out is to keep a firm and steady grip on the steering wheel, hold the vehicle on a straight course and concentrate on maintaining or regaining control. Never slam on the brakes. Ease up on the accelerator, allowing the engine to slow the vehicle, and once you have the car under control, apply the brakes with a firm and steady pressure. A front tire failure will cause the car to pull to the side; a rear tire blowout can cause weaving or fishtailing.

—RUNNING OFF THE ROAD. If you should run off the paved shoulder of the highway, maintain a firm grip on the steering wheel and keep the car traveling straight ahead straddling the pavement edge. Do not whip the vehicle back on the pavement. Next, ease off the accelerator so the car will slow gradually. Avoid braking if possible, but if necessary, use a gradual pumping action. Before returning to the pavement, make a complete visual check ahead, to the side and the rear. Never return to the pavement when a car is approaching. When the way is clear and your speed has been greatly reduced, turn the wheel sharply, permitting the vehicle to climb the pavement edge to get back on the roadway.

—FIRE. If a fire breaks out under the hood, turn off the ignition and all other electrical switches. Use a fire extinguisher if available. If not, use a blanket to smother the fire. Since fires usually are from electrical short circuits, use a jack handle to rip out all burning wires. If the fire is out of control, move at least 100 feet away since the gas tank may explode.

Thieves Steal $2

Thieves broke into a Des Plaines newspaper agency Monday night and stole two dollars in cash from an office.

According to police, thieves broke into a rear window at the Chicago Daily News Agency, 967 First Ave. and stole the money after rifling files and desk drawers.

Steal Rug, Chair

A rug valued at $190 and an $85 arm chair were reported stolen from a Des Plaines mobile home sales lot Tuesday night.

Police said thieves broke into one of the model mobile homes through a side patio window and removed the rug and chair.

Await Storm Damage Figure

School officials still don't have a complete estimate of the damage done more than a week ago by tornado-like winds at Forest View High School, but are taking steps to start repairs.

The High School Dist. 214 board of education authorized officials to seek bids on repairs for the roof of the school's gym, parts of which were ripped off by the storm.

Assistant Supt. Robert Weber said bids would be sought for a straight repair of the roof and also for remodeling to replace the present roofing material.

Weber said the district's insurance company will pay all costs of straight repair, but the district will have to pay for any remodeling that is done.

He said the roof has caused problems in the past because of leaks. He said it was unlikely the entire gym will be repaired by the time school starts because the gym floors, seriously damaged by rain, cannot be replaced until the roof is repaired.

He said he hasn't the "slightest idea" of the total cost of repairs because neither the district's architects nor the insurance adjusters have given "even a ballpark estimate."

In addition to the roof damage and the water damage on the gym floors, a number of driver's education cars and the press box on the football field were damaged in the storm.

Truly fine living in a home designed and built for you.

Sportsman's Notebook

by Bob Holiday

THE NORTHERN ILLINOIS Chain of Lakes, at one stage some three feet above normal water level, is now something more like a foot and a half high and dropping slowly. And fishing the Chain lakes should be about back to normal by this weekend.

According to Bob Lang — who operates the Bob Lang Fishing Center on Lake Marie, about the middle of the Chain — walleyes continue to be the most surprising news of the 1972 season.

"We've always caught walleyes," says Lang, "but in previous years they were plentiful only through the spring months. But this year they are still coming in. There's a good sandbar in the middle of Lake Marie, our 'walleye bar,' and if you hit it at the right time you generally can pick up one or two."

Walleyes are answering most consistently to the Lindy Rig baited with a night crawler and back-trolled very slowly over the underwater rock and sandbars. Last week's walleyes included a seven pounder, so this summer's walleye action is no fluke. There obviously is a good population of these tasty pike in Lake Marie.

Lang also reports that the largemouth bass are continuing at their usual good mid-summer pace, oblivious to the high waters. Best results are with Lang's own Raider, single-spin lure, and with plastic worms.

"Stripers are running about 7 feet," says Bob, who adds that the most productive way to troll for them is with a small spinner-jug combination, similar to the popular river-rigs.

"Some of the best fishing," says Lang, "is for stripers and crappies at night. It's beautiful on this lake at night. (He answered the next question before it was asked.) "You'll have mosquitoes only for about an hour after dark. But then they disappear and it's beautiful and comfortable... and darn good fishing."

Anglers heading for the Chain of Lakes in the near future have not only a fairly good fishing population going for them — if they know where to go — but they can also enjoy a full day of fishing without driving for hours to get there.

For the guy or the family who just want to "go fishing" and they don't really care what they catch, live bait will be the most productive. On nite crawlers you can take just about any of the fish that swim the chain, all you have to do is put the nite crawler in the right place... right depth... etc. For crappies and stripers, minnows are the choice.

There have been relatively few northern pike caught this season in the Chain of Lakes, and Lang believes this fight be partly because so many of the good fishermen have abandoned the old stand-by Spoonplug rigs in favor of plastic worms and Raiders.

"I think most of us agree that, all other things being equal, it's more fun to catch a good bass on spinning equipment than it is to troll with heavier tackle," says Lang. "But there's no getting around the fact that the Spoonplug is still one of the most effective lures for all kinds of fish, especially northern pike."

"Does he believe the northerners are there... that it just might take a good Spoonplug to find them?"

"That could well be," he answered. "Largemouth bass are at the dropoffs and you need a plastic worm or a Raider," he said. "And you have to remember that those are two very different lures. You can't work them alike at all. "Normally by this time of year we've had a dozen or so real lunker northerners... but not this year. And, at the same time, you'll notice there aren't too many Spoonplugs working the lakes."

How would he fish the Chain if he were coming up for the first time this season?

"For walleyes," says Lang, "you need a Lindy Rig and big, fat night crawlers. And you will be more effective if you troll. You have to find the sandbars and work them back and forth."

"I'd troll Spoonplugs if I was looking for big northerners. They ought to be swimming the same waters the largemouth bass are working, except the northerners may be up shallower and further into the weedbeds."

"Largemouth bass are at the dropoffs and you need a plastic worm or a Raider," he said. "And you have to remember that those are two very different lures. You can't work them alike at all."

"You cast the plastic worm from the boat toward the shoreline and work it back to the dropoff where the bass are working. And you have to work it painfully slow, so slow that you're sure you're working it too slow."

"The Raider, on the other hand, you can work faster. It's a spinner lure and you can just skim the tops of the weeds with it or you can work it right on the bottom, just letting it limp along with the blade fluttering. Or you can let it fall down through heavier weeds and brush. It's a very versatile lure."

"And if I were fishing for stripers or crappies or catfish, "I'd definitely go night fishing... first of all because that's the best time to catch them... and second because that's a very pleasant time to fish. No power boats, no water skiers, no mosquitoes..."

But Lang won't be night fishing this weekend, or any other weekend, since his Fishing Center is open 24 hours a day from Friday thru Monday morning and daylight to dark weekdays. Bait, guides, information, boats for rent, coffee, food, etc. Telephone 395-0112 for any other details.

Coaches Expect Wide Open Tournament

Park Ridge Draws Top District Seed

by TOM CARKEEK

Gene Sackett, chairman of Ninth District baseball, announced the pairings for the league tournament Wednesday morning and no matter what happened in the Park Ridge-Logan Square game last night, Park Ridge has been awarded the No. 1 seeding.

The tournament will begin at 5 p.m. today at three sites around the league with the first-place team playing the last-place club, second vs. fifth and third vs. fourth. Only six of the seven Ninth District teams will have to compete in the district tourney since Arlington Heights has already gained a berth in the state finals by hosting the affair.

Thus, it will be Park Ridge against winless Schiller Park at Maine South, Logan Square taking on Norwood Park at Recreation Park, and Des Plaines colliding with Palatine at Forest View High School. The tourney is a double-elimination setup, so no squad will be expelled until Friday.

The unusually close race in the Ninth District this year forced Sackett to compose a tournament schedule before the regular season play had been concluded. But Wednesday's two games, the Park Ridge-Logan Square and Des Plaines-Palatine tilts, would not have affected the seedings in the tournament. They would have influenced the regular league standings, however.

Going into Wednesday's action, Park Ridge stood at 12-5 with a half-game lead over Arlington Heights, which was 12-6. Logan Square was one game out at 11-6, so if Logan Square defeated Park Ridge yesterday, all three clubs would have 12-6 regular season marks. In that case, Sackett decided the fairest way to seed the teams into the tournament would be to "take the teams involved and look at the wins and losses against each other. That will decide the No. 1 team."

Using that criterion, even if Park Ridge lost to Logan it would be 4-2 overall against the Lions and Arlington by virtue of a 1-2 record against Logan Square and a clean 3-0 sweep over Heights. The Lions would be 3-3 (1-2 vs. Park Ridge and 2-1 vs. Arlington Heights) and Arlington would be 2-4.

So the worst that could have happened to Park Ridge was that it tied for first but was seeded first anyhow. Since Arlington is being permitted to bypass district and county preliminaries, Logan Square automatically assumes second seeding in the Ninth District playoffs.

This entire arrangement, of course, was predicated on the assumption that Logan Square defeated Park Ridge Wednesday. If instead Post 247 downed the Lions, Park Ridge would win the title outright with a 13-5 record and Logan Square would drop to 11-7 and finish third.

So who is the favorite in the Ninth District tournament? Actually, the league was so evenly-balanced (with the exception of Schiller Park) that the four coaches of the area teams in the tourney are, understandably, a bit hesitant to single out any one club as the likely champion. However, Logan Square and Des Plaines seemed to draw the most support from coaches Jerry Romes of Park Ridge, Bob Grybash of Palatine, Merv Fink of Des Plaines, and Larry Nomellini of Logan Square.

Grybash was the most direct in his opinion that Logan Square may be the team to beat. "Pitching is the name of the game, and anyone with three good pitchers like Larry has got to be considered a favorite," Grybash said. "But Des Plaines and Park Ridge are tough too. Anyone of them could take it. You could just about pick them out of a hat."

Fink said, "Logan Square would have to be my pick because of their pitching, but really I don't see anybody better than we are." Fink added that his squad would be hurt by the apparent loss of pitcher Rick Haaning for the entire tourney. Haaning broke a bone in his foot against Arlington Heights Sunday.

Nomellini was non-committal insofar as a prediction, saying, "Well, I think we have as good a chance as anyone because our pitching rates with the best, but I have no predictions. It'll be very close."

When asked who his pick for tourney champion was, Romes replied "Us. We're in first place and we're hitting .285 as a team, so you can't go against the statistics. If we're healthy we should be right in there."

But Romes revealed that his squad may not be healthy. Starting catcher Mike McDonnell and leading hitter and third baseman Russ Anderson are ailing, according to Romes, and this may cause him some worry during the tournament. McDonnell "should be all right," but Romes rated Anderson as "questionable."

Other than his own team, Romes ranked Des Plaines as the favorite. "I think the pitching around the league is pretty even and hitting should win the tournament," he said. "To me, Des Plaines is the toughest-hitting club I've seen."

The Ninth District tournament, then, looks wide open to the coaches, and they should know best. We'll all know by next Monday.

First National Captures Second-Half Pennant

A game that started July 17 directly decided the second half champion of the Mid-Teen National League Tuesday night.

First National, completing two partly completed contests with the Elks, split the strange doubleheader but still clinched the title.

The champs won the first game, 13-6. It had begun on July 17 but was stopped when First National tried to beat the darkness by making some quick outs. The umpire would have no part of it.

Intermediate Standings

The Des Plaines Park District boys Intermediate baseball program got back into action after several washouts due to rain, and the league leaders continued their winning ways. The same league leaders continue to dominate their league play at their respective parks. Intermediate league standings at the four parks after five weeks of competition are as follows:

SOUTH PARK

SCORE BY INNINGS

Elks ..... 042 106 0 — 13-10-2
First National ..... 000 132 0 — 6-11-1

Picking up on the "broken arm" game, First National held the Elks scoreless to win 6-2.

Vaia drove one home in the first for the winners with a single. Leon Wilkins doubled in another in the fourth. However, it took the clutch hitting of Bill Carl and Joe Littwin with RBI singles in the fifth to allow the bank team to pull away.

Rapping the big RBIs for the Elks were John Brust and Heyse in the fourth, but the losers couldn't do anything after that. Carl and Wilkins combined for a five-hitter. Ron Schroeder went the distance in defeat despite striking out nine.

SCORE BY INNINGS

Newlyweds Build A Home

Not only are Linda C. Biebel of Mount Prospect and John R. McCabe of Chicago newly married but they are awaiting moving day into a new home in Palatine. The couple exchanged vows July 1 in St. Cecilia Church, Mount Prospect.

Until their home is ready for occupancy, Linda and John are living with the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Biebel, 1823 Willow Mount Prospect. John is the son of the Earl McCabes of Chicago.

The Biebel family formerly lived in Des Plaines, where Linda attended St. Patrick Academy. She earned a degree in education at Northern Illinois University in 1971 and has been teaching in the Barrington school district. Her husband studied at Wright Junior College and is with Carpet Mates, Chicago.

AS SHE ENTERED the sanctuary the bride wore an ivory organza gown lavishly trimmed in beaded swiss lace. Appliques of the lace dotted the bodice with its long sheer sleeves and formed a graceful pattern on the front of the A-line skirt and chapel train. Linda chose a Camelot headpiece of lace and a triple-tier elbow-length veil. Her bouquet was of ivory daisies, stephanotis and natural baby's breath.

Peggy Brockman of Mount Prospect was Linda's maid of honor, wearing a navy blue Empire dress with gold trim. The bodice of navy blue knit was complemented by a skirt or ribbon seersucker striped in gold, green, orange, yellow and lavender, with a wide ruffle at the bottom.

Peggy carried a colonial bouquet of white carnations and deep blue straw flowers surrounded by camille leaves and tied with gold streamers.

THERE WERE three bridesmaids, all attired identically to the maid of honor. They were Mrs. Sheri McCabe, Itasca, the groom's sister-in-law, and two of the bride's friends, Barb Furlong and Corinne Ufferman of Chicago.

Phillip McCabe was his brother's best man and another brother, Donald of Itasca, ushered along with the bride's brother Michael, Glendale Heights, and Jerry Watson, Chicago.

Linda's cousins, Lisa and Lance Joaquin of Palatine, were also in the wedding party. Lisa, 11, was flower girl and Lance, 12, ring bearer.

A reception at Casa Royale in Des Plaines feted the newlyweds, after which they left for a week's honeymoon in Las Vegas.

The Potting Shed

by Mary B. Good

A vacation in southern California is a real revelation to a first-time visitor from the Midwest.

For the gardener, it's even more of a shock. Forget all those illusions of lush, green tropical heaven. The region is desert soil, it's brick hard clay. A popular soil conditioner there is called, 'adobe buster.' The people 'don't' garden with a rake and hoe. They need pick axes.

We who are familiar with the scoop-plunk cover method of planting because of our friable soil, would not be able to grow a weed in California.

THE BIG PRODUCE ranches irrigate by elaborate water systems or they have no produce. No one has wells. All the water is conducted hundreds of miles by aqueduct systems from the Sacramento and Colorado River valleys. In spots where small fruit growers could not longer hold their land because of high taxes, orange and apricot groves, with trees like grey skeletons, die from lack of water.

We were fortunate enough to pick Bing cherries (50 cents a head in the grove, all we could eat and 40 cents a pound for carry out) apricots (free), oranges, 10 pounds for $1, lemons 50 cents a bag and we brought back 60 pounds of fruit on the plane. My California sister called it an exercise in lust.

Great fun was climbing enormous ladders in the cherry groves, swaying in the treetops like Tarzan, communing with the birds in their nests, and scooping up fistfuls of juicy Bing cherries.

THE TRIP TO Cherry Valley, Calif. and up to Mile High Ranch is second only a trip to Shangri-la. Nestled in the mountain tops of the San Jacinto Mountains high above the clouds, it is a scene of undefinable beauty, a real attraction for nature gourmets.

This trip included many of the garden-oriented, but off-beat spots in out-of-the-way places not generally included on the usual itinerary — and free too!

Take Forest Lawn Cemetery for instance. It is the living end, a grandiose park like Eden where surroundings are so glamorized it's real easy to forget the place is actually a cemetery at all! But like Hollywood, the place has an inbred flair for dramatization. Shaded arbors, heavy statuary, formal gardens

Forest Lawn is to landscaping what Cecil B. DeMille was to movies. Forest Lawn attracts not only the movieland and other 'dear departed', 55,000 persons have been married there. Bizarre? Take a trip and judge for yourself, if you're planning a California vacation.

SEVERAL OTHER good flower-related stops I'd recommend to other southern California tripsters include Descanso Gardens (LaCanada, Calif.) where one can view the American Rose Society trial gardens, an 800 plant rosarium walk through paths of tropicals or have a cup of tea and a bamboo basket of almond cookies for 40 cents served in a Japanese tea house by a kimono clad Oriental maiden.

At the UCLA gardens in midtown Los Angeles, I saw my first bunya bunya tree, while beneath it sat a girl playing a flute, reminding me vaguely of a spring fertility rite presided over by Pan.

There is nothing more peaceful than enjoying a picnic lunch at the Tucker Hummingbird Sanctuary (in Modjeska Canyon, Orange, Calif.), another crowdless spot this one administered by the California State College at Fullerton. While we munched sandwiches dozens of Anna's black-chinned hummers buzzed past our heads.

HARDY HIKERS at the sanctuary climb Harding Canyon. There's also a Baille trail and a chance to become a volunteer naturalist in a summer program.

I heartily recommend the tidal pools at Corona del Mar to all who enjoy the flora and fauna of the ocean. Rare shells, rocks, crabs, limpets, tube mollusks, etc. all are trapped in the little pools, made by rock formations. Of particular interest is the sea anemone, which looks like a sunflower but is a sea animal which closes up when touched.

And if you must accede and take the kids to Disneyland, there is something to be said for the landscaping there. The evergreen topiaries in front of the 'It's a Small World' attraction are beautifully executed creations of Disney characters sculptured in yew, juniper and boxwood. And the formal gardens will help you get your mind off how much the whole gig is costing you!

California? It sure is fun for garden and nature lovers!

The Home Line

by Dorothy Ritz

This is the time of year when requests come for the ingredients used in old-time balsam liniment and how one gets balsam seed. Have no idea of where to get the seed, nor do I know of any nurseries that carry the plant. It's one of those perennials.

People who know what they are, see them growing and ask for one or two of the balsam apples. It's been so long since the recipe has been published, I am delighted to repeat Allan Trout's version of this old country liniment.

Put a cut-up ripe balsam apple in a quart jar, add 4 ounces witch hazel, 2 ounces wintergreen, 2 cakes camphor and fill the rest of the jar with rubbing alcohol. Let it stand from 24 to 48 hours and it's ready. Does anyone need reminding it's for external use only?

Dear Dorothy: Help! I love making doughnuts, but can't keep them fresh for even one day. I've tried waxed paper, foil, covered casserole, but the day after I make them they're soggy. Do you have any ideas? —Deborah Cavanah

Try freezing them or putting them in an airtight cookie tin.

Dear Dorothy: Is there a way to keep an aluminum frying pan from warping? —Miss Betty Garton

None I know of. If the metal is too light, it can warp. You can correct it without too much trouble, however. Heat the pan (with nothing in it, of course) and take it outside to a concrete step. Put a wood block inside and hammer it until the pan is straight. Be careful or you'll burn yourself.

Dear Dorothy: You might tell me — James Willis who got some tile cleaner on her bathtub to try kerosene — S. Bern

Special Interests Plead Tax Cases

by ANNE SLAVICEK

Representatives of varied special-interest groups have been telling Cook County to 'tax the other guy' at a series of public hearings now under way.

The hearings, conducted by the office of County Assessor P. J. Cullerton, are being held under a provision of the new Illinois Constitution that allows reclassification of property for tax assessment purposes.

The decisions made by Cullerton, based on the recommendations of chief hearing officer Richard Michael of Loyola University, will have direct bearing on the dollar amount of tax bills issued next year to property owners throughout the county.

Cullerton is expected to set a percentage of the market value of property that will be used in determining property assessments.

UNOFFICIALLY in the past, single-family homes were assessed for tax purpose at approximately 22 per cent of their market value, while commercial, industrial and high-rise residential property was assessed at between 35 and 45 per cent.

Groups testifying at the Cullerton hearings are alternately proposing plans that would raise the percentage for industry, lower it for apartment owners or place more of the burden on single-family homeowners.

The percentages resulting from the hearings will set the dollar amount by which the total tax rate from all governmental units will be multiplied in determining the actual taxes due.

Cook County collects taxes for all of the governmental units serving Northwest suburban residents, including villages, school districts and park districts, as well as for the county government itself.

The county treasurer then redistributes the taxes collected to the various districts and municipalities that originally levied them.

AT THE HEARINGS Tuesday, a black painting contractor representing minority construction workers and a high-rise apartment developer speaking for the Greater North Michigan Avenue Association both called for a lowering of taxes paid by apartment building owners.

Stanley Goodfriend, president of the association, asked that the percentage for all apartment buildings be made the same as that used in assessing single-family homes.

In support of his position, Goodfriend said homeowners and owners of condominiums have tax advantages the renters lack.

A homeowner may deduct, in determining his income tax, his share of the real estate taxes and interest paid on a mortgage.

Moreover, "at the present time he has a considerably lower assessment base at approximately 50 per cent of the rate of rental high rises" and "if he is 65 years of age or older, he now has the right to the Homestead Exemption," Goodfriend said.

"The tenant, on the other hand, has the disadvantage of not being able to deduct his proportionate share of real estate taxes or interest paid in computing his federal and state income taxes, even though in effect he pays this to the owner of the property or his agent," he said.

GOODFRIEND said average renters demand little in services from the city. There are few school-age children, little need for fire protection and a minimum of police calls. Yet, for example, real estate tax bills on a single apartment in Carl Sandburg Village in Chicago are between $700 and $800, considerably higher than the average tax bill paid by a single family homeowner in Chicago, he said.

He proposed tax assessment percentages of 20 per cent of market value for farm land and government-subsidized housing, 25 per cent for vacant property other than farm land, 25 per cent for all residential property, and 40 per cent for all commercial and industrial developments.

His suggestions mirrored those proposed at an earlier session of the hearings by the Greater Chicago Committee.

Goodfriend told the committee that if taxes continue at such a high rate for high-rise apartment buildings in the city, "there will be little major new construction or rehabilitation, and the increased exodus from the city of people, industrial plants and commercial buildings will continue, and Chicago will be lost."

Goodfriend's proposal would mean a lowering of taxes paid by commercial establishments as well as by high rise apartment building owners.

But for single-family homeowners it would result in an average tax bill increase of $80, hearings chairman Michael said.

PAUL KING, representing the United Builders Association, testified that higher tax assessments in the Woodlawn and Lawndale areas of the city have meant an end to building maintenance in many medium-sized apartment buildings.

Because the building owners no longer can afford the maintenance costs due to high tax bills, minority contractors who make a substantial part of their living by repairing buildings have been suffering a loss of work, King said.

He said owners are abandoning buildings in the area and that the county is losing the taxes on them because the owners no longer find it profitable to continue to pay the taxes or operate the rental buildings.

King had no specific recommendations for new tax percentage estimates, however.

Representatives of Cook County School Supt. Richard Martwick has asked for an increase on the percentage assessment used on industry in earlier testimony Tuesday. They called for percentages used in assessing other property to remain the same.

AT A continuation of the hearings today, the president of the International Association of Assessing Officers, a South Side real estate agent, the South Side Builders Association and the Hegewisch Community Committee are slated to testify.

At an earlier series of hearings earlier this month Town Hall Assembly, the Chicago Real Estate Board and the Citizens Action program presented their members views.

The hearings on the tax assessment practices are expected to continue into August before all groups interested in influencing Cullerton's decision will have been heard.

Police Softball Team Nearing League Lead

The Des Plaines Police softball team will have a chance to move within a half-game of the front-running Skokie Police team Sunday morning when the two teams battle in a Northwest Suburban Police League doubleheader at Rand Park.

The Des Plaines Police, in third place two and a half games out of first, defeated the Niles Cops 19-4 last Sunday behind the batting performances of patrolman John Meese and Det. Jack Storm.

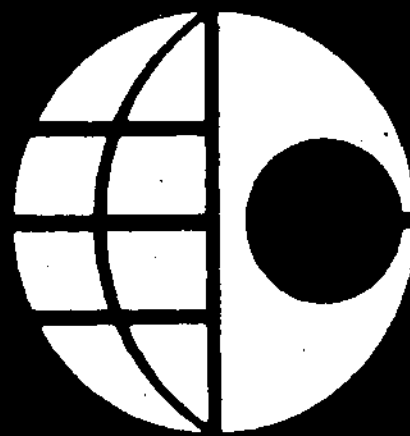

Meese had five hits in five trips to the plate and belted in seven runs. Storm added four RBI's as he collected four hits in four trips to the plate.

Winning pitcher Sgt. Bill Kuta allowed only two hits in the four innings he pitched, as Des Plaines won its tenth game in 15 starts.

Sunday's doubleheader begins at 10 a.m. There is no charge for the game.
